TITLE BANK'S ORGY OF HIGH FINANCE

Experts' Investigation Reveals Wildcat Revels With Depositors' Money.

CONCERN NEVER SOLVENT

Accounts Juggled and Funds Placed in Every Sort of Risky Scheme. President Ross Kept Bible and Prayer Book at Right Hand.

So bad is the wreck of the bank of

'So bad is the wreck of the bank of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, so tangled are the accounts, so extravagant and incompetent was the management and so shameless was the breach of depositors' confidence, of bankers' ethics, and of people's law, that the uncovering of the bank's sins has ceased to amaze and almost ceased to surprise. The bank is hardly better than a pile of junk. It possesses no capital and is full of 'old hose' accounts. It is no exaggeration to say that the institution never drew a solvent breath. During its orgy of high finance, its president kept in his office a Bible and a hymn book.

The accounts show that practically every investment the bank made with gold of depositors turned into dust and blew away. They reveal no profits from any of the ventures, except "enhanced values," which the bank's officers padded every once in a while to the price tags of the assets. Irrigon scheme, Pence flumes, electric power investment, prune and logging deals, mining ventures, all become like the wind the bank was made of, while the money of depositors was strewn about. Under an ordinary receivership it is doubtful if the bank would pay out 30 cents on the dollar. Under the Ladd management it will probably do considerably better. But for the Ladd guarantee of the bank's debts, depositors would suffer the heaviest loss ever brought down by a Portland bank on the heads of a trusting public. bank on the heads of a trusting public.

Expert's Report Nearly Ready.

Expert's Report Nearly Ready.

A report of the sins of the bank will be made, possibly at the end of this week, by the accountants who have been prying into the books for two months past—E. H. Collis, to the Federal court, and J. W. Ferguson, to District Attorney Manning. The two men are collaborating on the report under rush orders of Judge Wolverton, who instructed last week that the accounts be brought to a focus.

While the contents of the coming report have not been divulged, enough is known to make evident the following main facts:

The savings bank was organized in 1904, with only wind, water and jawbone or capital, and in that condition went o smash November 6, 1997. Much of the time the bank was paying out more interest on its debt than it was taking in on loans—the interest payments being made out of depositors' money.

During the last year Ross carried no check account of his own, but drew out whatever sums he pleased from the teller's cash, without entering them in teller's cash, without entering them in the teller's account. His own accounts, which are believed to contain the items, he has refused to release.

The bank's losses will foot up fully $70,000 for the five years of its career. Of this loss $250,000 was entailed by the Irrigon project; $100,000 by the electric light investment at Silverton; $66,000 by the Goldbug mining syndicate near Giendale, Southern Oregon; $16,000 by the Levens Ledge Mining Company, near Riddles; $100,000 or $150,000 by the Pence ventures; $36,500 by prune investments in Clark County, Washington, and Marion County, Oregon, and other big sums by County, Oregon, and other big sums enterprises of various sorts, many which cannot be traced on the books.

Details of Irrigon Project.

One of the suposed chief assets, ands of the Oregon Land & Water Company (Irrigon project), are be-lieved to be worthless. These bonds to the par value of $255,000 the bank bought at 80 cents and immediately listed them at 100 cents, crediting the increase to "suspense" account, as com-Ross bought some of the bonds through his dummy. W. W. Reid, on January 12, 1907, for $2960 (with the bank's money, through an overdraft, Reid having no deposit), and two days later sold the bonds to the bank for $4050, crediting that sum to Reld; on March 1, Ross bought more bonds through Dummy Reld for $5500 (also with bank's money) and two weeks later sold them to the bank for $5500. Ross netted $2820 for himself in the

The bank made fraudulent state-The bank made fraudulent state-ments of its finances both to the state and to the public. On May 20, 1307, the bank was carrying $200,000 over-drafts, but in its statement of that date, upon which it solicited business, it hid $121,000 of such accounts in loans and discounts and $82,000 as cash on hand, the latter being an overdraft for that amount, made on the bank by the general department of the company.

The bank invested and sunk large sume of state school fund money, con-trary to law, which declares only the State Land Board shall invest the school money.

That Famous Suspense Account.

Worst of all the accounts is that entitled "suspense." This originally was carried as an "old hoss" account, into which were dumped doubtful ac-counts, to remain there until it should he demonstrated they were no good. But later, through the versatile genius of the bank's officers, the account turned into a purported asset. Into this count were turned anticipated profits. account were turned anticipated profits, enhanced values, legal fees earned but not collected and inflations of many sorts, in a most amazing way. By this system the bank gave the account a credit balance, from which the officers drew for their schemes and evidently in several cases for their personal uses.

Mind you, they drew nothing but figures from this suspense account, since they put nothing but figures into it. they put nothing but figures into it.
But they took the figures into the vaults, where the money store of depositors was kept, and carried away their measure of coin. December 31, 1904, Treasurer T. T. Burkhart obtained $8000 in this manner, by drawing on the suspense account for the figures and on the deposits for the money. On and the suspense account for the figures and on the deposits for the money. On the suspense way, Whether the money was drawn for his personal use or for that

PLUNGE THROUGH WINDOW

Runaway Horses Startle Employes of Printing-Shop.

With a crash that could be heard blocks away, two runaway horses yesterday afternoon, in an attempt to turn the gener at Second and Salmon streets, plunged into the plate glass windows of the store occupied by A. E. Kearn & Co., printers, smashing the windows which measure seven by four feet into thousands of hits and territing the employers of the measure seven by four feet into thousands of bits and terrifying the employes of the place. The frightened horses when brought to a standatill stood trembling with their fore feet inside the store and their hind feet on the sidewalk.

Miraculously neither of the horses bad received a scratch. Inside the store, Otto Dochring, one of the printers, whose machine was situated close to the window, was cut about the face by the flying glass. The damage to the window amounted to $150. The runaway team belongs to a Mr. Nickum of Beaverton. It is a large, powerful pair of bays and used for heavy hauling. They were driven yesterday by a Chinese who gave his name as Jim.

The wagon was empty and was on its way down Second street when the animals took fright at a streetcar at Clay street. They dashed off full speed, the driver being unable to curb them. The street was crowded and the flight of the fearn was a signal for a burried scramteam was a signal for a hurried scram

In its flight, the wagon grazed a street car, tilting the vehicle and throwing the driver to the ground. Unhurt, he got up and pursued his charge.

Another runaway which occurred at Second and Couch streets an hour before, seriously injured a horse owned by Gustav Newman of 50 North First street.

Police Seek Owner of Automobile No. 535

He Is Wanted for Using Public Street as Garage—Others to Be Arrested for Various Infractions.

DO YOU own automobile No. 536? If you do you are "pinched." The police are looking for you high and low, and intend to land you before tonight. You will be able to claim the doubtful honor of being the first man to suffer arrest under the new ordinance regulating automobiles. The warrant for your arrest was sworn to yesterday by Pa-trolinan Welch, and while they were looking for you yesterday you must have been out of town for a spin.

Do you remember leaving your go-cart out in front of a residence at the cor-ner of Williams avenue and Hancock streets night before last? That is what they are after you for. Under the new ordinance auto owners cannot make the public streets do service as auto sheds. A garage on private property is required. The man who leaves his auto stand out all night is reasonably sure of being re-ported by the officer on the beat.

Other arrests, too, are to follow.

Deputy City Attorney Tomlinson has quite a list of numbers which will be placed on warrants as soon as they can be verified. One auto will be arrested before the end of the week for rounding the corner of Sixth and Yamhili streets at a speed greater than six miles an hour. Under the new law every auto must round the corner at a snall's pace inside the city limits. Ten miles an hour is the maximum speed while traveling in a straight line.

The woods are full of policemen. Auto tags are easily seen, too, and the reck-less automobile owner, after this, is likely to have his path bestrewn with painful thorns. The owner of No. 535 had best carry 25 around in his pocket today, as that will be the sum of his bail when ar-

BAKER A HOUSE OF MIRTH

Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag" Has Made Millions Laugh.

A good place to go is where there is fun, music and ceter, for it is wonderful how these things help to prolong and brighten life. Hoye's "A Milk White Fiss," at the Baker Theater this week fulfills all requirements and has made millions of people laugh since it was first produced several years ago. It had a phenomenal run at the Baker last year, and is better than ever this.

"Blg Hearted Jim" Pleases Crowds "Big-Hearted Jim." at the Empire this week is a strong attraction. If such characters as Jim Saxon, Sheriff of Medicine Lodge, Mont. a school teacher of modesty and beauty, Liddy, an Indian maiden, who is an heireas; the stage driver, a child of the Wild West, and many others as interesting, can be used to make a good play, then "Big-Hearted Jim" should be a success. Matinees tomorrow and Saturday.

Star Theater Matinec.

"The Train Robbers" Next.

Next week's bill at the Star will be the great sensational melodrama, "The Train Robbera". This is the greatest melodrama offered the Portland public in many months, as it deals with some of the greatest train robberies that our country has ever experienced, and will be sure to please those who like a melodrama of this nature, and there will also be sufficient comedy to make the play satisfactory to all.

Trunk Found on Sidewalk.

The police last night took charge of a trunk which was found on the sidewalk in front of the O. W. P. station at First and Alder streets. Policeman O'Brien noticed that the trunk had been standing there for a long time and on making inquiry from the ticket agent, learned that quiry from the ticket agent, learned that it had been there for more than a week past. The agent said that evidently it had been brought there instead of to the freight-house of the railway, and as no baggage was accepted at First and Alder, it had remained there unclaimed. The trunk is marked W. E. Smith, Gresham, Or. It is being held at the police station for the owner.
