CHINA WILL RULE; JAPAN AT CREST

Mikado's Empire Overrated, Says Head of Soo Chow University.

WAR WILL SETTLE JAPAN

Dr. D. S. Anderson, American, Discusses From an Asiatic's Standpoint Future of Nations Fringing Both Sides of Pacific.

"China is the coming power in Asia, bar none," said Dr. D. L. Anderson, for 25 years president of the Soo-Chow University, at Soo-Chow, China, in the Portland Hotel yesterday. Soo-Chow is about 50 miles from Shanghai, "the New York of Asia," as Dr. Anderson phrases it. Dr. Anderson is an American, a na-tive of Georgia, and for a quarter of a century has been in position to learn much of the inside affairs across the Pacific, both from the yellow and the Oct.

"Two things are common knowledge to every man acquainted with affairs in Asia," declared Dr. Anderson. "The first Asia," declared Dr. Anderson. "The first is that China and not Japan is not only the yellow nation of the immediate future, but the coming dominating power in all Asia. In a few years even the combined Anglo-Saxon power in Asia must give way to China. Compared with this, Japan is a small issue.

"The second point is this: China does not like Japan, and there is no probability whatever that Japan will rule or even seriously influence China. The reven seriously influence China.

even seriously influence China. The Chinese neither like nor trust the Japa-nese. China regards Japan as inferior to herself in every way, even in fighting ability, and China is right.

'Japan has reached the crest of her power. She has jumped into world influ-ence because of her one lucky stroke in downing Russia for the time being. But this place she cannot hold, and no over there thinks she can. All this talk over there thinks she can. All this talk about Japan ever ruling China or Asia has about as much in it as the talk some years ago of the world greatness of Spain, or the possibility that she would defeat the United States.

"Without any disrespect intended what-ever, the position of the Japs in Asta, especially in China, is like that of the Jews in America. They are an active, intelligent people, who make themselves intelligent people, who make themselves felt in many ways, but there is just as much chance of the Japanese running things in Asia as there is of the Jews turning America into a Hebrew nation. The positions of the two people have many points in common, with the exception that today the Jew is respected in America, while in China the Jap is disliked and not trusted.

Next War Will Settle Japan.

"Another war will put Japan back where she was, and will keep her there a war with some great naval power, I nean, such as the United States or Eng-and. Japan cannot be invaded by land forces any more than can England. She is essentially a naval power, just like England. Now, sea power depends, oth-er things being equal, on the resources of the opposing nations, and the United States can build ten ships and grow rich while Japan builds one and goes to financial ruin under the strain.

"If Togo had been defeated and the Russian warships had got between the Japanese Islands and the mainland, where would Japan, be today? Japan's whole position rests on the winning of one naval battle against a third-class fleet. The squadron that sails from Hampton Roads today has Japan as a world power, either in the present or the future, at its mercy. Everybody on the Asiatic side knows this except Japan.

business, she hurts England ten times more than any other nation. England is getting very restless under this, and the ending of the Japanese-English alliance is near. Then Japan must stand alone sgainst all the other nations, and to this there is but one possible ending. Japan will go back to her old place just as suddenly as she broke out of it.

The Renaissance in China.

"But with China the case is far differ ent. China, unlike Japan, is a rich na-tion, with hundreds of millions of good fighting men. She has natural resour equal to those of America. A gr hange is even now transpiring in China. what she needs above all else is a change of government and a new financial system. The Chinese government is not of the Chinese people. The case, to iffusirate it clearly on this side of the water, is like the Spaniards ruling in Cuba. When the present Empress diesards and she is 74 years old—there may be a huge world surprise rise up in China. It will be just as sudden, more unexpected and infinitely more formidable than the temporary rise of Japan. In 50 years the guns of the Golden Gate will be saluting one of the greatest navies of the world—and these ships will fly the flag of China. Remember, I am talking as an American. China is the best misunderstood country in the world today, as was said by a certain man recently. The said by a certain man recently. The two powers for all time on the Pacific Ocean are America and China.

'Japan will be as Sweden was in the Swedes swept down over Europe with a splendid army, the best in Europe at that time; but they did not stay long. And the same fate is coming to Japan, and in the near future, too. Chances in Chinese Trade.

'American business men are blind today concerning the chances for trade with China. Portland has a market straight to the west across the water straight to the west across the water that is worth more to her, ten times over, than all the trade she has today, and why does not this city, for example, wake up to that fact? If Portland would send men over to China to get the business, she would be swamped with orders at good profits. But this or any other American city, when they do business with China, must 'deliver the goods,' to use a slang expression. Only the cheapest and lowest class of Chinese come here, as a rule, and the Pacific Coast in particular has an idea that all the here, as a rule, and the Pacine Coast in particular has an idea that all the hundreds of millions in China art like them. This is just as foolish as if the Chinese rated all the Americans in the same class with the 'poor white trash' of Japan Inspired the Boycott.

The recent Chinese boycott against America was Japanese doings, and it has largely died out for that very reason. At the worst, it was not a national movement. Only the lower classes of China fell into the wily Jap trap Right today, China looks on America as her best friend, because this nation is not a 'land-bulk of the people have no idea, in Japan, of the power of the white man. They see only a few ships, a few travellers, and rate us accordingly. China did the same till the Boxer troubles. Then when the white columns went plunging into Pekin, China awoke to what the white race was. Fifty years ago any white man who would have predicted what Japan is and has done today would have been thought crazy. But with the Japanese example before the white race, a little poor, cramped nation at the best, let Burope and America he prepared for far greater things to come out of China. China will become a world power in less time from today than did Japan or the United States. The future of the Pacifichoth in war and in trade, rests in the hands of the United States and of China." bulk of the people have no idea, in Japan.

Harriman's Plan to Beat Hill on Lumber Traffic.

SPEND $1,000,000

Steel Cars Carrying 50,000 Feet Will Mean Reduction of Rates, Which Hill Must Meet-Increase in Traffic Is Vast.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 17.—(Special)—E. H. Harriman, to keep up with his rival, J. J. Hill, plans to spend over $1,000,000 in equipping the Union Pacific Railroad with a newly-designed freight car, built especially to carry lumber. About 1000 of these cars are to be ordered from the Pittsburg Pressed Steel Car Company, at $1000 each.

solely for carrying lumber. They will have twice the capacity for that purpose of the present cars and will thus enable the Union Pacific to lower its lumber-carrying rates. Mr. Hill will be forced to do likewise and will probably be forced to equip his lines with the new style car to keep from losing money. The new ars will carry 50,000 feet, against 20,000, the capacity of cars now used.

In the last five years the Union Pacific Railroad has increased its lumber business hundreds per cent. Previously little Pacific Coast lumber was used east of the Rocky Mountains; now, with the depletion of the Northern forests, it is likely soon to be the only kind of lumber on the market. Hence the plans the Union Pacific is making to get a large share of the lumber business. NOT SURE ABOUT PROCEEDING

MILTON, Or., Dec. 15 .- (To the Editor.)-MILTON. Or., Dec., 15.—(To the Editor.)—
The Oregonian needs no help from the undersigned to direct the public attention to John Greenleaf Whittler, and to the quality of his verse But so near as December 17, it seems good to let out the thought a person cherishes concerning the Quaker poet, appear in print.

It was poor health that took Whittier out of journalists and politics and placed him so near the heart of the soil that he could hear its beat. In spirit he was a genuine reformer, but he kept aloof from the strenuous life, se called, to be sought by the great and good of his fellows. An antislavery leader, his stirring words were a trumpet the whole world heard with passion.

Not so elegantly cultured as Longfellow, not so classically polished as Lowell, not so heroically grand as Bryant, not so eagle-eyed as Emerson, not so full of spirit as Holmes, not so destruit in touch as Aldrich, Whittier surpassed them all in finding meassages in the common place. He sung the hetter side of country life, the evening at home by the fireside, the fun of husking, or the gies of country life, the evening at home by the fireside, the fun of husking, or the gies of childhood, and always put the poor and the rich upon the same level. "Telling the Bees," "Maud Muller," "Barbara Frietchie." "In School Days." Eternal Goodness," "Ichabod." "The Barefoot Boy." "Winter in, Deors," and "Snow Bound," will have an abiding place in American literature. No poet of the republic is so distinctly American as Whittler, who did not wander over the earth for his themes. Seven of his poems are sung as hymns in our churches—these seven hymns would perpetuate his name for another hundred years.

Whittler never broke away from the thought of God's goodness and love, and no poet other than he has absorbed so much of the English Bible." Les there be light!" God spake of old, And over chaos dark and cold, And through the dread and formless frame Of Nature, life and order came.

The low rebuking of the distant waves Stole in upon him like the voice of God, Among the trees of Eden.

had turned the corner to go to The Oregonian building a few mornings ago when I saw a crowd gathered in I always avoid crowds when I can, as I have found they are so often associated with something horrible, but I couldn't avoid it this time, and as I came nearer I saw someone in the midst of the crowd holding up in the air by its tail, a rat. Two dogs jumped about endeavoring to reach it, and a crowd of men and boys stood around in evident enjoyment. I couldn't see where the pleasure would lie, even with a dead rat, but at last the man (since I must give him that title) who held it, tossed it into the middle of the street. The dogs bounded for it and then stood still, sniffing at it, and suddenly I saw that poor animal get on its legs and try to crawl away. It was alive. But when it moved, the dogs bit at it. So it stopped, huddled together, and the dogs turned away, losing interest in a thing that crouched so still. But the crowd was enjoying it; it was a shame to have the pleasure end. Someone stepped forward and kirked that crawling frightness, the contemps of the con end. Someone stepped forward and kicked that crawling frightened thing into the air. The interest of the dogs was aroused again and they ran forward, waiting for it to fall. It fell, made another effort to crawl away, but one of the dogs snapped at it again, and it lay quiet once more—a pitiful, bedraggled, living object, which men call "one of God's creatures."

God's creatures."

And I stood apart and watched-watched that helpless gutter rat; watched the dogs who thought it sport: watched the dogs who thought it sport; watched the human dogs who thought it sport, too. I might have stepped into the crowd and stopped them. Perhaps I was no better than they; I hadn't the courage. And so I stood and looked at the faces of the men who came and went, hoping that there would be one who would stop that mirrhless would stop that mirthless sport-one whom I could at least appeal-but they passed by unheeding, or stopped and loined the crowd. Men profess to care for the respect, the admiration, the love of women, and yet, though there is not a woman I ever knew who would not have worshiped the man who had gone into that crowd and ended who had gone into that crowd and ended the torment of a helpless rat, there was not one who seemed to even care. And I—a woman and a coward—stood and foolishly prayed that it would die. and I saw those men in a circle watch with keen interest the torment, the torture of a living thing. What did it matter? It was a gutter rat.

NEW STRENGTH FOR OLD BACKS

When past middle age, there comes a noticeable weakening of the organs of the body, and the danger of quick decline. It is quite necessary to give prompt help to any part that first shows signs of wenr.

Healthy kidneys mean a hale old age. Weak kidneys bring constant backache, lame back, stitches and twinges of pain, annoying urinary troubles, and the danger of diabetes or Bright's disease.
