

DEFERS ACTION BOOMING HUGHES

New York County Committee Will Learn Sentiment of Voters.

CANNON WORKERS THERE

After Hot Discussion Meeting Takes Another Month to Consider Resolution Indorsing Hughes for President.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—At a session which lasted less than ten minutes the Republican county committee of New York County tonight by an almost unanimous vote refused to consider at this time a resolution endorsing Governor Charles E. Hughes for the Republican Presidential nomination. No member had the resolution offered by the friends of the Governor, and its adoption moved than there came an amendment to receive and print the document and make it a special order for the regular meeting in January. This latter motion was carried with a shout that could be heard far out into the street. Immediately a motion to adjourn was also carried.

Had Hot Discussion.

During the late afternoon the executive committee had somewhat heatedly discussed the subject for three quarters of an hour and finally, on motion of Congressman Parsons, president of the county committee, it has been agreed, by a vote of 57 to 56 that consideration of the Hughes resolution should be deferred for one month.

Before the meeting was called to order several members of the committee were busy in the distribution of buttons proclaming Speaker Cannon as the next Presidential nominee.

Sound Sentiment of Voters.

In discussions following the adjournment of the committee meeting tonight, many of the most ardent supporters of Mr. Hughes declared that the action of the committee in deferring his endorsement could not be construed as a political defeat for him. The committee was said to have been general disposition on the part of the members to sound the sentiment of the voters at large before the committee committed itself. These men declared that the resolution would be unanimously passed at the January meeting.

JAY HAM LEWIS IS WILLING

Whiskered Statesman Out for Governor—Views on Presidency.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, announced last night that he would accept the nomination for Governor of Illinois if it were tendered him. He said he was not seeking the office, but will accept the nomination and make the fight for Democratic supremacy if I am given the platform of principles I stand for.

This country has been running rampant on the mania that men can be legislated into honesty. To be honest in places where they should have the right to follow men in duty to self. The criminal violating the law should be punished, but it is criminal to confiscate the property of the innocent to punish one guilty. It is barbaric to wipe out a class or association to gratify resentment of some one offender. We need new laws, but a sensible exception of the old ones.

As regards the rights of people and less zeal to punish some individual will be the platform of both parties at the coming Presidential nominations if they are wise. I think Cannon of Illinois or Foraker of Ohio will be the Republican candidate. Hughes has no chance because of the anti-slavery stand he has taken in position of the country to allowing New York again to dictate the Presidency. I have great respect for Governor Hughes. He has shown that a good lawyer is always a good executive of laws. He has also given to a certain style of whiskers official status. For the latter I am specially appreciative. If nominatively in the Democratic party prevail, Gray of Delaware or Johnson of Minnesota will be the candidate; if the Roosevelt Democrats continue, Bryan and some Eastern or Southern man, Hoke Smith of Georgia or the present Governor of Rhode Island or Chanler of New York for respectability."

* Queer Boom for Bonaparte.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—A number of doctors who advocate the extermination of habitual criminals are said to be booming Attorney-General Bonaparte for President, because his suggestion that habitual criminals should be hanged shows his sympathy with their scheme. The doctors would imprison criminals for life in asylums as public opinion is not ripe for hanging.

High Schools Will Debate.

GRANTS PASS, Dec. 19.—(Special)—The Grants Pass High School will meet the Roseburg High School in a debate in this city, January 10. The subject for discussion will be: "Resolved. That the High Schools of the United States Should be More Stringent." The Grants Pass representatives are Errol Gilkey, Randal Hood, and Olwen Hughes. They will support the negative.

Bryan Starts on Southern Tour.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 19.—Accompanied by William J. Bryan Jr., W. J. Bryan left Lincoln this evening for his trip in the South. He will stop at Wichita, Guthrie, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma City. Next he will visit Bryan, Tex. At Galveston he will meet Governor Campbell of Texas. They will spend several days hunting ducks on the Gulf Coast.

LINED UP TO BE KILLED

Survivor of Yaqui Massacre Tells His Experience.

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 19.—Leonele Carrillo, member of a prominent Mexican family of Tucson, one of the party of 18 ambushed by Yaquis on the Dolores River last Wednesday, when 12 of the number were killed, has arrived here.

Carrillo was stood up naked with the others, but when the fatal volley was fired he was only wounded, and succeeded in escaping.

STANDS BY BRISTOL

Heney Expected to Fight for His Retention.

HAS SENT PROTEST AHEAD

Tells Roosevelt Enemies Undermined District Attorney, but Is Told Bristol Brought About His Own Undoing.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 19.—It is expected that Assistant District Attorney Heney will endeavor, when he reaches here, to have C. Bristol reinstated as District Attorney of Oregon. Mr. Heney recently sent a strong protest to President Roosevelt against the decapitation of Mr. Bristol and it is believed that he will not stop in his efforts to have Mr. Bristol continued in office.

In his protest Mr. Heney stated that eminent reform had undermined him. Response to the grade that Mr. Bristol's undoing was the result of his own action and inaction, and not due to any other influences.

No action has yet been taken by the Oregon delegation towards the selection of a successor to Mr. Bristol. The next delegation, including the House members, will act in the matter, and a meeting will be held soon to recommend a man for the place.

Chris Schuebel, who is expected here, is the choice of Senator Bourne, but is not supported by the remainder of the delegation who are reticent concerning the choice.

Another object of Mr. Heney's visit is believed to be a settlement with the Department of Justice of his compensation for handling the Oregon cases. Department officials will not divulge for publication the amount paid Mr. Heney for his previous services in Oregon.

GRAZING BILL IS PREPARED

Leasing Scheme for Range by Garfield and Pinchot.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 19.—Secretary Garfield Pinchot completed the draft of a bill to go into effect Saturday for placing vacant grazing lands under Government control. The bill provides for the establishment of grazing districts by Presidential proclamation. Districts shall be under the administration of the Secretary of Agriculture, who shall lease the lands to stockmen for 10 years, giving preference to homesteaders and permanent occupants of the range, fixing reasonable fees based on the grazing value of the land.

The Governor of each state is to appoint an executive committee of stockmen to act with the Government officers in apportioning the range on a per capita basis. The bill also provides for the sale of the range and determine the number of animals for each district. Lands within the grazing district shall continue subject to homestead and mineral entry. Ten per cent of the proceeds of the rentals is for the benefit of districts containing the grazing lands, $250,000 being appropriated to carry the act into effect. After its establishment in any grazing district one year's time is given in which to obtain permits.

Jones Presents Memorial.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 19.—Congressman Jones today introduced in the House the following:

Senate joint resolution of the Washington State Legislature favoring the opening of the House bill 21,400 regulating and equalizing the pay of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and the revenue marine service.

House memorial No. 4, Washington State Legislature, favoring the opening of the state land claim of the Modoc Indian Reservation in Lassen County.

House memorial No. 6, Washington State Legislature, protesting against making permanent the temporary withdrawal of land in Okanogan and Ferry Counties and urging that it be restored to the public domain.

These were referred to the appropriate committees for their consideration.

He also introduced a large number of petitions and letters he had received from residents of the State of Washington protesting against the proposed parcel post law. These were referred to the committee on post offices and post roads.

Ankeny Dines the Lumbermen.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 19.—A party of lumbermen from Washington and Oregon, who have been attending the lumber rate hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, were entertained at dinner to-night by Senator Ankeny. Several species were made after the dinner and Mr. Ankeny, who presided, expressed himself as favorable to the lumbermen. Most of the members of the delegation left tonight or will leave tomorrow for the West.

New Presidential Postoffices.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 19.—Following are among the postoffices which will become presidential January 1:

- Bandon, Clatskanie, Echo, Crescent, 1000 each; Lents, 1000; Vale, 1000.
- Washington-Burlington, Chelan, Marion,
Rockford, 1000 each; Raymond, 1000; Friday Harbor, 1000.
- Idaho-Maiad City and Parma, 1000
each.

UNCLE SAM TO MAKE GOOD

PORLAND STUDENT'S MONEY IN BROKEN BANK.

Forced to Suspend Medical Studies
Young German Enlists in Marine Corps.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 19.—(Special)—"I lost my fortune after a month and now am going to make Uncle Sam reimburse me." This is the explanation made by George Waldemar Pelmann, aged 22, for enlisting in the Marine Corps. The young German spent his early years at Washington, where his father was German Consul.

"I had just started on a medical course when Mr. Pelmann, who had died, and I have that I did not have money enough to pull me through, so I came to this country to finish. I had $600 when I got as far as Portland, Or., and I was scouting for chances to invest my money when the bank in which I had deposited it went to the wall."

KISER'S KRISMAS KALENDARS.
Scenic Photos: hand-tinted. 28 Alder.

Carrillo and five others fled, without clothing, across the desert to a neighboring ranch. They reached there covered with mud. Not until they reached their terrible experience. Carrillo was driving with Jose Fernandez, a wealthy ranchowner and four other Mexicans from the town of Inuris, on the Sonora Railroad, to Fernandez' ranch. As they reached the Dolores River they were suddenly confronted by a band of 50 armed Apaches, dressed as Mexican soldiers. The Indians had with them 12 Mexican prisoners. At the command of the Yaqui chief, Carrillo and his five companions were surrounded and at the muzzle of rifles compelled to dismount from their wagon and lie down. They were then dragged alongside the Indians and held prisoner. After all had been compelled to undress the entire 15 were stood in line in front of the leveled rifles of the Indians. The chief then slowly counted up to the number "sixteen," when the Indians fired a volley, and all but six of the Indians dropped dead. Carrillo was wounded, but not seriously. With five others he fled.

The Indian uprising in the Magdalena district is the worst in five years, and is causing the greatest uneasiness among mining men, who fear a wholesale massacre. Many American mining men are making arrangements to leave the country.

The two Yaqui Indians arrested by Sheriff Saxon were armed with rifles and carbines and have been identified by a Mexican who escaped the massacre. The Mexican officers also have a dozen Yaquis suspects in custody on the other side of the line.

CRISIS STILL THREATENS

PERSIAN SHAH AND OPPON- ENTS CONFERRING.

Armed Forces of Both Sides Rush
Into Position Upon Slightest
News of Conflict.

TEHERAN, Dec. 19.—The armed forces which occupied the streets of the Persian capital since Sunday, began to disperse at about 10 A. M. today. But suddenly a few random shots were fired in the public square and this caused a speedy reassembling of the opposing forces.

At the close of the conference last night between the Shah and the Parliamentary party, it was agreed that the negotiations could continue with a chance of success only if both sides dispersed. Accordingly the Reactionaries, who were billeted in Artillery Square and the Concourse, and the Constitutionalists, who had surrounded the Assembly building, started to withdraw from their positions. Some shops had reopened and the members of the Assembly were deliberately liberating the best solution for the crisis when suddenly the firing in the square was heard. Each faction thought of each seized their guns. This afternoon large and fully armed forces representing each side reoccupied their former positions.

The attitude of each faction is largely defensive.

STATE OF PACIFIC CONFLICT

Persian Citizens and Soldiers Not Anxious to Fight.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—President today at the annual meeting of the Imperial Bank of Persia, Sir Leopold Henry Griffin, read a cablegram dated yesterday from the manager of the bank at Teheran. The manager said:

"Lord Kitchener certainly had the master-mind of science, for the world seems as sure now as he was."

"Lord Kelvin certainly had the master-mind of science, for the world seems as sure now as he was," said Mr. Griffin. "First of all, he was great as a mathematician and then he developed into the greatest of scientists. I think it is safe to say that he gave more attention to such subjects as the power of the tides and the properties of the crust of the earth than any other scientist."

"Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin certainly had the master-mind of science, for the world seems as sure now as he was," said Mr. Edison. "First of all, he was great as a mathematician and then he developed into the greatest of scientists. I think it is safe to say that he gave more attention to such subjects as the power of the tides and the properties of the crust of the earth than any other scientist."

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin certainly had the master-mind of science, for the world seems as sure now as he was," said Mr. Edison. "First of all, he was great as a mathematician and then he developed into the greatest of scientists. I think it is safe to say that he gave more attention to such subjects as the power of the tides and the properties of the crust of the earth than any other scientist."

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him the Royal Medal.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison, in an interview, expressed great regret at the death of Lord Kelvin, who had been his friend for 35 years.

"Lord Kelvin may truly be said to have been the life and soul of the Atlantic cable, and they are still using the instruments which he invented so many years ago. It is a matter of history that he was also identified with practically all the other great cables which have been laid."

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The royal Society, of which Lord Kelvin was formerly a member, voted yesterday to give him