tributed the defeat of his team. For the Academicians, "Speck" Hurlburg played the whole game. His terrific plunges broke up the East Side line and several times this player recovered fum-bled punts which meant a great deal to the Orange players. His work was the whole of the game. Ford, who played right tackle for the Academy team, was right tackle for the Academy team, was the weak spot on the line, and several times the High School lads made big gains through him. Settlemeler, too, proved a weak spot, and was frequently bowled over by the light High School players. On the whole, the Academy team played a good, steady game.

In the first half, the Academy took the kick off and booted the ball to the High School's le-yard line. High School punted back to the center of the field, and the Academy started a series of line bucks Circumstances Enough Against East quel Shows Poor Girl Is Innocent.

PROBABLY no one ever made a narrower escape from arrest than a domestic in the employ of an East Side family did yesterday.

The girl is of foreign birth and has no yet mastered English to any great extent, which is largely responsible for the combination of circumstances that came near her undoing. It is doubtful if so many damaging evidences of guilt could be found against an innocent person.

The young woman had occasion to visit a dentist's office to have her teeth treated, and upon returning to the place of her employment was told that the dentist had telephoned that she had carried off a set of furs belonging to another patient. The girl vigorously denied having done so. The mistress of the house went with the girl to her room and picked up a fur collar, and when the girl's eyes rested on the collar she turned red and stammered out an explanation her mis-tress was unable to understand. The girl soon after left the house to visit with a relative near by, and during her absence an examination of her room was made. In a shopping bag was found was made. In a shopping bag was found twice the amount of money she had carned since coming to the place, and the lady of the house remembered that when the girl sought the situation she was without money. In the bag was also found a pair of partly worn kid gloves that had belonged to her employer.

These suspicious evidences caused the lady of the house to have her confidence in the girl shaken and caused her pain, as the girl had made herself much beloved by the children of the family and up to that time had been trusted im-case looked bad, and the employer consulted with a neighbor as to what course to pursue. This neighbor believed in the girl and proposed that the two women should do a bit of quiet detective work. The matter of the fur collar was soon straightened out; it was simply that the girl had made a mistake and had taken what she supposed was the collar she had worn to the dentist's, and as she had borrowed it from a girl cousin, she was not certain of its appearance. Then the girl was asked about the money in her purse and how she came to be in possession of the gloves. It developed that she did not have enough money to settle then come to Portland and, on its return, one of the children of the house had given the gloves to her, having heard the mother say she had done with them. When asked why she was removing her belongings from the house after dark, the poor girl blushed furiously, but finally managed to have her employer. the poor girl blushed furiously, but finally managed to have her employer un-derstand that she was soon to be married

OF ASSOCIATION ACTION

Resolution to Reduce Standing of Pacific Coast, Southern and Western Leagues Is Tabled at National Baseball Meeting.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 .- Notwithstanding all the rumblings of discontent which have been heard during the last three days, while the representatives of minor baseball league organizations have been in session here, it is believed there will In session here, it is believed there willbe no upheaval in the ranks of the National Association of professional baseball leagues. President P. T. Powers, of the Twenty-three of the 36 leagues in the Association were personally represented. J. D. O'Brien, of Milwaukee, president of the American Association, submitted two resolutions which were adopted at a con-ference held in Chicago last Sunday. These were to the effect that the Pacific Coast, Southern and Western Leagues be reduced from Class A to Class B organi-zations and that the National Board be zations and that the National Board be reduced from seven to five members. Both resolutions were tabled. Another, asking that all future meetings of the National Association be held in Chicago, was adopted to the extent that next year's meeting will be held there.

Budge McCredie, of Portland, Or., invited the National body to meet in Seattle in 1909, and J. C. Ewing, the newly elected president of the Pacific Coast League, ex-tended an invitation to the Association to meet in San Francisco that year and then the go to Seattle as guests of the Pacific Coast League. These suggestions also were tabled,

The general impression was, however, that two years hence Seattle will be the center of attraction for the minor leagues and that after tomorrow's meeting all differences between the factions will be

Football, bowling and basketball have been forgotten by the majority of the club members, who are now engaged in doping out the coming meet.

The matches will start promptly at 8:30 in the large club gym. Jack Grant has consented to referee the fights, while Herbert Greenland will officiate at the mat events. Seats for 1500 people will be built in the gymnasium and everything put in first-class shape for the big event. The principal event of interest in the evening's sports will be the 175-pound boxing match. Ed Johnson, for years the club's best fighter, will represent the Winged M., while Sam Peck, a well-known Seattle man, will oppose him.

New Zealander Picks Filians as Exceptional Athletes.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 30 .- (Special.)-That the natives of Fiji would make splendid footballers is the opinion of Arthur Holmes, a young New Zealander, who has just arrived at Van-couver. Mr. Holmes, who recently stopped at Suva, Fijf, like all New Zealanders, is an enthusiastic Rugby man, and scratched up a team to go ashore and play football. The proceedings were watched with great inter-est by the Fijians, who promptly re-sponded to an invitation to join in the game.

Although playing in bare feet, they could kick the ball further than the white men, and showed a natural taste for the game that made the New Zealanders long for more time to coach them. The Fijians have splendid physical and a remaining the deer and the specific sp siques, and can run like deer, and their strength would probably be used to better advantage in the college game than in Rugby.
