GREATS REJECTED SUITOR

Says She Will Use Shotgun if He Does Not Cease Attentions.

BUT DROPS PROSECUTION

Changes Her Mind After Promising to Marry Him and Again After Causing His Arrest as a Nuisance.

Mrs. Barbara Kary, a Portland widow, has announced her intention of using a shotgun in disposing of the affections of her name, Robert B. West, of Portland, unless West forthwith accept her reconsideration of a promise to marry him, but she did not make the announcement casually to a few friends, but sent it in the form of a message to the Municipal Court yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Kary had caused the young man's arrest on a charge of annoying her with his profane remarks. She says she did this only as a desperate resort to rid herself of him. Long since she told him she was not going to marry him, and she had a burning desire to change her mind. When he persisted in calling she ordered him to keep away from her home and would not receive him. She resorted to strategy to gain admission to the house, and then it was she called on the police. The case was set for trial and would have been heard in the Municipal Court yesterday afternoon except that Mrs. Kary refused at the last moment to appear.

Something like a year ago the couple were engaged to be married. Then Mrs. Kary changed her mind. Since then West's persistency has been intolerable, according to the story which the woman related to City Prosecutor Tomlinson, in causing his arrest. He begged, pleaded, cajoled, threatened, but she stood firm in her change of mind. She told him she did not want to see anything more of him, and that he ought to be able to respect a woman's attitude in such an affair. No man, she told him, would hang around trying to get a woman's attention when it was patent she did not want to; only half a man would do such a thing.

Tuesday afternoon what was Mrs. Kary's surprise to open a clothes closet and find therein a pair of trousers. How he got in there she did not know. But there he was. And he proceeded at once to repeat the time-honored story of his spurned affections.

It was then that Mrs. Kary became seized with despair and summoned the police. Later she caused the issuance of a warrant charging West with trespass. The ardent and persistently minded man was required to put up bail in the sum of $25 for his appearance in court. He demanded a trial by jury, and said he was not guilty of entering the house uninvited.

The jurors were summoned and all was in readiness for the trial, when Mrs. Kary sent word to Clerk Honesty that she had decided not to push the case against the man. She did not want to see her erstwhile fiance sent to jail, but she wished it understood that her attitude toward him had not softened, and she would have him hanging about the house any longer. She said she had procured a shotgun, and would receive him as a burglar or any other unannounced and clandestine visitor should he try to call again. West was given this message when he called at the courtroom for trial. The authorities, rather annoyed at having a case dropped in this unceremonious way, advised the young man that he could file a charge of threatening to kill against the object of his affections, did he so desire. But the mere suggestion seemed to offend him and he said he wouldn't think of such a thing. They advised him to keep out of range of the shotgun, and after some hesitation he said he thought he would.

Aside from the fact that the groom was inclined to be irritable now and then, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Richards have been reasonably happy since their wedding several weeks ago.

Frank was smoking in the house Tuesday night. "Do you know," said Minnie playfully, "I think I could kick the sav of your cigar while you are smoking it."

Frank made no reply for he was not in a pleasant mood. He merely tilted his head toward his nose and scowled.

The bride thought it was a dare. She gathered up her skirts, kicked, and the groom was nearly scattered from the end of the weed. It was a precise bit of kicking. The groom did not applaud. His response was a bellow, his brawny hand flew out, and he laid a burning slap on her cheek. The blow was followed by another and another. The bride went crying from the house. She had him arrested on a charge of wife-beating.

This is how Frank B. Belts came out even in a poker game. Or rather he came out no more loser than the other players.

They were playing a small limit game in Harry Connors' room on the Macadam road. Belts continued losing. He had small hands and big hands beaten. Finally he held four aces and bet his pile. Someone called him who had a straight flush. He was aces and the game which was all his spare money. He could not compromise himself with the loss of his money. He thought of others spending his hard-earned cash he determined to win the good qualities of such as would make the other losers as well as he.

Belts telephoned to the police station and told the location of the game. In less than half an hour the police were on the scene with the patrol wagon and the five party taken in. Mr. Kay was so impatient that he even declined to wait while they played a final round of jackpots. Belts appeared grinning at the players who were there were five, in the Municipal Court yesterday forenoon. Without his testimony conviction could not have been secured as no money was in sight when the police raided the game. But he told of losing his money.

The gambler was fined $5 apiece so that the amount of the fine was $25.00. The artist who held the straight flush, who broke even by paying his fine with Belts' money.

Three Sailing Ships Anchored in Awkward Position.

NAVIGATION IS MENACED

Towboat Masters Are Largely to Blame for Not Giving Information to Sailing Captains—More Anchorage Is Needed.

Definite lines establishing the anchorage grounds in Portland harbor must be marked immediately and to that end Harbormaster Speller is bending all his energies. Yesterday three sailing vessels at anchor in the harbor were swinging athwart the channel and steamships and river craft experienced considerable difficulty in making their way down stream. Harbor rules provide for the mooring of vessels with a bow and a stern anchor, and all vessels must lie with head up stream. Masters of foreign craft are ignorant of the harbor rules and depend on tugboat on the Upper Willamette River, yesterday afternoon. The steamer was in 20 feet of water and her promenade deck is submerged to a depth of several inches. The Ruth struck a submerged log and punctured herself forward. No lives were lost.

The Ruth was bound for Portland and was heavily laden with freight and carried a number of passengers. Swiftly making a landing at Champeog she hit a submerged piece of drift and went down. She sank in 20 feet of water. The Ruth was in command of Captain Inman at the time of the accident. Yesterday the steamer Modoc of the O. R. & N. Company's fleet was rigged as a wrecking craft and was sent to the scene of the disaster. The steamer will be floated as soon as possible.

Hazel Branch Is Reported Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—A dispatch received today by the Merchants' Exchange from San Francisco, says the British steamship Hazel Branch, bound to England from Antofagasta with a full cargo, has been wrecked in the Straits of Magellan. Nothing was said regarding the fate of the crew.

Roanoke Is a Day Late.

The steamship Roanoke arrived last night from San Pedro and way ports. She was a day late and will not sail for the South again until Friday night. The Roanoke left 24 hours late on the outward voyage two weeks ago and owing to the peculiar weather conditions was unable to make up the day.

PLANS LIVESTOCK SHOW

Organization Will Hold Exhibition Here Next Fall.

Portland is to have a livestock show next year that will be on as large a scale as the one held during the Lewis and Clark Exposition. The Portland Country Club and Livestock Association started the movement yesterday, and already has assurances of co-operation and assistance that will make the event the biggest of its kind on the Pacific Coast next year. The show will probably be held some time between September 15 and October 1, 1908, the exact dates being as yet unsettled.

It was decided at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the association, who met in the Hamilton building. Nearly the entire membership of 30 members was present. S. G. Reed, president of the organization, presided. All agreed that a stock show on the scale of the Lewis and Clark Fair during the Lewis and Clark Exposition, and will do much to encourage the breeding of fine cattle and horses throughout the Pacific Northwest.

It was decided to send M. D. Wisdom to Chicago as a special representative of the organization at the convention of the International Livestock Association, which meets there from November 30 to December 7. Each standard breed of stock has a distinct association, but they are all represented in the International Livestock Association, which is one of the biggest organizations of its kind in the world. It is felt that a special delegate from Portland in the interests of the show here next year will have a splendid effect in enlisting support for the exhibition.

The international organization will be asked to select dates for the Portland exhibition that will be favorable for the participation of members of the International Livestock Association, and it will be suggested that between September 15 and October 1 will be the most acceptable to the local association.

Livestock men all over the West will take a lively interest in the affair, and their participation on a big scale is assured. The decision to hold the stock show means an active campaign from this time on by the local association. The event will be widely advertised and widespread support will be enlisted for it.

Canby Organizing Special Saloons.

CANBY, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Ever since the death of 15-year-old Charles Kinzel, who, in a state of intoxication was cruelly forsaken on the public highway by his twelve youthful companions, the sentiment for law enforcement and anti-saloon campaigning has been at a white heat in Canby. This sentiment will concretely express itself on Saturday evening, November 23, in the form of the "Charles Kinzel memorial contest," which will be given by some of the children of Canby.

About a dozen boys and girls will speak on the subject of saloons, and two silver medals will be awarded. Special temperance music will be on the program. Mrs. Ada Wallace-Urruh, of the W. C. T. U. of Oregon, will preside. She comes to Canby to organize the women and children in the temperance cause.

HUMAN RACE AFFLICTED WITH QUEER DISEASE

Cooper Says Internal Parasites Cause Much Suffering Everywhere

The following remarkable statement was recently made by L. T. Cooper. It concerns the preparation which has been so widely discussed throughout the country during the past year, and has sold in such enormous quantities in leading cities.

"It is now a well-known fact that wherever I have introduced my New Discovery medicine, hundreds of people have brought internal parasites, or tapeworms, to me. In many cases these people did not know the nature of the parasites, and were consequently extremely nervous until I explained the matter to them. In some cities so many have had this experience that the public generally became alarmed.

"I take this opportunity of explaining what these creatures are, and what I have learned about them in the past. Tapeworms are much more common than would be supposed. I venture to say that ten per cent of all chronic stomach trouble, or what is known as 'rindown' condition, is caused by them. An individual may suffer for years with one of these great parasites and not be aware of it.

"Contrary to general belief, the appetite is not greatly increased—it only becomes irregular. There is a general feeling of faintness, however, and a gnawing sensation in the pit of the stomach.

"People afflicted with one of these parasites are nervous and depressed. Their chief sensation is one of languor, and they tire very easily. Lack of energy and ambition affect the body and the mind becomes dull and sluggish. The memory becomes not so good and the eyesight is generally poorer.

"The New Discovery, in freeing stomach and bowels of all impurities, seems to be fatal to these great worms, and almost immediately expels them from the system. I wish to assure any one who has the experience just related with my preparation, that there is no cause for alarm in the matter, and that it will as a rule mean a speedy restoration to good health.

"The Cooper medicines are a boon to stomach sufferers. We sell them—The Skidmore Drug Co.

Men Don't

Men Don't neglect your health if afflicted with varicose veins, stricture, sexual weakness, catarrh, hemorrhoids, piles, blood poison, urinary troubles, and all other chronic diseases when you can be cured for a fee of $5 at the office of the Old Reliable Specialist.

I Want Every Weak Man

To know that I guarantee to cure him before he needs pay me one cent. I KNOW that I can cure any case of MEN'S DISEASES

That I accept for treatment I have two good reasons to make the above statement. First, my treatment will positively cure any curable case. Second, under no circumstances will I attempt to cure any case that I am not positive I can cure.

When I refer to incurable cases I do not mean cases that other doctors have failed to cure, or that have been pronounced incurable by others. I mean cases that I know I can cure. Therefore, I want you to call and let me examine you. I will be frank and honest with you in every particular. Remember that you are incurable by my treatment. See me without further delay.

$10.00 Is My Fee in Any Uncomplicated Case

PAY WHEN YOU ARE CURED

Can any reasonable man desire a more fair test of my methods than to let me cure him first and to pay after he is well?

The Scientific Treatment of Weakness

Dosing the system with powerful stimulants and tonics in an effort to restore functional vigor can have but one final result. The condition is rendered worse than before. Weakness is merely an indication of a low form of inflammation in the prostate gland, and this inflammation is aggravated by stimulating remedies that excite temporary activity. I employ the only scientific and fully effective treatment for weakness which effects a permanent cure by restoring the prostate gland to a sound and healthy state. I obtain complete results in every case I treat. Interesting literature and beautifully engraved chart free if you will call.

Contracted Disorders

The serious results that may follow neglect of contracted diseases could scarcely be exaggerated. Safety demands an absolutely thorough cure in the least possible time. I have treated more cases of contracted disorders than any other physician upon the Pacific Coast. My cures are thorough and are accomplished in a permanent case by my treatment require in producing even doubtful results. I employ remedies of my own devising and my treatment is equally effective in both recent and chronic cases.

Examination Free

I offer not only free consultation and advice, but every case that comes to me will make a careful study of your condition without charge. No billing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about his trouble.

German Newspaper's View of the Japanese-American Situation

"SPEAKING of the reasons why the United States fleet of battleships is coming to the Pacific Coast, and how the subject is regarded abroad, I notice an article from one of the leading German papers," said a German ex-press office in the Hotel Portland yesterday. The article is published in Das Echo, one of the leading German magazines which corresponds to the Literary Digest or the Review of Reviews in this country. It appeared originally as an editorial in the Berliner Neueste Nachrichten, one of the foremost and most servative dailies of the Empire, equal in standing to any newspaper in America. As what might be called international rumor has connected Germany somewhat with the causes of the movement of the American fleet from Atlantic to Pacific waters, the article may be of interest as showing how the matter is looked upon in Germany at the present time.

The speaker made a free translation of the article, which reads as follows: The years 1902-03 brought forth great changes all around the Pacific Ocean, the effects of which will undoubtedly be felt for a long time. The appearance of such a strange world-power as Japan was fully unexpected. Russia is entirely pushed back and as far as the Pacific Ocean is concerned, for the present time reduced to the rank of a not very important mercantile power.

England is still sure of her predominance on the ocean. Russia is very much exposed to an attack by the sea on account of her numerous coast cities. But yet she thought it wise to fortify Singapore, which can only have one purpose: To protect India against an uninvited visit from that side.

It is the United States that drew the most sensational conclusions from that change, by taking her fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. To be sure, the United States fleet has long been on the Asiatic sea, but only a small part of the fleet was there. The appearance of such a strange world-power as Japan was fully unexpected. Russia is entirely pushed back and as far as the Pacific Ocean is concerned, for the present time reduced to the rank of a not very important mercantile power.

After the Civil War for 30 years the doctrine of keeping out of foreign affairs was maintained until the time when several things occurred to generate the Imperialism. So she seized the opportunity offered by the Cuban rebellion, to conquer Porto Rico and the Philippines. With Hawaii she made the beginning, the acquisition of the Philippines made the United States a pronounced Pacific and Asiatic world-power.

By eliminating the dreaded Russia. By this she aroused the suspicion of the Americans: On the one side the aversion against any colored races, on the other side the necessity, caused by the present conditions, to make room in their own country through means of emigration, led to the present state of affairs between the two powers.

This distrust is a permanent one. Nobody can doubt the fact that the coming times correctly. Japan is a fertile and rich country as far as those parts are concerned where cultivation is possible. But these parts are only one-fourth of Japan, the rest is the forest land, which cannot be changed into farming land, or fertile land in the vicinity of volcanoes. In spite of the fact that the land, as in the case of the United States, is cultivated. The necessary consequences of this are: Japan confines in her entrance into the cultured world and conscious of her power demands her part of the sparsely settled parts of the world. She is the only genuine Pacific power, a distinction President Roosevelt has not yet claimed for the United States.

No country bordering the Pacific Ocean has an army or navy like Japan. The countries on the Asiatic coast are settled densely enough, but only a small part of the emigration can be directed. But Australia and the west coast of America are almost unpopulated. It is not to be expected that the present time Japan does not want to take possession of land. She would be satisfied, if her distant and unassuming she would find there admission. They are not wanted. They are not wanted. They are not wanted.

The United States at least has not the intention to let herself be surprised by anything. This is doubtless the meaning of the changing of the fleet to the Pacific. To be sure, the obligation to maintain the fleet as a safeguard is certainly important. Up to now the concern has been to maintain the fleet on the Atlantic. Suddenly she changes the front. On the Pacific she had only three battleships and six cruisers. Now she is sending 16 battleships, two armored cruisers and six torpedo-boat destroyers to the Pacific. Besides, very probably, a whole fleet of torpedo-boats and other vessels. The fleet is certainly important. Up to now the concern has been to maintain the fleet on the Atlantic.
