It was the plan of Judge Frazer to inspect the new home for Juvenile Court wards on the first day of his illness, and Mr. Nisley went to the Courthouse to accompany him, only to learn that he had gone home ill. Thus the Judge never saw the home for which he had given much valuable energy.

In Memoriam,

Arthur L. Frazer,

Died December 3d, 1907.

To die all vellant in the strife, Wresting new laurels from each task! What other could we any ask.
Who make so much the less of life? Oh, less by far than he bath made

Of his short years—already spent!
Whose soul so full of fine intent,
Wore out the scabbard with the blade!

His toll-wern body could not rise To meet the spirit's high command. To do the good that he had planned, hould be his Autumn's richest prize.

The many hands, that stretch to grasp The ermine that he graced so well, Know that the judgeship's but a shell, It love doth leaven not the task.

Such love he had! The children know, Whose tears are jewels for his bier, His love did win them more than fear To paths in which their steps should go. And every child who loves his name,

That patterns to the standard set, Shall in his higher self beget ent to Frazer's fame. (Signed)

To the President and Members of the Pertland Principals' Association:

We, your committee on resolutions, beg leave to submit the following report:

Whereas, Judge A. L. Frazer has been called from life in the strength of his splendid manhood; therefore be it

Resolved, by the 'Principals' Association of the Fortland Public Schools, that we are grieved because of his untimely death, and intensely so, for the reason that in his position as Judge of the Juvenile Court of this city we have been deeply impressed with his great humanity and profound tender sympathy in all his dealings with wayward, erring child-hood. That branch of his work—probably his greatest work—was cast on lines which we, in the discharge of our duties, must keep in view, made it possible for us in a measure to know and appreciate the value of this to know and appreciate the value of this gifted man. His was a type of mind and heart unfortunately too rare in this age of strife for wealth and distinction. When Death summoned Judge Frazer, he deprived many a boy and many a girl in this com-nunity of a very dear friend. We mourn

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. Robert C. Yenney, secretary of the State Board of Health, who sustained a broken arm and severe bruless six weeks ago by falling from his carriage on a rainy night, will be able to leave St. Vincent's Hospital tomorrow. He suffered much pain during his confinement but will be able to go to his home now. Dr. T. B. Ford, pastor of the Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church, who has been very ill for two weeks, was removed from his home last night and was taken to Hot Lake, Or., where it is be-lleved he will speedily recover. there is no uneasiness either on their part or in the minds of their depositors. Four-fifths of the bankers of the state, judging from this canvass, are well supplied with each and report depositors generally in a good temper.

The opinion is quite general that when the lid is lifted, it should come off gradually. This can be accomplished, it is believed, by slowly increasing the amounts the banks will pay out to depositors and gradually adding to loans. In this way, almost before the public knows the conditions, the banks in this state will be back on a normal basis.

The statement of Portland National basis. banks, issued yesterday in response to the call of the Controller on December 3, is quite a remarkable showing. The actual figures show a better condition than most people believe exists. Cash on hand is practically 50 per cent of all deposits, which is twice what the Na-tional banking act calls for. Deposits, the chief liability of the banks, have been decreased without any considerable Invasion of the assets. The First National Bank has lessened its de-posits since August 22, when the last statement appeared, to the amount of $1.82,475.54. The United States National has decreased its deposits $1,438,452.03 the same time, cash on hand and due from banks has been decreased only $77,362.14 in the case of the First National and $1,122,770.40 in the case of the United States National.

The amount of cash on hand and due from banks is the chief item of interest in a bank statement and especially its comparison with the chief liability, the amount of deposits. For example, the amount of deposits. For example, the First National has $12,872,210.54 in deposits, while its reserve is $5,932,049.09, or 46 per cent. The United States National Bank has deposits of $5,701,786.56 and a reserve of $2,320,019.78, or 40 per cent. The legal reserve of the First National is about $3,218,000. It is therefore carrying $2.714,000 more cash on hand or due from bunks than the National banking law requires. The legal reserve of the United States National is about $1,400,000. Its actual reserve is therefore $900,000 greater than the law requires.

What is perhaps quite the most re-markable item in the bank statement is the showing made by the item, "loans and discounts." The First National has increased this figure by $128,588.22 since August 22, and the United States Na-tional $200,387.84 during the same period. This means that the banks have been standing by the business interests, help-ing them out by making further loans, and shows that they have not been press-ing debtors at a time when those who depend on the banks for aid have been

Further than this, little progress has been made in the adjustment of the state's claim against the company that guaranteed State Treasurer Steel's bond. No conferences have yet been arranged with Governor Chamberlain, although this is likely to occur at any time. It is expected a meeting will be arranged today. Mr. Schnabel Resents Criticism. PORTLAND, Dec. 4 .- (To the Editor.)has been stated many times in the public press that my advice to my clients prevented a number of depositors of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank from en-tering into a plan of reorganization of that institution. As to a large number of these supposed clients they are acting upon their own judgment without any ad-vice from me. As to some others I have advised them in their interests and for no other reason-not to accept bonds of the Home Telephone Company in pay-ment of a part of their claims. I have reasons for giving this advice but I have refrained from stating them because I do not wish to influence other persons who are not my clients in their action. If it shall become necessary to defend ayself from this public criticism of me will state my reasons; I prefer, how-

Her statement that she furnished me money to equip the Murray & Mack show is too ridiculous for serious comment. Father O'Hara spoke before the Study Club of the Knights of Columbus last night on "Contemporary Agnosticism and the Credentials of Christ." In the course of his remarks he said:

he said:

One of the most ludicrous spectacles in the world of contemporary religious thought is the pompous pretension of the agnostic to be the one only man who can feel free to withhold assent until the truth of a doctrine is proved to him. He rails against authority as a source of truth, quite oblivious of the fact that authority is practically the sole source of truth in the great field of science which is today commanding all the energies of a large part of the best schoolarship today. Historical science in today a science which derives truth from authority. Authority is a legitimate source of truth in certain departments of knowledge. The only question is
