

RUEF SUES FOR HIS PRISON FEES

Declares Breaking of Immunity Pact Frees Him From Guards' Cost.

WANTS IT "FOR CHARITY"

Names as Defendants Prosecutors Who Regard His New Move in Humorous Light and Make No Reply to Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(Special.)—Alfred Ruef not only wants immunity, but he wants his money back. His attorney says that it is a matter of principle. The prosecution agrees, but says that it should be spelled "charity." Their only surprise is that Ruef did not ask for interest as well. In a suit filed today Ruef asks that he be recompensed with $622.85, the amount he was obliged to spend for the maintenance of his prison quarters at Pacific avenue, and Fillmore street. He names as defendants Judge Frank H. Dunn, Rudolph Spreckels, William H. Langdon, William J. Burns, Francis J. Heney and William J. Biggy, and asks the court to order these men to pay him the amount stated.

Explain Real Purpose.

A statement from Ruef's camp contained the announcement that the real purpose of the suit was not to obtain the money, but to show that until January 8, 1908, the prosecution had acted as though it regarded the immunity contract as still in force. It was added that should the court award the $622.85 to Ruef, he would donate it to charity. The prosecution is inclined to regard this as another little joke on charity.

Washington Paper Holds Up Second Elective Term to Ridicule.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, March 2.—Senator Bourne has been ridiculed to such an extent that he is being ridiculed. The Washington Star tonight printed a clever cartoon, which fairly reflected the sentiments of the cartoonist. The cartoon is titled "The Noise of the Unbeliever," represents Mr. Bourne, unbelieved in front of the White House, shouting through a megaphone, "Second Elective Term," while the left hand is pointing to his clatter by wielding an auctioneer's bell. From his campaign hat protrudes a flag inscribed "Second Elective Term," and from his lapel hangs a big streamer bearing the same inscription. In the background the President is seen through the White House window, unimpressed by the noise, reading with manifest satisfaction his election-night statement.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL

by Mr. Schuetler at times became so hysterical that the police were forced to cease their interrogation and allow Dr. Wall, the ambulance physician, to give her stimulants.

According to Miss Averbuch, her brother was a bookkeeper, having learned the business at a university in her native land.

When the interview with Mr. Schuetler was over, Miss Averbuch was taken to the woman's annex of the Harrison-street Police Station, where she will be constantly under the eye of two policemen, especially detailed for that purpose.

Planned Crime With Anarchists.

While talking with the Assistant Chief of Police, the young woman asserted her belief that her brother had not deliberately planned to kill Mr. Shippy. This assertion had little weight with the authorities, however, as they claim to have information that the would-be assassin had meetings with a number of his friends in the former's room every Sunday. It was here, say the police, that the young anarchist, inflamed by reading anarchist literature and listening to anarchist speeches, planned the details of the crime which was attempted this morning.

A guard of police, both in uniform and in plain clothes, has been placed about Averbuch's former boarding-house. They have instructions of the most stringent sort to arrest any person they may see attempting to enter the place or to arrest anyone in the vicinity whose appearance gives warrant for such action.

After Miss Averbuch had been taken away, Mr. Schuetler divulged some of the story he had gathered from the woman, although this was against her own wishes, and the mental stress under which the prisoner labored.

Made Desperate by Illness.

Lazarus Averbuch, she said to Mr. Schuetler, when he first came to Chicago, obtained employment, through his sister's efforts, in the printing plant of Tony Rubovits & Co. The financial depression coming on, this firm dispensed with his services. He sought in vain for work and, as he met repeatedly with failure, he became so despondent that he threatened to commit suicide. By optimistic arguments she persuaded him to bear up like a man and wait for better times. Her encouragement, she told the police, saved him from a suicide's grave, and three weeks ago he obtained work as an egg-candler in the commission house of Eichengreen & Co. He was not popular with his fellow-workers, however, for their antagonism and suspicions were aroused by the anarchistic sentiments which he expressed. He became more unpopular after the police had interfered with the parade of the "unemployed." This clash between the paraders and constituted authority in the form of the bluecoats aroused him to greater excesses in his denunciation of the law and of those who enforce it.

Mind Inflamed by Parsons.

Prior to the parade Averbuch had attended a meeting at Brand's Hall, where Lucy Parsons delivered a vitriolic harangue with its particularly inflammatory portions directed mainly at Mr. Shippy. Even Reitman objected to Mrs. Parsons' speech, but apparently her utterances sank deep into the mind of young Averbuch.

Full of Russia's Wrongs.

"My brother was an enthusiastic boy," said Miss Averbuch, "and the wrongs of our people in Russia affected him deeply, but he knew America was different. That is why we came here. I had been in America three years and knew more about it than he, so I kept close watch over him. He never was out nights later than 10 o'clock and could not have taken part in any meetings. He read a great deal, dealing with the sorrows and trials of the Jewish people in Russia. He was deeply interested in the writings of men who are seeking to remedy conditions in Russia."

The young woman said her brother's full name was Lazarus Ludovitch Averbuch, but that Harry was a pet name she used.

A fellow-employee in the commission house, who said his name was Miller, corroborated the statements as to Averbuch's hostility toward the police.

Had Head of Degenerate.

Dr. O. W. Luke, coroner's physician, after examining the body of Averbuch at the undertaking establishment, said that he was quoted as saying: "That is," said Dr. Luke, "there were anatomical peculiarities of the man's head and palate that conform closely to the types which Lombroso and other eminent criminologists have declared to indicate degeneracy and an inclination to criminality. His palate was high arched and narrow and the skull plate was very thin, both of which abnormalities are among the chief indications of degeneracy."

HUNTING DOWN ANARCHISTS

Police Raid Their Haunts—Grand Jury Will Indict.

CHICAGO, March 2.—After the attack squads of police were sent into the Italian and Ghetto districts of the city, places known as headquarters of secret societies suspected of anarchistic tendencies were raided, and before midnight a score or more of arrests had been made. A coroner's inquest over the body of the anarchist was also started, and State Attorney Healy announced that the March grand jury of Cook County, which was convened today, will be given an opportunity to investigate Anarchistic organizations in an attempt to fasten responsibility for the attack upon the investigators. It was also reported that the Mayor intends to issue an order forbidding all street meetings, the allegation being made that such gatherings, whether of a political or religious nature, are often made the occasion for vicious attacks upon the social order.

The attack is believed to have been the result of a widespread conspiracy to harm officials who have been active in suppressing manifestations of Anarchy in this community. Four city officials are said to have been threatened and a police spy who recognized the corpse of the man who invaded Mr. Shippy's home as that of a person who regularly attended Anarchist meetings asserted that the man was chosen by lot to do away with not only the Chief of Police but Mayor Bussell.

The ramifications of the plot are said to have extended to other cities and to be closely connected with the killing of Father Leo Heinrichs, a Roman Catholic priest, who was shot down at the altar of his church in Denver.

Anarchist Literature Seized.

One of the places raided by the police after the shooting was the headquarters of a society known as "The Edelstein Club," at 427 Union street. Pictures of Herr Most and other well-known anarchists were confiscated, as were also about 1000 handbills announcing a series of meetings at which Emma Goldman was scheduled to speak. One of these meetings was announced for March 6 and another for March 9. A library of short distance away was also raided by the police, and several hundred pamphlets dealing with anarchy and kindred subjects were seized. This library was raided after the shooting of President McKinley, and many volumes were seized and destroyed.

Will Find the Investigators.

Regarding the proposed investigation by the grand jury, the State's Attorney said:

"The investigation will not stop with the dupes who undertake assassinations, but will go back to the investigators. We shall follow the precedent established at the time of the famous Haymarket riots. There is no specific statute on the subject on anarchy in Illinois, but it can be shown that the attempt to kill was the result of an agreement the conspiracy statute will apply."

Instigators can also be held as principals.

An impertunate office-seeker, who encountered Mayor Bussell shortly after the latter's return from the Shippy home, caused a commotion in the City Hall, and the occurrence gave rise to a rumor that a wholesale plot had been made against city officials, but this was at once denied.

Anarchy Never More Dangerous.

Today's attack gave significance to a statement made by Mr. Shippy a few days ago, when he commented on a report made to him by one of his subordinates of an anarchist meeting held immediately after the assassination of the King and Crown Prince of Portugal.

"Never in the history of Chicago," said he at that time, "have anarchists and other enemies of law and order been so numerous as they are at the present time. The police are watching all of their movements closely. You never know when they are going to break out."

He declared then that war upon the anarchists in Chicago will be prosecuted with greater vigor than ever before.

There never was I am Chief of Police, there never will be another parade of anarchists," he said.

ESCAPED BY HIS QUICKNESS

Shippy's Son Also Interfered in Nick of Time.

CHICAGO, March 2.—That the attempt to kill Mr. Shippy resulted in failure was largely due to the policeman's quickness in participating the purpose of his visitor's presence. The man had twice called at the house and asked for the chief, first yesterday, when he was told that Mr. Shippy was at work, and again early this morning, when a servant informed him that the chief could not be seen before 9 o'clock. When he rang the doorbell at the latter hour the chief himself answered the call.

Shippy's Story of Attack.

"As I opened the door," said Mr. Shippy, later, describing the attack, "the man raised his hat and I allowed him to step into the hallway. He handed me an envelope. I glanced at it, and then he thought struck me that the man was up to some wrong. He looked like an anarchist. I grabbed his arms, and called to my wife, who was in another room. When she ran into the hallway, I said: "Mother, see if this man has a revolver."

"She felt one of his back pockets and said: 'That is best. I tried to hold him with one hand and draw my revolver with the other, but he jerked away and fell against the door. I caught him again, and while we were struggling, my son, who was upstairs, started to my aid. He was only a few steps from the bottom of the stairs when the man freed one hand, drew his revolver, and fired two shots at Harry. Then Foley, who had been summoned by my daughter, stepped into the hallway and the man shot him. "The anarchist kicked my wife to one side and by this time I had secured my own revolver, and both Foley and I opened fire. At my first shot, which struck him in the head, he fell. But I fired three more, one in his head and two in his body. Two of Foley's shots also struck the assassin."

Both the chief and Mrs. Shippy assert that the former's life was saved by the bravery of her son. The young man, who is 15 years old, is a student at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind. He was at home because of illness and hastened through these to obtain news to their struggle in the hall.

Shippy Saved by Brave Son.

"The man had drawn a great knife and had lunged at my husband," said Mrs. Shippy this afternoon. "The blade struck him in the shoulder. The knife was drawn back ready for another blow when Harry struck the man's hand and knocked the weapon to the floor. The man kicked me on one side and the shots came, Harry falling, and I saw blood on his chest. He exclaimed, 'Faps, I'm shot,' but he saved his father's life."

"I saw the man on the porch," said Georgetown Shippy. "When I heard mamma scream I called to Foley and then ran into the hall. I saw the knife and saw Harry rush in. Foley came in, she shooting began, and it was all over so soon that I do not know just how it all happened. Harry is not afraid of anything, and he certainly saved father's life."

"I might have been shot and killed if the boy had not come to my assistance," said the Chief. "Mother was so terrified to do anything. She was helpless as soon as she felt the revolver in the man's pocket."

Harry Shippy May Recover.

Harry Shippy was the most severely hurt of those injured in today's affray. Although the bullet from the assassin's revolver passed completely through his body just above the heart, it was said tonight that his chances of recovery were favorable. His father was stabbed in the arm, and Mr. Foley received a bullet in the wrist. Mrs. Shippy was kicked by the desperado but her hurts are slight.

DENIES MAN IS AN ANARCHIST

Emma Goldman Believes Averbuch Was Only Some Fanatic.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 2.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist lecturer, arrived here tonight from St. Louis and received her first account of the attack upon the Chief of Police Shippy, of Chicago. She said:

"Of course the man had to be an Anarchist, if he tried to kill anybody. Somebody kills somebody else or tries to shoot him, and the world, the office, the newspapers cry 'Anarchist.' The dispatch says the dead man is unknown and unidentified, and yet the police call him an Anarchist. I know nothing whatever about the affair, but I would be willing to guarantee that the man was not an Anarchist, but some fanatic or somebody with a private grudge against Shippy."

Mayor Blaine wanted to prevent the appearance of Miss Goldman as a speaker in Springfield tonight, but an attorney told him there was no law under which he could interfere. There were police all about the place, but there was no disturbance of any kind.

ECHO OF HAYMARKET RIOT

Denver Chief Tells Reason for Shippy's Murder.

DENVER, March 2.—The attempted assassination of Police Chief Shippy in Chicago dates back to the Haymarket riot. In the opinion of Chief of Police Michael Delaney, of this city, it is a personal grudge of Chief Shippy against the rioters.

"It was largely through Shippy's efforts," said Chief Delaney, "that anarchists responsible for the Haymarket crime were broken up, and the members either hanged, imprisoned or driven out of the country."

"Since then Chief Shippy has been connected with every important Chicago case where anarchists have been involved and while recent events may have led directly to the attempt upon his life at this time, I believe that the Chief's connection with the Haymarket riots is back of the whole thing."

CINCINNATI, O., March 2.—While celebrating mass yesterday at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Michael Mulvill, pastor of the cathedral, was guarded by police in citizen's clothes.

The priest yesterday received a letter signed John Ryan, informing him that anarchists from Denver, Colo., had arranged to kill him at the mass. The missive was written on a hotel letterhead. The priest was not inclined to pay attention to it, but friends appealed to the police.

S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

Bad blood is responsible for most of the ailments of mankind. When from any cause this vital fluid becomes infected with impurities, humors or poisons, disease in some form is sure to follow. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Boils, Pimples, etc., while they show on the skin, have an underlying cause which is far deeper—an impure, humor-infected blood supply, and until this is corrected, and the blood purified, the distressing itching and burning symptoms will remain. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Blood Poison and all other blood disorders, are the result of a vitiated, polluted circulation, and will continue to grow worse unless the poison is removed from the blood. In all blood and skin diseases S. S. S. has proved itself a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all waste matter, humors or poisons, and makes the blood pure and health-sustaining. Nothing reaches inherited taints and old chronic troubles like S. S. S.; it cures because it purifies the blood and restores lost properties to the impoverished circulation. Not only is S. S. S. a blood purifier of the highest order, but a tonic and appetizer without an equal. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.
