

S o far the reduction on the wholesale prices of poultry does not make any very great difference in what the housekeeper has to pay for her Sunday chicken or turkey, though both are a little cheaper some places. For roasting chickens 18 and 20 cents seemed to be the average price, and 25, 27% and 30 cents per pound for turkeys. Some particularly fine plump Oregon turkeys were to be seen.

Don't forget the value of crisp "bacon curls" with roast chicken. They make an acceptable garnish, improve the flavor of the fowl, and in the hands of a good carver and economist, help to make one bird do the work of two without anyone

To those who are always in search of a new entree, I may commend a Chinese dish tasted a year ago, but still remembered with pleasure. It consisted of wafer thin slices of poultry giblets, served in a rich brown sauce with slices of stewed Winter pears. The rembination may sound rather startling, but was distinctly good and would make a novel patty or turbale filling. In the fish market were some very fine In the fish market were some very fine black bass, some unusually large, at 25 cents per pound, and some about 6 inches long, just right for frying. There was striped bass also at 25 cents, Catfish and saimon cost 15 cents; halibut, smelt, flounder, sole, and perch were 12½ cents per pound. Hard-shell clams cost 5 cents per pound and ramor clams 15 cents per dozen. Clam chowder is a greatly appreciated luncheon dish these fine Autumn days. Lobsters were scarce and small at 25 cents per pound. Crabs cost 20 and 25 cents per pound. Crabs cost 20 and 25 cents per dozen. and frog legs 35 cents per dozen.

20 and 25 cents each, and frog legs 35 cents per dozen.

There was a good supply of nice-looking red raspberries at 25 cents per box, and large strawberies, fom 25 to 30 cents. Some of the cranberries seen were not very good, but quite scallsfactory ones were obtainable at two quarts for 25 cents. Huckleberries cost 10 and 15 cents per pound. Concord grapes at 20 and 25 cents a basket make grape sherbet, grape basket make grape sherbet, grape fluff," or the simple but delicious bread if it than they were.

I saw some very large Japanese persimmons at 40 cents per dozen, which is distinctly cheaper than they have been so far. Peaches also cost 40 cents per dozen, large oranges 75 cents, and the new croprather small grape fruit, good for marmalade, 50 cents per dozen. Apples cost from $1.50 to $4 per box, according to kind, and good pears were to be had at 25 and 25 cents per dozen. Ground cherries are now 10 cents per pound. Quinces come about four for 25 cents, and canteloupes are about the same prices. A few surviving watermelons are still wedged in between the pumpkins and the big Hubbard squash.

Hothouse cucumbers are now in, side

Hothouse cucumbers are now in, side by side with outdoor ones. The former cost about 10 cents each, the others are two for 5 cents. Brussells sprouts, wax beans, green beans and egg plant all cost 15 cents per pound. Green peas are now 30 cents per dozen. French artichokes were 12½ cents each and okra 20 cents per pound. There were fine cauliflowers at 10 and 15 cents each.

In the pursuit of new salads many culturery sins are committed, and there is a tendency to forget the charms of simplicity, and the artistic and hygienic advantages which a crisp green salad has over its sometimes too rich and complicated namesakes. Much can be learned from the French in adding the small touches that make one lettuce salad to differ from another in glory, though all are good. Head lettuce, hothouse lettuce, watercress, endive, young onlons, mint, watercress, endive, young onlons, mint, parsley, green peppers, celery leaves and fresh radish leaves are some of the materials with which these "poems in green" are accomplished, and all are to be had in abundance at present.
Celery is excellent at 5 and 10 cents

"A Quick Dime Beats a Lazy Quarter"

day, Friday and Saturday P. M. THE BIG STORE ON THE CORNER

This is the time of year when forehanded buyers will lay in from one to three months' supply of groceries. You could not find a better investmen for your money than an assortment of the wanted groceries in your cellar right away. You must have a very clear idea of how much will be required for your use during the next three months. When you have them in your cellar you know where the money is, you know where the groceries are, you know they are paid for, and you know you are going to eat a plenty until the bluebirds come again. We do not want to push this kind of "good advice" too far-but we know such an investment is positively gilt-edged.
