CANNOT MOVE TO RECOVER DEPOSIT

Treasurer Cannot Be Called On for Money in Defunct Bank.

NO WAY TO SUE BONDSMEN

Method Provided Whereby School Funds May Be Secured in Small Amounts, but Otherwise the Surety Is Not Liable.

SALEM. Or., Nov. 20.-(Special.)-No steps have yet been taken to recover the $235,000 deposited by the State Treasurer in the Title Guarantee & Trust Company Bank, or to find out whether the state has any recourse against the surety com-pany which was surety upon the bond of the State Treasurer and the trust company. Demand was imade for repayment of the money, but there the matter rests, and seems likely to rest, for some time to come. The surety company has ackpowledged liability for $100,000 of the amount, but no more. So far as known,

Governor Chamberlain has been ear-nestly seeking some means of enforcing payment of the money into the treasury. but has been unable to find any way of bringing to a legal test the question of the liability of Steel and his bondamen. Though it is publicly known and admitted that the money is gone, not only from the treasury, but also from the control of the Treasurer, there is no way of bringing a suit until the Treasurer has been called upon to turn the money over to some one else and he fails or refuses to do so. It was this situation that first brought the suggestion that the State Trensurer should resign, thus making it secessary that he turn over the funds t his successor, in default of which a suit would lie against his bondsmen. But the Treasurer has said that he will not resign, and there the matter rests. His term will expire in a little over three years, and then a suit can be brought unless the money has been paid into the

Only One Way Open.

There is one contingency upon which it might be possible to bring suit against surety company for a part of the ney, but the amount for which sult could be brought would be comparatively small. A large part of the money placed in the insolvent bank by the Treasurer was school money, which is subject to the control of the State Land Board. It is the duty of the Treasurer to pay the money over to his successor or to any person authorized to receive the 1f. therefore, the State Land makes a loan from the school fund and the Treasurer has not the funds to pay to the borrower, there will be a violation of his official duty, and a suit could be brought. But as loans generally run only from $500 to $5000, it would take a great many suits brought in this manher to recover the nearly $300,000 of school funds deposited in the bank. There is one criminal statute which it is believed, can be brought into use, if necessary, in order to aid in recovering stations to one southbound train each the state's money. This is section 1807 of day. the code, which provides that, "If any The schedules of northbound trains bestate . . or have in his possession any money whatever belonging to such state and shall in any way convert to his own use any portion thereof. . or shall schedule not only prevents those at nearneglect or refuse to pay over any portion thereof, as by law directed and required, or when inwfully demanded so to of larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than 15 years, and by fine equal to twice the amount so converted, loaned. or neglected or refused to be paid, as the Criminal Suit Possible.

Under this statute it is believed that if the State Land Board should make a loan and the Transurer should fail to pay the money when called for, a prose-cution would lie. Under this statute an intent to defraud the state is not a part of the offense. Were failure or referred of the offense. Mere failure or refusal to pay the money is the offense. Conviction would carry with it dismissal from office.

It is generally understood that state officers do not favor commencement of any criminal proceedings against the Treasurer, but in view of the large amount involved, there is a desire that the moneys be renaid or that it be made known that it will be paid. The uncertainty is not relished by those whose duty it is to look after the property of the state and the execution of the state laws. District Attorney McNary recently called upon the Governor, and after going over the situation so far as it is known, assured the Governor of his readiness to co-operate in any way in protecting the rights of the state. But protecting the rights of the state. But for the present there is apparently nothing to be done except let matters drift along until something happens set the wheels of the courts in motion.

Friends of Proposed Excise Law

Reply to Paper Adventing Saloons. OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 20 .- (Spe ctal.)-Frank C. Lowing, editor of the Oregon City Enterprise, was the vic-tim today of an attack by four of the adherents of the proposed excise ordi-nance. In his paper last Friday Mr. Lowing argued against the enactment of the ordinance, taking the ground that the saloon is the poor man's club, and that the people who are trying to bring about the passage of the ordinance have nothing to offer as a substitute. CONVICTS MAKE CHARGES

Say State Pays for Carloads Never Delivered at Penitentiary_Investigation in Progress, but as Yet Nothing Is Found Wrong.

OLYMPIA, Nov. 20. — (Special.) — By direction of Governor Mead, the State Board of Control and Superintendent S. Reed, of the State Penitentiary, are making a thorough investigation of charges that by connivance between the contractors and certain employes of the penitentiary, false receipts were given and fraudulent vouchers issued by which the contractors were paid for a number of carloads of coal that were never delivered at the penitentiary during the Winter of

The records of the penitentiary and the duplicates on file in the office of the State Board of Control and of the State Auditor give in detail the numbers of cars and weights of coal for every payment made by the state. The monthly reports from the penitentiary also show the number of pounds of fuel consumed for the month at the institution. The only possible way in which the state could have been robbed as charged would be by collusion between the contractor and the State Clark and other employes of the penitentlary, whose duty it is to weigh out the coal and check the shipments when they are received.

Convicts Make Charges.

The charges were made by convicts who had been employed in office work about the institution. They alleged that this crime occurred in the year beginning November, 1905. During that time those who had the contract to furnish coal for the institution were Samuel Loney, of Walla Walla, and the Northwestern Improvement Company. That these charges may be simply the result of a plot among the convicts who were employed at that time in the offices seems possible in view some peculiar circumstances. For ex-

The memorandum stubs upon which the penitentiary employes set down the date of arrival, car number and weight of the coal have been stolen from the penitentiary records so that the only record in the office is the triplicate of the voucher. Engineer William Quinn kept in his tool chest a memorandum book in which he entered the weight of all coal received and consumed each month. This book also has been stolen, leaving only the reports at the penitentiary and at the office of Railroad Reports Inaccurate.

State Clerk B. L. Williams has been working on the matter for some time and called upon the railroads for a check on the car numbers shown on the vouchers The railroads reported back that in a number of instances car numbers shown on the rouchers which the state paid for coal were numbers of cars that had never been on any railroad in the City of Walla Walla. But the investigation has shown that the railroad report is inaccurate as there is absolute proof that several of the cars which the railroads reported had never been in Walla Walla were actually delivered at the penitentiary. A checkgineer of coal consumed during the year in which this crime is alleged to have occurred shows the amount as practically dentical with that consumed the following 12 months.

Secretary C. C. Aspinwall, of the State Board of Control, has gone to Walla Walla to assist Superintendent Reed in investigating the matter. So far as the investigation has proceeded there has not been the slightest foundation dis to sustain the charges, but the investigation will be continued until every ship-ment has been thoroughly checked out and all the facts ascertained.

The Kelso authorities be gan a search for the culprits, sending word all over this region to officers to be on the lookout for suspicious characters. He was accompanied by an unarmed boy, and the two, cautiously slipping through the brush, suddenly came upon the camp, consisting of a sort of wigwam, and found two burly negroes drying themselves by the fire.

On seeing Fannon they at once drew their guns and began to shoot. Fannon returned their fire. A large cedar stump was between the officer and the negroes and no one was hit. One of the negroes had his shoes off, and he did the shooting at Fannon. The other fired at the boy, who fled as soon as the shooting began. He escaped unhurt. After the negro had fired seven shots at Fannon and the latter had returned with four bullets, the negroes fled. Fannon, having discharged all his cartridges, did likewise, but returned after securing a gun and ammunition from a man named Collins, at Os-trander. He found that in their hurry the robbers had left, beside their camp equipage, including enough provisions to last them a week, a Colt's revolver and the shoes of one of the men, which n his haste he did not stop to put on As soon as the news reached this place the officers and citizens at once began to look out for the criminals. About 8:30 last evening Acting Marshal Charles Huntington, of this place, and a man named Mominy, of Ostrander, who had stationed themselves behind a pile of ties allowed the criminal track turn below. alongside the railroad track just below town, were rewarded by seeing a man ap-proach, and in the moonlight, which was shining at the moment, were able to tell hat he was black.

Waiting till he had passed them, they called "Hands up." The negro respond-ed by drawing a huge revolver, but by that time the muzzle of the officer's gun was at the back of his head, and he was informed that if he tried to shoot or turn around the top of his head would be blown off. The man reluctantly complied and as he did so the stolen Winchester. which he was carrying under his over-cost and holding with his left hand, dropped to the ground.

While Marshal Huntington kept the man covered with his gun. Mominy dis-armed him, and, with his hands ele-vated above his head, he was marched to town and, after being searched, incar-cerated in the city jail.
