REFUSES TO BEAR SHARE OF BURDEN

Streetcar Company Does Not Wish to Use Sullivan's-Gulch Bridge.

SO NOTIFIES MAYOR LANE

Action Comes as a Surprise to City Officials Who Had Depended on way, Light & Power Company, addressed to Mayor Lane, the City Council and the Executive Board, was received yesterday at the City Hall, and conveys the information that the corporation will bear no portion of the expense of building the proposed bridge across Sullivan's Guich on East Twenty-eighth street. This puts this new project, so important to that section of Portland, in a doubtful state, and it may become necessary to readvertise for bids; it may be possible, even, that the enterprise will have to be abandoned.

It had been assumed by all city officials that the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company would wish to use the bridge, which it is planned to build of reinforced concrete, but from the positive declaration of President Josselyn, it becomes apparent that the railway company has no such intention. This means that the city will have to bear the entire expense, approximately $3,900. Had the company wished to use the bridge, its portion of the expense, as provided by law, would the expense, as provided by law, would have been one-fourth of the total.

May Precipitate a Fight.

Inasmuch as the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company has now declared that it will not bear any of the expense, and in view of the fact that the project has advanced to where a contract is about to be let. It is generally believed that a fight will result between the city and the corporation, in order to force the latter to bear its portion of the

the city and the corporation, in order to force the latter to bear its portion of the expense. Otherwise, it is thought by some, new bids will have to be called for. Others think it possible that the entire project will be indefinitely delayed.

At the City Hall yesterday it was declared that the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company took precisely the same action when the Grand-avenue bridge was projected, but that an opinion from the City Attorney that the municipality could force the corporation to bear its share of the expense caused the latter to change front.

When Mayor Lane received the communication from President Josselyn yesterday afternoon he was startled and declared that it might be necessary to re-advertise for blds, if the bridge was to be constructed, in case it became impossible for the city to compel the company to bear its share of the cost. He said it would make a considerable difference in the structure and might necessitate new plans, if the car company did not use the new bridge.

Says He Is Misquoted.

Mayor Lane also denied a published statement to the effect that he had been outspoken against the selection of East Twenty-eighth street for the bridge.

"I never spoke against any street," said the Mayor yesterday afternoon. "I have been misquoted by a member of an East Side improvement club, who said that I am opposed to East Twenty-eighth street and that I have spoken in favor of East Twenty-first street. I have never spoken in favor of or against any of the streets the vicinity, for I am not sufficiently familiar with the situation there to be a competent judge of which is the best."

The communication of President Josselyn, in which he announces the refusal of his company to pay any part of the construction of the projected bridge will come before the special session of the City Council tomorrow. The city officials will probably attempt to compel the corporabear one-fourth of the cost and the matter will likely be referred to City Attorney Kavanaugh for an opinion.

Important to East Side.

The projected bridge is one of the most important matters now claiming the at-tention of the East Side, and is regarded as an absolute necessity, if that section of the city is to be developed. The resi-dents of the district have been working on the matter for years, and the bridge has been authorized for one year, but the contract has never been let by the Executive Board; all of which has created an impression among some of those in-terested in it that Mayor Lane is op-posed to it. The Mayor declares, however, that he is not.

Mayor Lane mentioned one feature yesterday that has not been considered, that being the constant jar of trains on the O. R. & N., which road runs through the gulch and will tunnel through the bridge, if it is built. Mayor Lane says he knew of a bridge in the Blast which cost a large sum, under which a railroad was operated. The bridge had to be torn down. It was built of reinforced conthe material that is specified for Sullivan Gulch structure.

PULLMAN MAY LOSE LACENSE

Council Committee's Recommendation Adverse to Conrad's Saloon.

In all probability, the City Council will refuse to grant a renewal of the license of the Pullman saloon, 255 Alder street, conducted by John Conrad, and possibly also of the Armory Canteen saloon, lo-cated at Tenth and Couch streets. The ullman is a notorious resort, and Conrad has repeatedly been arrested for various offenses, and has been convicted numerous times. The Armory Canteen, Mayor Lane asserts, is located too near the Atkinson school under the city char-ter, although it has always been conducted in an orderly manner.

At its meeting yesterday morning, the liquor license committee of the Council declined to recommend the renewal of the licenses of either of the saloons. The port will be laid before the Council at tomorrow's meeting. There will be about 487 saloon Beenses renewed for 1908, and there will also be 17 wholesale liquor stores, eight grocery stores, 10 restaurants and six rectifiers licensed, all of which will bring in a rev

STILL ANOTHER SITE OFFERED

Half-Block at Front and Davis for Garbage Crematory.

One new proposed site for the city garbage crematory was received by the special Council committee, named to se-lect a place for the institution, but as noon, no action was taken other than to open and read the bld. It was for a half block at Front and Davis streets, and the price quoted is $10,000. It will be considered with others at a meeting of the committee to be held at 2 o'clock P. M., next Tuesday.

The bidders offering a site at Front, Montgomery and Water streets, withdrew their former quotation of $37,000 and are now before the committee with an offer of $35,000 for the same property—a re-duction of $2000, made by them since the previous meeting, one week ago.

Dr. George Strowbridge, representing numerous large faxpayers, was present with a lengthy petition against the acceptance of a proposed site on the water-(ront, between Salmon and Taylor streets, but as no meeting was held no action but as no meeting was held, no action was taken. There has been no remon-strance so far against the proposed site at the foot of Davis street, which seems to be Councilman Baker's choice.

"The present condition of the old brick sidewalk on the north side of Morrison street, between West Park and Tenth is an outrage," said Councilman Baker, speaking of the matter yesterday. "It must be changed at once, and inasmuch as the Pennoyer estate seems disinclined to do the work. I will introduce a resolution authorizing the Executive Board to to do the work. I will introduce a resolu-tion authorizing the Executive Board to instruct Civil Engineer Taylor to lay a cement walk and collect by the method specified by the charter. It is something that cannot be allowed to drag along any more, but must be fixed at once, as the present old brick sidewalk is worn out and is a disgrace to that part of the city.

Nothing has been done on the block bounded by Morrison and Alder and West Park and Tenth streets for a long time, and it was learned yesterday that a new ompany is being formed, to be known as the Portland Trustee Company, a branch of the Seattle Trustee Company, to take charge of the property. It is understood that J. B. Meikle, formerly secretary of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, is to be the local, representative of the corporation.

W. D. Wood, formerly Mayor of Seattle, is at the head of the Seattle Trust Company. He visited Portland last week, but gave out nothing as to the plans of the corporation touching the Pennoyer estate. He is now ill at his home, but is expected to extract the particular to the portland expected to return to Portland in the near future to investigate affairs relating to this property.

BUSINESS REVIVAL STRONG

for Day Largest in Many Months-Effects of Panic Rapidly Disappear.

Rarely in their history have the banks of Portland done a larger business than they transacted yesterday. Monday, being the first day following the removal of the holiday lid, some who had business to transact with the banks hesitated, expecting before the day closed to see some excitement, oc-casioned by a general withdrawal of funds. The expectation was not realized. With all doubts dispelled as to the strength of the banks, the suspi-cious few joined the army of regular depositors yesterday, with the result that the volume of the day's business was surprising, even to the bankers themselves. The United States National Bank yesterday retired $66,300 of its issue of clearing-house certificates and the same action is being taken by the other banks of the city. It is reasonably certain, with the very great improvement in conditions locally, that the en-tire issue of $1,100,000 of this emergency currency will be withdrawn be-fore February 1, next, when it becomes In the meantime it is being used principally in the payment of wages to out-of-town construction gangs, where it passes current and is just as acceptable as banknotes, Another healthful feature of the general situation yesterday was an advance of from one-half to one point in New York stock quotations. There is every indication in all circles of restored confidence which portends an early resumption of all activities making for Portland's greater growth and development. With the feeling of security in the situation, which is everywhere apparent, it is confidently predicted that Portland will soon don again her growing clothes and resume again her growing clothes and resume her commercial and building activities, which were partly suspended when the situation reached a stage that suggested proclaiming a series of bank holidays. Yesterday, as on Monday, nothing out of the ordinary happened at any of the banks, whose business equalled if not surpassed that of the active period immediately preceding the recent depression. The local effects of the threatened financial stringency are believed to have been removed entirly.

SWAMP SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Second Day After Holidays Makes Record for Handling of Next to Largest Number of Papers in Years.

There was a marked failing away in the filing of legal instruments at the State Circuit Court yesterday, although, in spite of the reaction from Monday's unprecedented rush, the day proved the second heaviest of recent years. At closing hour 14 new complaints had been filed, 40 documents in cases already at hand were submitted and 27 transcripts were at hand in cases under investigation by the District Attorney's office. The filing cierks had comparatively an easy day after the campaign of the day before when close to 300 instruments were received. It fell to the Sheriff's office, however, to shed its perspiration in the cause of the law and Sheriff Stevens had seven men hustling all day in getting service of process on the various defendants. Just where the Sheriff and his men are going to get time for their Christmas shopping is a question that is not altogether clear, for the papers have to be served day and night and there is no provision for extra help, the work falling as additional labor on the department.

As on Monday, no suits were filed yes-

As on Monday, no suits were flied yesterday of unusual importance. The most interesting was one filed during the forenoon which described frenzied finance operations in a nutshell. The city, too, was charged with financial methods of a questionable order in a second suit. Divorce complaints and miscellaneous suits to recover on loans made up the other cases.

The case of frenzied finance developed in the filing of an amended complaint. The complaint, without elaboration, was The complaint, without elaboration, was worthy a place in a muck-raking magazine's graft section. True, only about $251 in cash and property worth some hundreds more were involved, but the transactions of this corporation savored strongly of Wall street.

J. L. Gilstrap is the plaintiff. He was acting as representative of stockholders of the Woodstock Band Company, represented as a corporation duly organized sented as a corporation duly organized under the laws of Oregon. The suit was against the officers and directors of the corporation. George Hammond, president: C. F. Spaulding, secretary: Andrew Petrle, treasurer. These three likewise constitute the board of directors.

Discord in Music Company.

It seems from a perusal of the amended complaint that the company was organ-ized for the purpose of dealing in musi-cal instruments, and things went har-moniously from the date of beginning, November 29, 1901, up to May 31, 1996, when the three men already named were selected as a board of directors. Pros-perity had come to the company through dealings in various kinds of musical indealings in various kinds of musical in-struments from Jewsharps to oboes. The corporation, among other things, bought its own home over in Woodstock and was hriving immensely

The troubles of the corporation began with the election of 1996. The three members of the board of directors held an election of officers and elected themselves to fill vacancies. Then they decided to rent the corporation's property. Other stockholders protested, whereupon the officers and board of directors held a joint meeting at which all three were present. They decided to authorize the issuance of 15 shares of the unsubscribed for and unissued capital stock. It is alleged that this was done and after Mr. Spaulding. the secretary, had prudently purchased the new stock, the control of the cor-poration's destinies were settled. The other stockholders could make all the noise they wished now and it made no difference. The balance of power was with the corporation heads. So they decided anew to rent the premises and make other changes. Mr. Gilstrap says he offered $10 a month for the rent of the premises. But the operation of a corporation these days is a thing peculiar within itself and it is hardly strange to relate that the board of di-rectors preferred to rent to the venerable secretary, Mr. Spaulding, on a basis of $15 per month. Later they allowed the secretary $44 for repair bills and still later did not see at to modify their methods to meet the demands of stockholders, that were now a minority factor. So in desperation Mr. Gilstrap and his fellow stockholders wen to law. They want the Circuit Court to depose the selfinaugurated officers and to annul the is suance of the 15 shares of stock which turned the balance of power. Incident ally they want the money back that has been paid out of the treasury for unauthorized repairs and they want the difference between what was paid for rental of the corporation's premises and what was offered. It will take $261 to se treasury square, they say. In adboard of directors should pay all the costs of action and the lawyers' hire in
