morning and adopted resolutions indorsing Joseph G. Cannon for the Presidency and fixed March 26 as the date for hold ing the state convention in this city.

The resolutions indorse the policy of President Roosevelt "in administrating visibly affected by the demonstration even-handed justice to all the people of which had been accorded him." even-handed justice to all the people of the United States, without regard to persons and in the character of his recom mendations to Congress," and proceed as

We invite the attention of the country cordial, earnest and constant support of the Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, as Speaker of the House of Representatives, it would have been impossible for the recommendations of the President to have been enacted into party, as manifested by the Presiednt and enacted by the Congress, cannot be better carried out and continued than by placing the administration of the same in the hands of the man whose authority and in-fluence has been second only to that of President Roosevelt himself.

The resolutions closed with formal indersement of Speaker Cannon for Presi-

President McMurray, Alderman Fowler and other representatives of the Tuft Club of Chicago appeared before the com-mittee to ask that provision be made for a primary vote on President. Colonel George Buckingham, of Danville, speak ing for Mr. Cannon, said that twice within four years the state convention had declared Mr. Cannon the choice of Illinois for President, that 90 per cent of the Re-publicans of the state are for him and that Mr. Cannon would not hesitate to submit his claims to a primary vote if that were practicable.
"Mr. Cannon believes," said Colonel

Buckingham, "that the Republicans of each district should be left to select their delegates in their-own way."

CANNON BOOMED IN CONGRESS

Boutell Starts Cheers by Proposing to Send Him Higher. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. Speaker Cannon's Presidential boom received marked impetus in the House of Representatives today, when Equitell, his colleague from Illinois, brought the subject to the fore as the climax of a half hour's speech. His remarks were based on the fact that to-day was the 34th anniversary of Cannon's first speech in the House.

Boutell spoke with enthusiasm, and when he closed with the remark that within the next two months "the plain people of the country would join the vot-ers of Cannon's district in conferring upon him the Nation's final honor," the Speaker was given a great demonstra-nt was felt on al sides when the Speaker made no reply. He stepped from the rostrum and amid cheering retired to his room while the House considered pension bills.

Most of the day was taken up by a discussion of the bill to provide for taking the next consus. Its consideration had not been concluded when the House

Great Men Who Heard Him.

Boutell began by recalling the fact that this was the anniversary of Cannon's first speech in the House. He recalled the noted men of the House at that time whose friendship Cannon enjoyed, and said that among those present who heard his remarks were Speaker Blaine, Joseph said that among those present who heard his remarks were Speaker Blaine, Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut; William P. Frye and Eugene Hale, of Maine; Henry L. Dawes, E. Rockwood Hoar, George F. Hoar, Renjamin F. Butler, Julius C. Burrows, James A. Garfield, Alexander H. Stephens, of Georgia; William R. Morrison of Illinois; William S. Holman, of Indiana; Lucius Q. Lamar, of Mississippi; Richard P. Bland, of Missouri; Fernando Wood, of New York, Samuel L. Rendall Wood, of New York; Samuel J. Randall Pennsylvania, and Roger Q. Mills, of Boutell said that Cannon, then 35 years old, spoke on a bill reducing rates of postage on books, for the carrying free of newspapers within the counties of their publication, and for the extension of the franking privilege to public corre-

Cannon's Answer to Sneer.

He made a carefully prepared, logical argument in support of the bill, reinforcing his proposition by a well-ordered array of convincing figures. It was a speech that could only have been made after hard work and thorough preparation.

Soveral extracts from the speech were read by Boutell, who spoke of a gibe by a member, directed at Cannon, that "the gentleman must have outs in his pocket."

Boutell, said, that jumpituous applicates gentleman must have onts in his pocket."

Boutell said that tumultious applause greefed Cannon's refort when he said:

I understand the gentleman. Yes, I have eats in my pocket and hayseed in my hair, and the Wenteru people are generally affected in the same way; and we expect that the smed, being good, will yield a good crop, I trust tenfold; and the sooner legislation is had, not only as proposed by this bill, but all other respects, as the neople desire and equity and justice shall dictate, the hetter it will be in the long run for all people in this country, whatever may be their calling or wherever they may reside.

Not Afraid of Criticisms

He said that it had been charged that the city press opposed the bill, and en this point Boutell quoted Cannon as fol-

In don't believe that the city press will, as a unit, oppose this bill. A perion of it may, from a clish metives in some instances, honestly in others. I certainly have no desire to call upon myself the assaults of the city press or any portion of it. Nor do I fear it as long as I truly represent my constituents and act in my representative capacity for the interest of the people generally. Nor would I change the power of the press to assail my acts or those of anyone else. On the other hand, every member of Congress or other agent of the people should court a fair criticism of his acts and, if he vitally misrepresents the people, they should and no doubt will fail to keep him in places of trust. But no man is a proper person to represent the people unless he has the honesty and the hardbone to stand and do what is tight and for the interest of the people, without reference to what the action of the press may be in the pesmisse.

That speech gave Mr. Cannon a position locating a as one of the strong men in the House Diego Bay.

and won for him the respect of his cot-leagues in both branches of Congress and of the leaders in official life.

ing in his election three times as Speaker, and in conclusion said:

The people of his district have conferred upon him all the honors that are in their sift to bestow, single-handed and alone, and the thought comes to my mind on this anniversary of our country colleague's first attempt in this House, a triumph won in the interest of the workers of the country, is almply that. How gladly within the next few months would the other plain boys who live on farms or work in mines or shops join the voters of his district to reward this, their faithful servant, who went forth in their cause 34 years ago with cats in his pocket and returned, bringing his sheaves with him, by conferring upon him the Nation's final honor.

Anniause From Both Sides.

Applause From Both Sides.

Boutell's remarks were punctuated throughout with loud applause on the part of the Republicans and Democrats alike. The first montion by him of Cannon's name caused a demonstration.
Cannon occupied the chair and seemed taken completely by surprise. Upon the conclusion of Boutell's remarks the House called With Applause.

and galleries, as a unit, indulged in loud and continued applause and demands for a speech by the Speaker. Everybedy stood up and cheered, and continued the demonstrations until the Speaker arose.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15.—The Republican state central committee met this in reply, but amid shrieks of laughter he arotics.

"The gentleman from New Hampshire, Mr. Sulloway, is recognized for the con-sideration of pension bills."
