WHEAT SALES SMALL

Neither Buyers Nor Sellers Ready to Operate Freely.

FOREIGN MARKET PICKS UP

English Trade Takes a Bullish View of the Situation — Front-Street Butter Market Top Heavy. Demand for Oranges.

Grain buyers are offering 87 cents for bluestem and 85 cents for club wheat in the Portland and Puget Sound markets, but are not getting much at this price. Farmers are slow sellers and the dealers apparently are not sorry for it, with the foreign markets continuing in such a depressed state. Some slight indications of improvement were seen in the English market yesterday and should things continue to brighten there, there will be more inducement to buy at this end. With a revival of activity in the Northwest, higher prices are expected to follow. Opinions in the local trade vary as to the quantity of wheat remaining in farmers' hands in the three states, but a conservative estimate is a sixth of the crop.

Most of the foreign grain men take a bullish view of the situation. It is evident from the manner in which wheat has been exported from the United States that the reserves are being reduced to very small proportions. The exports cannot keep up much longer unless the estimates of the crop were radically wrong. In commenting on the outlook, F. Lenders & Co., of London, write:

The position of wheat appears to us as perfectly sound, and to be gaining strength daily, so that we have little hesitation in expressing a favorable opinion as to future prospects, and we look for a largely increased consumptive demand both in this country and on the continent, which will undoubtedly lead to strong markets, and in all probability to a further improvement in values.

The weather in Argentine appears to have been favorable on the whole, but some firms continue to receive rather disquieting reports, one especially saying that 30 per cent of the wheat and oats in the South has been damaged through gales and hailstorms. Anxious as we may all be to regard this information as grossly exaggerated, it would at the same time be folly to ignore it, especially in view of the vital importance to Europe of a large Plate crop secured in good condition.

Let us repeat once more that, if the 500,000, 600,000 or 700,000 quarters which Argentine is expected to supply us with weekly were to be augmented by liberal shipments from North America, India, Australia and the Black Sea, there might be cause for fear that Europe would not be able to stand up against such supplies, especially at the present level of values, but all evidence points to the fact that exports from the sources mentioned are likely to be of a dwindling character, and in some cases practically nil. Argentine shippers ought to know this as well as anyone else, and it will always be a matter of wonder to us why they never seemed thoroughly to grasp the fact, as that country certainly holds the key of the situation, and if they had taken anything like concerted action, they could easily have put the market up to 45s or even 50s per quarter; that they failed to do this, European consumers may feel truly thankful.

The news from India continues gloomy, and the prospect of any wheat being successfully grown for export doubtful in the extreme. This, however, has been expected for some time and has probably been discounted; but the latest news from Russia is distinctly disquieting. According to today's cable advices there is hard frost in the greater part of the Southwest, without snow covering, and crop prospects are poor. The principal Black Sea ports are still without arrivals from the interior, and markets keep wonderfully firm.

CAUSE OF BLUE MOLD IN HOPS.

Germ Gets Into the Cone Before Picking Time, According to an Expert.

Trade was reported quiet in the hop market yesterday. The E. C. Horst Company was said to be buying, but the other firms were mainly occupied in taking in previous purchases. A wire from California reported that market "sick" and placed the unsold stock of 1907s at 28,000 bales.

In discussing the attack of blue mold on hops, a well-known dealer said yesterday:

"I saw this trouble coming as long ago as last October. In fact, when I saw the first samples of the crop, I knew that unless the hops were moved East promptly, they would become infected. The trouble is due to the condition of the hop itself and not to the weather. We have warm, moist weather every Winter, but if the hops are sound to start with, there can be no blue mold.

"The disease—for that is all it is—is the effect of the burrs getting their second growth during the rainy weather at picking time. This second growth was clearly shown by the dark brown color of the cones. When I discovered this color in the early samples I knew that trouble was likely to come later, for the conditions were just the same in 1899. The mold first shows itself in the cone and then spreads to the outer edge of the hop. The climatic conditions, of course, have caused the mold to get its growth, but it would not have appeared if the germs had not already been in the hop. Frost seems to check the spread of the disease by killing the germs, and when blue moldy hops are put in cold storage their condition grows no worse. High dried hops, I believe, are never attacked."

OUTSIDE BUTTER IN OVERSUPPLY

Front Street Heavily Stocked, With Demand Very Light.

Although there is a firm tone in the city creamery butter market, owing to the light arrivals of cream that will grade as No. 1, the Front-street market is badly overstocked. Country creamery butter of excellent quality is being offered there at 30 and 32½ cents. The supply is beyond all local requirement and as there is no outside outlet at the present time, it is difficult to see how the surplus can be disposed of. Only a few brands of outside butter are now held up to 35 cents. Commission men say they do not remember when the market was so badly overloaded before at this time of year.

Eggs arrive freely from all parts of the Valley and stocks are slowly but surely accumulating. Local retailers buy very cautiously. In order to interest Northern buyers, it was found necessary yesterday to make a further cut in the price, and some business was reported done at 26½ cents on outside account. The general quotation single cases was 27½ cents.

The poultry market was dull, with receipts light and the demand for chickens slow. Ducks were in fair request. Turkeys were almost unsalable.

A small California inquiry for cheese is reported, which has had the effect of somewhat steadying the market. The last steamer out from Tillamook brought 500 cases.

HOP UNION PROMOTERS HOPEFUL.

Yakima Men Say Paul Horst Stopped Off There to Put Damper on Movement.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Jan. 22.—Richard Strobach, H. B. Scudder and other prominent hopgrowers in this district charge Paul Horst, of New York, with invading the Yakima country purposely to discourage the organization of a union of hop-producers of this section. They refer to him as an enemy of the hopgrower and charge him with garbling figures as to the supply held in reserve by brewers and others. They have warned Oregon hopgrowers against him as an opponent to the union proposition.

Over 50 per cent of the hopgrowers of this district have signed with the union. Another meeting will be held in this county within 10 days by hopmen and at that time they believe the remainder of the percentage necessary will be subscribed. Local growers are opposed to a reduction of the hop acreage.

Bananas Arrive in Good Condition.

Two cars of bananas, two of oranges and one car each of celery and cauliflower arrived yesterday. The bananas were in fine green condition. The demand for oranges is the feature of the fruit market and the receipts clean up promptly. A car of sweet potatoes is due today.

Government Purchase of Silver.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Treasury Department today purchased 200,000 ounces of silver for delivery at Philadelphia and New York, at 55.826 cents per fine ounce.

DEMAND FOR BONDS

Effect of Abundance of Funds at New York.

GENERAL BUSINESS QUIET

Stock Market in Professional Hands. Rally From Low Point of Morning Is Not Held and Closing Tone Is Easy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Professional operations dominated the stock market today. There was a suspicion that the turn in the market was fostered by the strong financial interests which have been given credit for the support of the market which had been effective up to the end of last week. Conditions were not appreciably changed today from yesterday.

Evidence accumulated of the piling of money in this center, of the growing pressure to put it out in loans and of the increasing plethora in loaning channels which is resulting. The same tendency seems to be quite universal and reduction in the official discount rates of the Banks of England and France tomorrow was canvassed as a likelihood in foreign markets. This development is having its inevitable effect in improving the demand for "gilt-edged," highly secured bonds of a seasoned capacity.

Information coming to hand today offered little assurance for present expansion of business activity, beyond the increase in confidence of an early revival of demand for products to be stimulated by the relaxation in the money market.

The day's fluctuations were followed with timidity in either direction and the substantial rally from the low point of the morning was not with any confidence, the closing tone being heavy.

A brisk rally in the Rock Island collateral bond issues was a feature of the bond market, which was otherwise irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,024,000. United States registered 4s declined ¼ per cent on call.

COAL MINES SHUT DOWN

Operators Claim Overproduction but Raise Price Because of Shortage.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Declaring that the market is overstocked with coal, the Pacific Coast Company has closed down the Lawson mine near Black Diamond. The action throws out of work several hundred miners, most of whom have homes near the mine, and reduces the production of coal by 400 tons daily.

The action of the company is a surprise to the public, following as it does, the loudly proclaimed shortage of coal which the officers of the Pacific Coast Company warned the public would take place this Winter. This loudly voiced prediction followed an advance of $1 a ton on the price of coal at the Pacific Coast bunkers, and was made as an excuse for such an advance in midsummer.

The Lawson mine is a large producer of the best grade of coal mined by the Pacific Coast Company. Shutting it down will materially affect the coal supply of Seattle, and this action of the Pacific Coast Company may result in a scarcity of coal in a few weeks' time. Under present market conditions, Black Diamond lump coal ought to be selling for from $5 to $5.50 a ton at the bunkers, instead of $7 a ton, the present price.
