

SHOPS ARE CROWDED

Christmas Trade Not Affected by Financial Stringency.

EXCEPT AS TO LUXURIES

Fewer Automobiles and Diamonds Than Last Year Will Be Distributed by Santa Claus.

The really wise portion of the population, of course, has completed its Christmas shopping these many days since.

It is barely necessary to say that the bulk of the population belongs to the class of mediocre wisdom.

All Streets Thronged.

If there was one person on the street yesterday there were 40,000. Stores were crowded, especially those places dispensing wares suitable for Christmas presents.
