Northwest Fruit Growers' Association Closes Successful Meeting.

PORTLAND NEXT SESSION

E. N. Shepard, Vice-President of the Association, Tells of the Meeting and Talks of Outlook for Fruit in Future.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Dec. 8.—(Special.)— By the arrival teday of Hon. El L. Smith, president of the Northwest Fruit-Smith, president of the Northwest Fruit-growers' Association: E. H. Shepard, vice-president, and G. R. Castner, its newly elected treasurer, and A. L. Mason, the well-known orehardist, it is learned that of the nine prizes offered for apples at the recent meeting of the association at Van-couver, B. C., Oregon captured three. These all came to Hood River, which made but three entries and took the first and second prizes for the best commercial box of apples and the second prize for the best five boxes. The former went to A. I. Muson and E. H. Shepard and the latter to Mr. Muson. Except for the prize won by the Wenatchee district for the best general full display the other best general fruit display, the other awards were all made to British Columbia fruit. The prizes received are in the form of handsome silver and bronze med-als. Altogether over 100 entries were made in the competitive fruit exhibit.

The meeting is characterized by the delegation from Hood River as the largest and most enthusiastic ever held by the association. In attendance were delegates from Idaho, Utah, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, some of whom came 1900 miles to be present.

When asked for some of the more important and salient features of the meet ing and action taken at it, El. H. Shepard

Mr. Shepard Tells of Meeting.

Prohably the most important feature of the meeting was the fact that it was the unanimous sentiment of growers to put up a higher grade of fruit in many districts that have not heretofore given this matter the importance it deserves. When it was fully explained that every box of cull apples that is put on the market and tetracts from the value of first-grade fruit, delegates from all sections approved the idea to stop putting interior fruit on the market and send it to the cider mill or eatinery or utilize it in some way where it will not reduce the price for the best and will also result in-placing a superior quality of apple in the hands of the consumer.

Another matter that received considerable another matter that received another matter that received and matter that the fourth story of the fourth story of the fourth story of the fourth story of the four superior quality of apple in the hands of the consumer.

Another matter that received considerable attention at the hands of the convemion was that of the shortage of cars. While some were in favor of arbitrary methods in dealing with the railroads, the majority, viewing the situation from a more reasonable standpoint, are in favor of getting in close touch with the railroad commissions and agents for private car lines in the various states and impressing them with the necessity for better shipping facilities for the rapidly increasing and great development of the fruit industry in the Northwest. Indeed this must be done and I think the transportation lines will do it themselves if they are brought, for realise what this great fruit industry will mean to them in the very near future.

The window. The latter is given greatest credence. McNeil came from Portland three weeks ago.

Use of Narcotic Drugs.

Drug habits are probably far less prevalent and injurious than they are painted. Persons who are addicted to cocaine, mortified in the results of the kind prevail. Evidence is clear that certain prevail in the submerged districts of Northern cities contain large numbers of victims. Negroes of similar numbers of victims.

There is scarcely any fruitgrowing district whose output will not double in five years and some of them in less time. This means that where hundred of cars are now necessary thousands will have to be provided and the association and the railroads must get together and provide transportation facilities to guard against a great loss, not only to the grower but to the country at large. these drugs is confined to a small frac-tion of any population.

Competitive Exhibits Abolished.

Competitive Exhibits Abolished.

With the meeting this year it was also feeded to abolish the competitive prizes for txhibits of fruit. It has been found that the awarding of prizes leaves more or less had feeling and as the association is founded for educational purposes and for bettering renditions for the fruitgrower, the displays nereafter will be given, cards of merit according to their excellence.

"One of the most pleasing events of the meeting to the Oregon delegation was the avaiton-received by Mr. E. L. Smith when his name was put in nomination for rejection as president of the association. Although he vehemently declined to accept the office for another year delegates from British Columbia would hear of no other man for the position, and he was loudly and manimously acclaimed its executive again.

The entertainment provided for the visitpra at Vancouver was the finest ever given members of the association. The Dominion Government contributed $500 for this purpose and the citizens and City Council $500 more. At the banquet held there Friday evening the entertainment was royal and permented by the best of good fellowship.
The close relations between the United states and Canadian fruitgrowers was further comented.

With practically all the officers of the association from Oregon this year and the next meeting place in Portland. I hope that the Rose City will respond generously to intertain our Canadian cousins, who promise to send the largest delegation from British Columbia that has ever attended any meeting in the states. The meeting will be neld some time next December and growers all ever the states have expressed themselves as anxious to make it a big success.

BLOCK CURRENCY REFORM

Issue in the Senate.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU. Washington, Dec. 8.—Currency legislation will not have clear sailing in Congress this Winter, and opinions differ as to what the outcome is likely to be. It is evident from what has been said by leading members of Senate and House that there has been no crystallization of sentiment, but, on the contrary, as Speaker Cannon has said, "there appear to be as many a currency bill, the chairmen of both OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washhas said "there appear to be as many a currency bill, the chairmen of b plans for curing the currency situation as there are members in Congress." With this diversity of opinion among the men who must frame the new currency law-assuming there is to be offe-there is no line in support of a bill which in his opinion will cure the shortcomings of the existing statute. Aldrich and Fowler Far Apart.

Aside from the disagreement among men as individuals, it is more than likely that there will be a disagreement be-tween the committees of Senate and House, and this agreement may lead to a deadlock which would prevent, the final passage of any currency law. The Sen-ate committee, dominated by Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, is understood Aldrich, of Rhone Island, is understood to favor an elastic currency law; the House committee, dominated by Representative Fowler, of New Jersey, is opposed to it. There is no common ground made in that direction today. Several posed to it. There is no common ground organizations have been incorporated and on which these committees could come together, for both Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Fowler have been uncompromising, each insisting that his own pian was the only proper one, and so far each chairman has had the backing of his respective committee and house.

Great Danger of Deadlock.

Some public men who have given the financial situation grave thought believe Great Probability of Deadlock on that the House will pass some financial measure along the lines recommended by its committee and that another measure, probably along very different lines, will committees would be on the committee of conference appointed to reach an agreement and each would have two supporters committed to the bills of their respective houses. If the Senate is slow prospect of early legislation and no like-lihood of any agreement until the Presi-dent takes a hand and brings men into session, it would be the easiest thing in ence agreement is reached late in the session, it would be the easiest thing in the world for a few Senators to prevent legislation by filibustering. And that is very likely to occur unless further study of the financial situation brings about a crystallization of sentiment. such an agreement final legislation will
