More than 500 men were discharged and the constructing engineer had begun and the constructing engineer had begun to store the construction outfit, when the citizens of Umailila County joined in a vigorous protest to Harriman's agents in this state. Rather than see this muchneeded improvement abandoned when it was so nearly finished, they notified Mr. O'Brien that they would volunteer the necessary labor to complete the building of the road. It was this expression that moved the Harriman officials to take the action indicated in Mr. O'Brien's telegram to the Umailila County people.

to the Umatilla County people.

These citizens, in submitting their protest, called to the attention of the Harriman officials that more than 190 carloads of wheat and 20 carloads of apples were being held at Pilot Rock awaiting the completion of the road to Pendleton before these products could be marketed. It was further represented that unless the expected transported for the second of the care of the the expected transportation facilities were afforded these crops could not be trans-ported to market. Unless the road was built serious embarrassment, it was contended, would result to Pilot Rock, where a bank had been organized and established in business and numerous substantial investments had been made on the strength of the assurance that the line would be completed this Winter.

Aside from this exception Harriman has shown no inclination to relax in his re-trenchment policy in Oregon, by which work has been suspended on numerous extensions and improvements to the system. As a result hundreds of laborers have been thrown out of employment and it is entirely indefinite as to when these other improvements will be reother improvements will be rewith the North Bank road conditions

Will Address Railway Employes.

Aside from the social features which mark the monthly meetings of the street railway employes of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, these gatherings in the future will be supplemented by at least one address by a prominent citizen. At the November meeting, which will be held on the last Tuesday night this month, Prederickev Holman will be the speaker. These meetings of the company's employes were origiman will be the speaker. These meetings of the company's employes were originated by President B. S. Josselyn as a means for promoting the cordial relations between the officials of the company and the employes.

Improve Mount Scott Line.

The Portland Railway, Light & Power Company has ordered estimates for doubletracking all or at least a part of its Mount Scott line. If it should be decided by the company to add this improvement to its system it is not probable that the work will begin before next spring, since the materials could not be assembled before that time. The heavy traffic on this hyanch of the street railway system has suggested improved way system has suggested improved facilities for handling the business.

GIRL ATTACKED BY THUG

Miss Agnes Albers Dragged Into Sullivans Gulch, but Is Rescued.

While returning to her home at 574 Feast Twelfth street North, at noon yesterday, Miss Agness Albers, daughter of Bernard Albers, of Albers Brothers, millers, was seized by an unknown, undersized man on the bridge that spans Sullivans Guich, on Twelfth street, and was dragged beneath it. Her screams attracted Fred Stuart, a machinist, who can to her assistance, and her assailant fied. The police arrested one suspect, but he was released. Beyond the shock, the girl, who is 16 years of age, was uninjured.

Miss Albers is a student at St. Francis Academy, and was on her way home at the time of the assault. The unknown man rushed out of a clump of bushes near the end of the bridge and grasped her. With great violence, he carried her under the bridge, but her pieroing screams attracted too much attention, and he had to run to avoid capture. None of the men working in the vicinity segment to turn their attention toward the fleeing

OWNED BY J. D. FARRELL, OF SEATTLE, AND ENTERED FOR THE PORTLAND HORSE SHOW ·-----

'On my return home." said Mr. Farrell. "I am going to tell the Seattle people just what you have here and of the accommodations that you have made for caring for your visiting exhibitors and the fine build-ing you have for holding the show. We you have for holding the show, We very grateful to the Hunt Club for the interest they took in our show, and we are going to come to Portland to help swell the crowds at the show."

Everything is ready for the opening of the show. All the officers of the club worked nearly all night last night getting the programme in shape for the printer. The arrangement of the various classes, the placing of the order in which they are to be judged and the hour of judging each class has been a hard task, owing to the large entry list and the large number entries in many of the clauses.

FAMOUS FOR HER KISS

Olga Nethersole Is a Disciple of Stage Realism.

Olga Nethersole, the noted English artiste, is the foremost disciple of stage realism in any country today, and it is her earnestness and seeming-ly natural intensity that makes her acting so vividly effective.

In her realism, the great English actress maintains that a kiss is a kiss, n embrace an embrace, the same the stage as elsewhere. So realistically passionate is Miss Nethersole's acting that il years ago, when she first came to America, the klas she so frequently and fervently gave Don Jose in her performance of "Carmen," excited a great deal of comment, and finally became celebrated as the "Nethersole kiss." For several years in the press of this country the "Nethersole kiss" stood for the highest type of stage passion, and was more famous than the "Abbott kiss" ever was. Since the great English actress American public has come to know her better, and her disnified, realistic methods in all she does are understood, the "Nethersole kiss" has not attracted so much speaking of the effect that her realism had upon her audience, Miss Nethersole said: "In the last act of 'Carmen,' as you know, I am given my death blow from the dagger of my death blow from the dagger of Jose. I was conversing the other day in Denver with a doctor who had seen the play, and he remarked on the terrible realistic cry I gave after the dagger-thrust. He had only heard a cry just like that, he said, on a battle-field, when he was in South Africa. The fact is that when the dagger incident occurs I cry out just as I should probably do if I were really stabbed."
