

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

OREGONIAN TELEPHONES. Counting-room Main 7070. City Circulation Main 7070. Managing Editor Main 7070. Sunday Editor Main 7070. Composing Room Main 7070. City Editor Main 7070. Superintendent Building Main 7070. East Side Office East 61.

AMUSEMENTS.

MARQUAM GRAND (Morrison street, between Sixth and Seventh)—The spectacular extravaganza, "The Devil's Auction," Matinee, 2:15. TONIGHT AT 8:15. MAHER THEATER (Third between Yamhill and Taylor)—"Baker's Theatre," "The Mink of the Woods," Tonight at 8:15 o'clock. EMERALD THEATER (Twelfth and Morrison)—"The Desperate Chase," Matinee, 2:15. TONIGHT AT 8:15 o'clock. GRAND THEATER (Morrison street, between Park and Seventh)—Vaudeville, 2:30, 7:30 and 9 P. M. PANADES THEATER (Fourth and Stark)—Continuous vaudeville, 2:30, 7:30 and 9 P. M. LYRIC THEATER (Seventh and Alder)—The Allen Stock Company in "Mr. Barnes of New York," Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:15 P. M. STAR THEATER (Park and Washington)—The French Stock Company in "Kidnaped," Tonight at 8:15, and Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday at 8:15 P. M.

SELLWOOD'S SEWERAGE PROBLEM.—The sewerage question is a problem for the people of Sellwood, and the more the Sewerage Board of Trade wrestles with it the further it seems from a solution. The plans prepared by Engineer Gilbert provided for drainage for the district between East Fifteenth street and the river, but this was considered too small a territory, as it left out half of the suburb, and the engineer was instructed to extend the district to East Nineteenth street. This will still leave out all the suburb east of Nineteenth street; besides it does not provide for flood water. On motion at the meeting of the Board, Monday night, the engineer was asked to submit figures of sewerage for carrying off heavy rainfall. Walter Adams, F. H. Gehlke and W. Campbell were appointed to ascertain whether all the streets of Sellwood can be improved at the same time. This committee was authorized to appoint any number of subcommittees that may be needed to interview the property-owners on the different streets. It will be necessary to have separate petitions for each street improvement in that the charter amendment providing for improvement by district is in doubt.

CAMPAIN OF TREES PLANTING.—Under the auspices of a committee from the Sellwood Board of Trade, the planting of trees in front of homes in that suburb began yesterday. Blank cards were distributed to the school children and the patrons of the Sellwood Branch Library. On the cards blank spaces are left in which may be written the names of the trees wanted, whether ornamental, nut or fruit. These cards also show the wholesale prices of the trees. It is desired to have two trees planted for every 50-foot lot in Sellwood. It is advised that if these trees are planted deep enough the roots will not injure concrete sidewalks. The cards filled out will be returned to Rev. D. A. Thompson, J. W. Caldwell and C. T. Price, or Professor Strong of the Sellwood school. The committee hopes that every lot owner will secure at least two trees and plant them.

BRIDGE COMMITTEE ORGANIZES.—Delegates from the civic clubs of the East Side, appointed for the purpose, met last night at the Saratoga Hotel and organized to inaugurate a movement to regulate the draws of the bridges across the Willamette River. Joseph Buchtel presided. The following officers were elected: Chairman, W. L. Boise; secretary, H. P. Fisher, and treasurer, L. H. Wells. After a discussion of the methods of procedure it was decided that chairman Boise be authorized to appoint three committees, one composed of three members each, one on general statistics, one on petitions to be induced by civic bodies and one on river traffic. It was decided to have a regulation to be had must come through the Secretary of War. The general committee then adjourned to meet again next Monday night in the Saratoga Hotel.

FAUGHTNER vs WOMAN'S THREAT.—Mrs. Dora Cheek, of Milwaukie, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Justice Kelso, charging her with attempting to shoot Ralph McArthur and Kate Swanson, who were on their way to drive out a calf. The case will be heard tomorrow afternoon in the City Hall, at Milwaukie, before Justice Kelso. Mrs. Cheek declined to employ an attorney and will handle her own case. It will be a jury trial.

ENTERTAINMENT AT Y. W. C. A.—A Shakespearean program will be rendered at the Y. W. C. A., Sixth and Oak streets, at 8 o'clock tonight, by Mrs. Frank Swanton, for association members. She will be assisted by Miss Daisy Chalmers, pianist, and Miss Carrie Y. Spalding, who will sing Shakespeare songs. The program will consist of readings from various plays.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING.—The regular meeting of the Women's Club will be held Friday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce hall. Mrs. C. E. Runyon is in charge of the program and has some surprises in store for club members. Mrs. M. C. Perkins, soprano and Mrs. Byron B. Miller, contralto, will furnish the musical numbers.

BISHOP SCADDING TO SPEAK.—Bishop Scadding will address a meeting in St. John's Memorial Church, Sellwood, tonight, at 8 o'clock, on the deliberations of the general conference held in Richmond, Va., and the plans of the diocese for the ensuing year.

SUNSHINE HOME TRAINING CIRCLE.—The Sunshine Home Training Circle will meet this afternoon, at 2:15 o'clock in the Sunshine school, the meeting announced for yesterday having been postponed. A paper entitled "Entertainment in the Home," will be read.

ST. JOHN CITIZENS' CLUB.—The Citizens' Club, of St. John, will hold a meeting tonight in the City Hall and adopt a platform on which the candidates for mayor may be, in the coming municipal election must stand. A large attendance is expected.

FUNERAL OF ZILLA M. COLLINS.—The funeral of Mrs. Zilla M. Collins, who was operated on for appendicitis on New Year's day, has fully recovered and was able to visit his office yesterday. Mr. Honeyman had been bedridden for a year or more, with the disease in a mild form.

FUNERAL OF CHAUNCEY SAAGER.—The funeral of Chauncey Saager, who died at Lentz, January 15, was held yesterday forenoon from the Lentz Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Saager was 80 years old and was well known in the community.

FAVORS ORGANIC UNION.—At a conference of ministers from the Evangelical, United Evangelical and the United Brethren denominations, held in the United Brethren Church on East Fifteenth street last night, under the auspices of the Men's Club, all the speakers heartily favored organic union. They were Rev. H. C. Shaffer, Rev. E. S. Hughes, Rev. L. C. Hoover, Rev. Theodore Schauer, Rev. E. B. Emerick, Rev. J. Bowersox and Rev. A. S. Winter. Mr. Winter, Mr. Shaffer and Mr. Schauer were appointed to prepare resolutions setting forth the sentiment of the meeting for publication in the several church papers. The chairman was also authorized to appoint a committee of six from the three denominations to prepare plans for an alliance, which shall be an organization for union work in Portland. After the business meeting a dinner was served. W. O. Ziegler, president of the Men's Club, presided.

DEMOCRATS SOUND PARTY CALL.—A meeting of the Democratic City and County Central Committee was held last night in the office of the chairman, George H. Thomas, in the United States National Bank building. The object of the meeting was for the purpose of uniting different factions of the party for the coming campaign. Addresses were made urging the necessity for such action. A committee was appointed to arrange for a further meeting. Those present were G. H. Thomas, John Montag, S. C. Armitage, Tom Word, P. Powers, John Van Zant, Joe Malley, N. A. Peary, General Killbecker, L. T. Peary, G. H. Hutchins, G. W. McCoy, R. A. Wilson, John Ryan, C. E. S. Wood, R. Montague, F. V. Holman and Alex. Swank.

OHIO SOCIETY MEETS.—At the meeting of the Ohio Society last night at Alsky hall a large number of the members were present and an enthusiastic reception was given the program arranged for the evening. W. B. Chappin, president, presided in the chair. H. M. Calk gave an interesting address on "The Presidential Candidates From the State of Ohio," and General J. L. Anderson spoke on "The Military History of Ohio." Songs by Miss Grace Gilbert, Miss Dunlap, Mrs. Barbour, Miss Julia F. Cole and an instrumental solo by Mrs. F. Jackson contributed to the enjoyment of the evening.

SUSPECTED OF INSANITY.—Tom Grant, 25 years old, was arrested at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Policeman Joe Burke, at Second and Alder streets, where Grant was acting in a peculiar manner. He was locked up in the City Jail on suspicion of insanity. Grant stopped several people on the street and asked them if they had seen some friend of his to whom he referred as "Jeff." After he had intercepted several men he stopped a woman and asked her whereupon the officer took him in charge.

TITLE GUARANTEE & TRUST accounts bought, 291 Morrison street.

WITHERSPOON AT HEILIG Basso Now Received.

Portland music-lovers will be given a most artistic treat at the Heilig Theater on Wednesday evening, January 22, when the famous American basso, Herbert Witherspoon, will be heard in a grand concert series. This international favorite has the reputation of presenting the most finished and scholarly program of any one of the celebrated singers. Mail orders are being received all this week from this city. Address letters and make checks and money orders payable to W. T. Fangle, manager Heilig Theater. Enclose self-addressed envelope to help insure safe return. These orders will be filled in the order of their receipt and returned to the sender before the Monday sale opens at the theater next Monday. Phone Heilig Theater for any information desired.

PERSONAL MENTION. Ex-Senator W. A. Howe, of Carlton, Or., is at the Portland. A. B. Thompson, ex-Receiver of the Land Office at La Grande, is at the Imperial Hotel. H. Y. Blackwell, a prominent stockman and banker of Walla Walla, registered at the Imperial yesterday. J. A. Veness and Mrs. Veness are guests at the Oregon Hotel. He is one of the leading lumbermen of Winlock, Wash. G. A. Okell and Mrs. Okell, of San Francisco, are guests at the Portland Hotel, where they are receiving calls from many Portland friends. G. A. Brackett, of Minneapolis, who has been in the mountains in company with the late Colonel Crooks in 1883, is registered at the Portland. W. J. Purnell, of Pendleton, who was the Republican candidate against Governor Chamberlain in his first campaign, is staying at the Imperial. R. E. Kingsbury, of Boston, Mass., is making one of his customary trips to Portland, looking after some landed interests here in this vicinity. Mrs. Emily Shaver, of Portland, has gone to Southern California, where she will remain for several months. The trip is to be made for the benefit of her health. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Danziger will be at home to their friends at their apartments at The Hill, on Sunday, January 23, and Thursday, January 30, between 2 and 5 P. M. J. E. Marks and W. W. Wood, attorneys of Canyon City; S. B. Eakin, banker of Eugene, and Mrs. Eakin; P. L. Campbell, president of the State University, Eugene, are registered at the Imperial. M. J. Heney, the contractor who built the White Pass Railroad in Alaska, considered by engineers one of the feats of the age, and who is now a resident of Seattle, arrived at the Portland Hotel yesterday. William H. Cowles, publisher of the Spokesman Review, is on a visit to Portland. He reports Spokane prospering in all lines with the exception of real estate, which market is dull at the present time. Walter B. Honeyman, of the Honeyman Hardware Company, who was operated on for appendicitis on New Year's day, has fully recovered and was able to visit his office yesterday. Mr. Honeyman had been bedridden for a year or more, with the disease in a mild form. William H. Hurlbut, formerly superintendent of the O. W. P., and a well-known resident of Portland, is seriously ill. He came down the stairs of his studio, Mr. Hurlbut, who returned to Portland last Friday from a trip East, has been suffering from a severe stomach trouble, and it is feared will have to undergo an operation.

WHERE TO DINE. All the delicacies of the season at the Portland Restaurant; fine private apartments for ladies, 305 Wash., near 10th. J. D. Kruse's Restaurant, merchants' lunch 25 cents, 11-2 o'clock; special dinner 35 cents, 5-8 o'clock.

SEWED SOLES, 75 CENTS. Best oak leather, Jacob Schwind, 367 Stark, near Park. Phone Main 7359.

AUNE—THE PHOTOGRAPHER. Columbia Bldg. West Park and Wash.

KISER CALENDARS 10c UP. Halprice while last. 218 Alder.

NO PLATES REQUIRED. Our force is so organized that we can do your entire crown, bridge and plate work in a day if necessary. This will be appreciated by people from out of town. You may have your teeth extracted in the morning, have them all night with no pain, and positively PAINLESS EXTRACTION. FEEL FREE TO CALL. BRIDGES ARE ORDERED.

W. A. WISE, Dentist. Twenty Years in Portland. Falling Bldg., Third and Washington Sts. 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays, 9 to 12 P. M. EXTRACTION, BRIDGES, PLATES. BOTH PHONES, 4 AND MAIN 2520.

"Mr. Barnes of New York," at the Lyric

It is a most interesting and capable interpretation of Archibald Claverling Gunter's well-known play, "Mr. Barnes of New York," that is presented by the Lyric Theater this week. The play is billed as a comedy-drama, and while there are indeed laughs enough, the tragic vein running through seems enough to warrant it being classed as a melodrama.

The story of the play deals with the efforts of an American to prevent the consummation of a vendetta by a Corsican maiden who seeks to avenge the death of her brother, who has been killed in a duel with an English naval officer. The story has been so generally read and the play enacted here with a sufficient frequency to make it unnecessary to dwell at length on the plot.

As Marina Paoli, the Corsican maiden seeking her brother's murderer and who later falls in love with an English officer, Miss Vera Felton essays the hotblooded, emotional girl of the Mediterranean in a manner that would do credit to tragedienne of much greater note. Truly the work of this clever young star grows more interesting at every new role she essays. Those who witnessed her splendid performance, "The Transgressor," two weeks ago, should not miss seeing her work this week.

The comedy vein running through the piece is furnished principally by sprightly little Ella Houghton, who cleverly enacts the role of a young girl of 14 compelled by her aspiring mother to dress and act as a child of 11. Mr. Burton H. Barnes, of New York, the versatile Gothamite traveling in Europe where he falls in love, is played most capably by Forrest Seabury, who gives a most pleasing performance. Irving Kennedy makes a capital lover in the part of Kevin Arnruther, who is in love with the impetuous Marina, and as his sister, Miss Marie Thompson, is doing the best work she has in the piece, she is the popular stock company. Rupert Drum gives a highly creditable interpretation of the part of Count Donello, guardian of Marina, and Tom Monaldo, the aged Corsican anxious to take up the vendetta in the event that Marina fails, G. L. Walling is worthy of special mention as the morbidly curious and a little glib, but very pretty girl and excellent voices, round out an entertainment that has been seldom surpassed in the Portland vaudeville show-rooms.

Pre-eminently the star attraction on the program are Adgie and her lions. Adgie has been seen here before, and so have Madame Panda and Madame Schell, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat whereby the human is seen evincing superiority over the brute. Theater-goers earlier on the program, but the diminutive, but merry woman now appearing here is without any question the premier in the art of taming the "king of beasts." The morbidly curious are always on the alert for a lion taming act, or some feat