RAILROADS WILL PAY MORE TAXES

Assessor Sigler Doubles Rate on Mileage and Lists Bills Receivable.

O. R. & N. WILL BE HARD HIT

Must Pay on $47,000 for Each Mile, Besides Being Assessed for Over $16,000,000 That Heretofore Escaped Taxation.

Besides more than doubling the assessment of the railroads in Multnomah County, Assessor B. D. Sigler has assessed these corporations on a 75-per-cent valuation for all bills receivable. This is the first time in the history of the county that this asset has been considered tax-able, and means that the Oregon Raliroad & Navigation Company will contribute taxes to the county on an item of $16,-180,000 that has heretofore escaped taxation. All other corporations have been assessed on the same plan, by which has been added several millions of dollars of valuation to the county assessment roll.

In 1995 the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company was assessed $17,000 a mile for its roadbed and $3000 a mile for its for its roadbed and saws a limit of the rolling stock, on the main line, or a total assessment of $20,000 per mile. This year the company has been assessed $47.000 a mile for its roadbed and rolling stock. This estimate for assessing this carporation was based on its earnings. The average earnings of the corporation. The average earnings of the corporation in Multnomah County for the last five years was computed and considered 10 per cent of the capitalisation of the company. The capital stock of the corporation having been thus estimated, the value of $47,000 a mile was determined by dividing the capitalization by the number of miles of railway in operation. By the last report filed by the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company with the State Tax Commission it was reported to have cush on hand to the amount of $425,000 and bills receivable aggregating $21,013,000. Assessor Sigler contended that this asset should be assessed as other accounts are assessed, and listed these evicounts are assessed, and listed these evidences of wealth at three-fourths the sum total, or $16,150,000. total, or $15,190,000.

The assessment of the roadbed and roiling stock of the Northern Pacific Rallway Company was also increased this year to $47,000 a mile. For its main line the Southern Pacific will pay taxes this year on a valuation of $30,000 a mile for its roadbed and $3000 a mile for rolling stock. For its branch lines, the Fourthstreat and Jefferson-street divisions, the street and Jefferson-street divisions, the company has been assessed $29,000 a mile for roadbed and $2000 a mile for rolling

The liems referred to herein include The Items referred to herein include only roadbed, rolling stock and bills receivable of the different companies, and in addition to which the rallroads are also assessed for all other property they own in the county. All other transportation corporations operating in the county have been listed at proportionately high valuations, with the result that the asgregate of this year's assessment roll for Multnoman County will exceed $200,000,000, as has been announced.

Estimating the income in taxes from the item of $16,180,000 of bills receivable, with which the Oregon Rallroad & Navigation Company has been assessed this gation Company has been assessed this year, on the same tax levy that was made in 1966 and amounting to 18 mills, the county will receive from this one item the sum of $256,000.

BOUND FOR GOOSEFIELDS

Poor geese! What a trouble there is in store for those that are feeding on the wheat fields around Arlington. It isn't that death is lirking near them; it is only the fact that the explosion of four guns that left Portland last night will disturb them, for Ed Schiller, George Bills, S. R. Gnither and M. Keith have sone to Arlington to hunt geese. George Withrow, one of Arlington's best sunsh that the school of the sone to Arlington to hunt geese. George Withrow, one of Arlington's best sunsh that the school of the Bills, S. R. Gaither and M. Kelth have gone to Arlington to hunt geese. George Withrow, one of Arlington's best guns, telephoned Schiller yesterday that the geese were flying high. That was enough for the rope manufacturer. He spread the glad tidings along rue de Washing-ten and in the twinkling of an eye there was a bull tendency in the ahot and shell

George Bill will be the official "honker" and Keith, whose mother knows him best as Buck, will be the official retreiver. Leaded down with 19,600 shells, enough to kill off a Japanese army, the party left for the goose fields. Schiller was dressed for the goose fields. Schiller was dressed like a German cavalry soldier and Ruck Keith, who owns one patr of deneing pumps and a pair of rubber boots, had a hard time deciding which to wear. He finally decided on the rubber boots and when he appeared at Sixth and Washington with them on, there was a call for ton with them on, there was a call for the pelice. Bills was armed with two repeating shot gims that he doesn't know how to put together. He telegraphed ahead to a gunsmith at Arlington to meet him at the train and help put the machine in shooting order.

When it got noised around that the party was leaving the confines of Multnomah County, word was sent to Arlington that not a man in the party had a hinter's license. Schiller heard of this and it cost him $5 to send home to get his last year's permission to shoot. The last seen of him he was trying to change the date of the license. There may be geese in and around Arlington, but if any one of the four gets one it will be some ancient gander belonging to a farmer.

And Sousa has personally marked his own interpretation upon his own compositions, published in the Pianola Musical Library. Owners of the Pianola may play Sousa's spirited music in the precise manner intended by him. And Pianola owners may also play hundreds and hundreds of other compositions, written by other composers who have also personally marked their own interpretation upon the Pianola music. This is the advantage owners of the genuine Pianola have over those who possess players of other makes, none of which has this important and exclusive feature.
