VOTERS IN DARK AS TO MEETINGS

Places of Republican Precinct Gatherings Are Not Advertised.

WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

Chairman Declares Attendance of All Party Electors Is Desired and That Secrecy Has Not Been Sought.

Republicans will hold mass meetings in each of the 116 precincts of the county, at 7:30 o'clock tonight, for the purpose of selecting three delegates from each precinct to attend a county assembly in the Selling-Hirsch building next Saturday. Owing to the failure of the central committee to advertise the places at which tonight's mass meetings or primaries will be held, it is doubtful whether the meetings will be representative of the Republicans in the various precincts. C. M. Idleman, chairman of the committee, declared yesterday that he had instructed the committeeman in each precinct to post notices and otherwise advertise in his precinct the meeting and where it would be held. He denied vigorously that any attempt was being made to conduct any of the meetings surreptitiously and charged that the precinct committeemen were to be held responsible if the Republicans in each precinct have not been advised both of the meeting and the place of gathering.

Only One Formal Notice.

Formal notice of these precinct mass meetings has been given only by the Republicans of the Fifty-second Precinct who will meet in Ringler's gymnasium. It is expected that in this precinct there will be a good attendance of the representative Republicans.

"The sole purpose of the assembly to which delegates will be selected at the mass meetings," said Chairman Idleman, yesterday, "is to formulate a platform and declaration of principles for the party in Multnomah County. For years there has been talk of a 'ring' in this county and when I assumed the chairmanship of the County Central Committee I resolved that the people, and not the members of the committee, should have a voice in forming the party's platform. It was for this reason that the mass meetings were decided on by the members of the committee for the purpose of naming delegates to a county assembly that will perform the work formerly done by the Central Committee.

"At the assembly to be held Saturday, not a single candidate will be suggested, recommended or nominated, neither will a discussion of Statement No. 1 be allowed. There are good Republicans who believe in Statement No. 1 and there are just as good Republicans who oppose that proposition. Furthermore, this controversy affects only candidates for the Legislature and with them it is a question of individual choice. There will be no consideration of Statement No. 1 or any other issue that might tend to create possible dissension.

No Factional Scheme.

"I have noticed in the public press recently several statements to the effect that the Republican assembly next Saturday was to be packed with delegates unfavorable to Statement No. 1. Also that many complaints had been made to the effect that the precinct meetings had not been advertised properly and that it was a job on behalf of a certain faction of the party to get control of the party organization.

"I have been unable to get the source of these reports but any one who has been in the least interested in politics, by the most casual observation of the work of the County Committee as published in the newspapers would readily have known all these statements were false and without any foundation whatever.

"About four weeks ago the entire County and City Central Committee held a meeting at Alisky hall and reporters from all of the newspapers of the city were present. At that meeting a resolution to hold these precinct meetings and elect representatives to this assembly was discussed fully two hours and passed by the unanimous vote of the committee and the chairman was instructed to call these precinct meetings.

"In accordance therewith more than a week ago a letter of instruction was sent to each precinct committeeman of the county, together with a large poster, asking that he fill in the place of holding the meeting, as it was impossible for anyone, excepting the precinct committeeman to determine where the meeting could be held; to post them in conspicuous places in the precinct and to advertise the same throughout his precinct, inviting all Republicans to participate.

Will Name No Ticket.

"At the same meeting in which the resolution was passed directing the chairman to call these precinct meetings, a resolution was also passed unanimously in which it was agreed that no ticket should be named at this meeting.

"Since the passing of the resolution directing the chairman of the Central Committee to call these precinct meetings, considerable activity has developed on behalf of Statement No. 1 politicians to bring this question before the meeting, but it is the belief of the Central Committee that this proposition has no place in this convention.

"Undoubtedly, one who is strongly of the belief that the popular vote will be carried by the Republican party for United States Senator would stand upon Statement No. 1 as a platform. On the contrary, the candidate who is satisfied that if he took Statement No. 1 he would be obliged to vote for a Democrat for United States Senator, would be against that statement.

"It is a matter of choice to the candidate for the Legislature and no one else. Since it depends entirely upon the opinion and judgment of the candidate, the County Central Committee believes that it should have no place and should not be discussed at Saturday's assembly as it would only have a tendency to create two factions and weaken, instead of strengthen, the Republican party."

LUNCHEON FOR CORNELL

Lecturer Is Guest of Portland Ad Club Members.

Henry Watson Cornell was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Lenox Hotel yesterday, given by the Portland Ad. Club. Sixty members of the club attended the luncheon. Bury I. Dasent presided, in the absence of President Estes.

Mr. Cornell was introduced and spoke on the topic, "The Law of Human Average as Applied to Ad. Writing." He showed that the appeal of the advertiser should be directed to the average purchaser, and that by the study of the class of purchasers of any article desired to be sold, the advertisement-writer may come to a thorough understanding of his patrons and thus reach them effectively. Mr. Cornell said there are two avenues open to advertisement-writers in making their appeals. One is through the intellect; the other the emotions. Of the two, Mr. Cornell said the latter is far the more effective way of selling goods.

Upon the completion of his talk, Mr. Cornell was tendered a vote of thanks by the club, on motion of R. M. Hall.

LAST SPIKE IS DRIVEN IN THE SPOKANE, PORTLAND & SEATTLE RAILWAY

Yesterday marked an epoch in the history of Portland and the Pacific Northwest, for the last spike in the Vancouver-Pasco section of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway was driven. There was no ceremony attached to the completion of the track from Pasco to Vancouver, important though it was. The gap was closed at Sherman's Point, three miles from Stevenson, Wash., when the track-laying crews, working in both directions, met.

The driving of the last spike completes the twin ribbons of steel laid for 221 miles down the north bank of the Columbia River. That it means much for this city is generally recognized and the successful completion of the track is the cause for earnest congratulation throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Although the track is now complete, it will be almost a month yet before trains are run between Vancouver and Pasco, Wash. The line will have to be ballasted for a large part of the distance, although ballasting crews have been at work on the eastern division for some time. The western part of the new road needs the addition of ballast to make it safe for the operation of trains.

Vancouver people are arranging for a special excursion over the new line that will be made just as soon as the track is completed. This junket will be made during March.

SUPPORT FOR PARK BOARD

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO ASK FOR APPROPRIATION.

Large Delegation Will Petition the Council to Allow $3000 a Year for New Superintendent.

For the purpose of inducing the Council to pass an ordinance providing $3000 a year for the maintenance of the office of Park Superintendent, 80 members of the Portland Commercial Club will wait upon the members of the Council at its meeting to be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Commercial Club believes that the city should now take active steps toward the improvement of its parks and that an intelligent system should be mapped out and followed consistently from this time forward. By the adoption of such a course at this time it is argued the city will avoid the expenditure of large sums of money in the future, when the city is larger and property values have increased.

The committee from the Commercial Club is made up of the following:

J. C. Ainsworth, M. C. Banfield, Paul C. Bates, F. E. Beach, S. C. Beach, C. F. Beebe, C. A. Bell, A. H. Birrell, W. L. Boise, J. F. Boothe, Jerry Bronaugh, F. G. Buffum, W. F. Burrell, H. M. FOLLOW CHIEF'S ACTION

Pacific Coast Steamship Official Resigns Place.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—F. C. Ballantyne, who was private secretary to W. E. Pearce, former general manager of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, today followed the example of his one-time chief and resigned from the company's service. His resignation takes effect March 1. Mr. Ballantyne has been engaged in the steamship business on this Coast for 20 years. He leaves the Pacific Coast Steamship Company to go into the hotel business.

Among the passengers who arrived today from Seattle on the City of Puebla was Captain John C. Rinder, formerly marine superintendent of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company.

Receipts of lumber today by sea amounted to 700,000 feet.

BELLE WAYMIRE FOUND GUILTY

his fiancee to the County Jail. She was detained there but a short time before the arrangement was made for Radding to apply his bond to hers and thus secure her release.

Leaves With Sweetheart.

Mrs. Waymire left with Bell, while Radding had to spend the night in a steel cell at the County Jail.

Radding was arrested on Fourth street, near Morrison, and protested that he had heard the jury's verdict and was on his way to surrender himself.

"You couldn't even hire me to run away now," he said. "This thing isn't through with yet. There's a lot more to come."

The closing arguments in the case consumed both of yesterday's sessions. Mr. McGarry spent the first hour in completing his summary of the evidence and then Mr. Logan took up his final appeal for acquittal. He attacked Mayor Lane in no uncertain terms, asserting that the chief executive was too plainly guilty to admit of any question in the matter.

Hints at a "Price."

As to the letter the Mayor was to give the woman, Logan said that letter was withheld until the "price" had been paid for it. He said every circumstance tended to show that Lane tried to make Mrs. Waymire his victim, and failing in that, had concocted a story told by him to protect himself from the consequences of his foul acts.

"What was the old duffer doing rolling up his sleeves so the woman could feel his muscles," Logan demanded after going over the testimony relating to the struggle in Mayor Lane's office. "Gentlemen of the jury, do your wives and daughters have to feel of the Mayor's muscles when they visit his office? Do you have to listen to weird tales of physical prowess from his lips when you want to talk about street improvements or get a letter from him?

Too Many Such Men.

"There are too many Lanes in this world," he said, in paying his further respects to the Mayor. "Lane didn't want this woman to have a good character. He was in the business of developing her character. He wanted to give her a character that he was planning for her himself. He looked upon her pretty face, her graceful form, her voluptuous body. He is not of different flesh than you or I or other men. He was the pursuer and she the pursued. Not once did she offer to put her arms about his neck, never once to kiss or caress him or to pull him down from his lofty pedestal of morality and virtue which he is seeking to have you 12 men certify with a verdict of guilty.

"Yes, Dr. Lane is as much on trial as this little woman and he wants to brand her with the stigma of a wanton because unholy hands were laid upon the Lord's anointed and because this woman here, according to the state's theory, attempted to traduce his impeccable character."

Peroration Is Dramatic.

In leaving the case with the jury, Mr. Logan said, dramatically:

"Gentlemen of the jury, you have this little woman's fate in your hands. Find her guilty and it means her life, and she may as well go to Mayor Lane and say: 'Doctor, send me down to North Sixth street, put me in any house you like. I am the strumpet you have made me. That is the life you have given me, do with it what you will,'" and then raising his voice to a tempestuous roar, he struck the edge of the witness chair with his fist and, shaking a trembling hand with outsprawled fingers to the jury, he added:

What of the Baby?

"Do this and what of that little child, that baby girl back in Missouri, the baby that has made this mother's love cry out with hunger and yearning that only a mother knows? What will the baby say when she grows up to know right from wrong, and all through life will see that flaming scarlet letter emblazoned on her mother's breast? Think of that, my fellow men."

Mr. Malarkey took up the closing address to the jury at the opening of the afternoon session. He said the case was a significant and important one in which the issue was clearly defined.

Plot Smells to Heaven.

"What a foul, dastardly, stinking plot against Mayor Lane this all is," he said. "It smells to heaven! It is not the joke that some people think it is, and I say shame on that member of the City Council who said he regarded the whole matter as a joke."

At this moment Mayor Lane entered the courtroom and seated himself near R. W. Montague, who has been remaining in the background directing the forces of the state. Mrs. Waymire and Radding were not present, evidently having no relish for Mr. Malarkey's arraignment of them.

"This man is accused of the blackest crime in the category," Malarkey continued. "It is a crime known only among the blacks of the South. And yet the man accused of this blackest of crimes is the man whom we have elevated to the highest position—the Mayor of our city.

"Mr. Logan told you pretty Bible stories in his address here. You can pick out Bible stories to meet almost any end. But I know of no story so peculiarly fitting as that of Sampson and Delilah. When every other means had failed to put down the Mayor and blast his career, this woman was picked out. Look at her! Pretty of face and plump of form. What did you expect to find here? Did you expect them to go into the North End and get some battle-scarred old veteran? Did you think to find some toothless, hideous old hag? No; it was just such a woman as you find here that would be needed for such a purpose.

Was a Badger Game.

"They used this woman and tried to get him where he would have no say. But he did not fall. And when she couldn't tempt him the woman had to do the best she could. But even supposing the Mayor was frail; suppose he did fall. They say the woman in these kind of cases is tempting. And the victim must be susceptible or else the badger game won't work.

"That man is a martyr," Malarkey exclaimed, after making an analysis of the testimony. "He has been subjected to nasty taunts and flings from his enemies. He has been exposed to the jests of his friends.

"Now, as to motive. Mr. Logan says there is no motive. Supposing the Mayor had not had these people arrested. In two or maybe three months he would have had a call from Mrs. Waymire and Radding and Mandelay. They would have had him in their power. If he hadn't made the fight he has they would have had a club over his head that would have been worth hundreds and thousands of dollars to them. Mrs. Waymire could have called on him and said, 'Harry, your police are annoying Fred Fritz by not allowing him to have women in the boxes at his place. Now Fritz is a friend of mine. I wish you'd call your police off.'

Purpose of Plot.

"In a few more days they could have called and Mrs. Waymire would say, 'Harry, our friend Eugene Blazier thinks it is wrong for you to suppress gambling. He says you and your police have stopped it and that it is hurting his business. Really, Harry, you'd better let Eugene go ahead with his gambling. He's a friend of mine, you know.'"

Mr. Logan here arose to protest that Mayor Lane had never had anything to do with stopping gambling in the city, and after a little wrangle on this point, Judge Gantenbein directed that the argument to the jury be proceeded with.

After a recess of five minutes, Juror Church put a question to Mr. Malarkey which portended conviction. The question was: "Does it seem reasonable that after he had been once repulsed Mayor Lane would make a second attempt to ravish Mrs. Waymire?"

"It certainly does not seem reasonable," replied Malarkey, "any more than do some of the other things told you gentlemen by these people seem reasonable or believable. I hand you this case in the name of decency," he concluded. "The acquittal of these people means the conviction of these people. I can see it flashed across the country that the Mayor of Portland has been judged guilty of rape. In the name of justice, in the name of the fair City of Portland, in the name of this sadly abused man, his wife, his children; in the name of the professional men of our city, of its officials, of every man, I ask you to return a verdict of not guilty."

Clearly Within Code.

Judge Gantenbein's instructions were comprehensive, summing up the evidence and presenting the law involved. He said the acts ascribed to the defendants clearly came within the section 120, under which the information in the case was drawn. The jury was then taken to the third floor, where it completed its deliberations.

SUES WEINHARD ESTATE

Frederick Bickel Seeks to Recover Valuable Property.

The suit of Frederick Bickel against Paul Wessinger, Henry Wagner, Louise Weinhard, Hanna Wessinger and Henry Weinhard is on trial before Judge Bronough. The suit was brought in the Circuit Court to secure an order directing the defendants now holding the deed to block 32, in Portland, to deliver a clear title to Bickel upon payment of $65,000. Bickel alleges that Henry Weinhard and himself were close friends. He says he borrowed $10,000 of Weinhard before he died. Bickel also says he mortgaged this property.

He says Weinhard bid $55,106.50 at the sale, with the understanding that Bickel was to have a clear title to the block upon payment of the mortgage and the $10,000 which Bickel owed. The property is now in the hands of Weinhard's heirs, and is said by Bickel to be worth $150,000.

M'KINLEY TO BE SENTENCED

Convicted Land-Fraud Defendant in Court Today.

Besides reporting in the Federal Court tomorrow for sentence, Horace G. McKinley, by his counsel, will be required to show why the records of the court should not show that his motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment had been denied. Following McKinley's conviction for land frauds, such a motion was filed, and while the record of the clerk shows that the motion was overruled, such an order was never entered in the court records.

Carmacks Refused Decree.

Judge Bronaugh denied Mrs. Hattie C. Carmack a divorce in the Circuit Court yesterday. Willard C. Carmack, the husband, contested the divorce, alleging it was a conspiracy on the part of his wife and his mother-in-law to cheat him out of a part of his property. They were married in July, 1905.

John Cropping, who says he is the oldest police superintendent in England, has placed his resignation in the hands of the Huntingdonshire justices, after an active and meritorious service of 55 years.

OLD CONTRACT IS TO BE RENEWED

Council Committee Opposed to Gas Lamps for Street Lighting.

ELECTRICITY IS FAVORED

Will Report Recommending Another Five-Year Arrangement With the Railway, Light & Power Co. Defer Municipal Ownership.

Another five-year contract will be entered into by the city with the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company for lighting the streets and public buildings, if the Council this afternoon adopts the report of the committee on lighting. Absolute refusal of the committeemen to consider the use of gas lights, and the fact that no other competition exists, makes it virtually certain that the corporation mentioned will secure a renewal of its present contract, which is about to expire.

It was thought for a time that the city might be able to put in its own electric lighting plant, or that arrangements might be made to secure competitive bids by installing gas lights; and among those strongly in favor of municipal ownership of a lighting plant were Mayor Lane and the members of the lighting committee of the Executive Board. This plan was found not feasible, however.

Councilman Baker expressed the sentiment of the committee when he declared that there is but one thing to do at this time, and that is to authorize the Executive Board to advertise for bids for electric lights for a term of five years. Should the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company make a reasonable bid, he said, it should be accepted; if its bid should be unreasonable and the company's attitude unfriendly to the city, then the city should set about installing its own plant and have it ready within five years.

Oppose Five-Year Term.

Mayor Lane and members of the Executive Board thought it inadvisable to let another contract to any one corporation for a term of five years, and it was at the special request of the Mayor, at a meeting of the Council six weeks ago, that a lighting plant ordinance, introduced by Councilman Bennett and supported by Councilman Annand and others, was referred to the committee on street lighting, with instructions to investigate the practicability of constructing a municipal plant.

Three special meetings of the committee were held, and estimates were furnished by City Engineer Taylor, but as it was found that it would require not less than three and probably five years to complete the plant, the scheme was temporarily abandoned, and the recommendation will be made to the Council that bids be asked for a term of five years.

An effort was made by the committee to secure a promise of bids for less than five years, but Osker Huber, representing the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, declared that his company would not bid on less than a five-year contract, as it would be necessary to increase the bid not less than 25 per cent, should the term be less. He declared that his company could not afford to install arc lights at the rate of 400 a year, only to be compelled at the end of a three-year contract to discard them, and said no bid would be tendered by his company in such circumstances.

Blames City Officials.

C. W. Miller, general manager of the Mount Hood Railway & Power Company, appeared before the committee by invitation, and said that, because of the alleged hostile attitude of Mayor Lane and the members of the Water Board, he was not in a position at present to make any tenders on lighting. He was asked if it would be possible for him to bid on the city lighting, were he in a position to bid, for a term of three years. He declared he could not; that it would not be justifiable, when the immense cost of construction was considered, together with maintenance expense, depreciation and interest.

"It is the hostile attitude of Mayor Lane and the members of the Water Board that has put us behind four months in our work," declared Mr. Miller. "We have been unable to secure consideration from the present administration, and therefore we are not now in a position to put in a bid. However, we are going into the lighting business, and will put in a bid, if we can arrange to get our plant ready in time. Not before next October will our plant be ready for operation."

The proposition of H. M. Papst, manager for the Portland Gas Company, to install gas lights was discussed yesterday, but it seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the members of the committee that it would be a step backward to put in gas lights. Councilmen Baker and Belding were particularly outspoken, saying it would never do to resort to gas for the city lighting.

Expensive Surveys Needed.

As to the city owning its electric lighting plant, City Engineer Taylor said that, if the power supply could be secured, he would be in favor of the proposition. He said that it would require actual surveys, costing some money, to ascertain definitely the adequacy of the power supply and the expenditure necessary to install and maintain the plant.

Councilman Belding declared himself unqualifiedly opposed to using the water of Bull Run in any manner that would in the least degree cause any suspicion in the public mind that the water supply might be tainted. He thought that to install any plant or to put in flumes above the source of the city's supply would have a tendency to injure the unblemished reputation of the water.

On the ordinance now recommended for passage the Council will this afternoon in all probability act favorably, and the matter will then go to the Executive Board.

Epilepsy, Fits

Convulsions, or Spasms and St. Vitus' Dance are Nervous Diseases. Most cases can be cured by strengthening and building up the nervous system. To do this a nerve medicine is needed. Dr. Miles' Nervine will be found efficacious and satisfactory. It has cured many cases of these diseases and we believe it will cure you. We can give you names of many who have been cured through its use. Write for advice.

"My son John had epilepsy for years, and after having him treated by specialists for over 2 years he still continued to have spells. I had almost given up in despair, but knowing the virtue of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick headache, I concluded to try the Nervine. During June, 1906, I gave him a teaspoonful three times a day, then in July I gave it as directed, and I could see that he was improving, and he has not had a spell since August 28, 1906, and has taken no medicine since Jan. 07. I am writing the case just as it is hoping it will induce others to try it."
