FEAR FEDERAL SUIT

Purchasers of Granted Land Bring Influence to Bear.

FIGHT FULTON RESOLUTION

Induce Chamber of Commerce to Intercede in Their Behalf, Asking Congressional Committee to Amend Pending Measure.

Because the Fulton resolution as to lands in the Oregon & California Railroad grants may involve large and small purchasers of the lands, as well as the railroad, many protests are going to Washington against adoption of Senator Fulton's joint resolution by the House of Representatives. The railroad holds 2,000,000 acres in violation of the terms of the grants, and purchasers who bought in violation of the terms of the grants—more than the 160-acre limit for each purchaser, at a price exceeding $2.50 an acre and not being actual settlers—hold some 700,000 acres more.

The resolution is so broad as to cover all violations of the terms of the grants, both by the railroad and by timber speculators and by small buyers. It authorizes and directs the Attorney-General to bring suits in equity "to enforce any and all rights and remedies of the United States."

The Southern Pacific, obviously, is much pleased that it has company in the campaign for protection of its claims, and sees that the purchasers of the lands may form a strong bulwark to ward off the attack. Voicing the protest that has gone up from the large and small purchasers, the Portland Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club yesterday sent to Frank W. Mondell, chairman of the House committee on public lands, a dispatch as follows:

"The Fulton joint resolution directing Attorney-General to commence suit to annul title Oregon-California land grant, unless provision is made that innocent purchasers be excluded from the scope of this section would result in the most widespread disaster to Western Oregon. Hundreds of settlers, farmers, fruitgrowers and even townsites, have been located on these railroad lands, and the Chamber of Commerce of Portland most urgently asks that you specifically eliminate any danger of bringing these innocent purchasers into any legal complications endangering titles to their properties. Public opinion heartily favors resolution with above exceptions."

It will probably be asserted by authorities of the Department of Justice, including B. D. Townsend, the special attorney of the Government who probed the land grants last Summer and Fall, that the resolution does not impair any land titles, either of the railroad or of large and small purchasers, since it expressly declares:

"It not being intended hereby to determine the right of the United States to any such forfeiture or forfeitures, but it being intended to fully authorize the Attorney-General, in and by such suits, actions and proceedings, to assert on behalf of the United States and the court or courts before which such suits, actions or proceedings may be instituted or pending, to entertain, consider and adjudicate the claim and right of the United States to such forfeiture or forfeitures, and if found, to enforce the same."

The purpose of this resolution is to open the door fully to any suits that the Government may see fit to begin. Without the resolution there is doubt of the Government's authority. The Government desires to clear away as completely as possible all obstacles to its proceedings. It will present the facts to the court of equity, and the court will determine the means of relief, whether to order the railroad to comply with the terms of the grants or to forfeit the 2,000,000 acres of land remaining in its possession or also to include in the decree of forfeiture the lands held by purchasers.

In this aspect the Department of Justice is expected to maintain that the resolution cannot impair any land titles, since they will be at the disposition of the court.

INDIAN PHOTOS EXHIBITED

Splendid Curtis Portfolios Shown at Museum of Art.

The first two portfolios of the famous North American Indian pictures by Edward Curtis, of Seattle, have attracted much attention this week while on exhibition at the Museum of Art, at Fifth and Taylor streets. Ten years have been consumed in the preparation of these two portfolios, and seven years hence the entire set, including 20 volumes, is to be completed at a cost of $3000. The edition is to be limited to 500 sets, 200 to be sold in this country and the remainder abroad.

The preface is written by President Roosevelt, who has declared Mr. Curtis to have accomplished the greatest work of the century. The portraits are done in sepia tones and are printed on the finest Japanese tissue paper. The two complete volumes are of the Southwestern Indian type, Apache and Navajo predominating. In this collection are depicted portraits of warriors, squaws, papooses and charming Indian scenery, notably the beautiful canyon scenes. Of great interest are the pictures showing the home-life of these tribes, and the manner in which the religious ceremonies were conducted.

The exhibition is to be continued the remainder of this week.

SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES

For the purpose of preparing for a series of Lenten services to be held next week in Centenary Methodist Church, prayer meetings will be held in five East Side residences tonight. All persons residing between East Thirteenth street and the river who desire to attend the services tonight will meet at the home of E. C. Clement, 42 East Sixth street. Persons residing north of the Gulch will meet at the home of J. A. Lowest, 614 East Broadway. Those who reside south of East Stark street will meet at the home of Dr. Jasper L. Hewitt, 555 East Washington street.

Those who reside between East Ankeny and East Stark above Thirteenth will meet at the home of Dr. T. C. Humphrey, 603 East Ankeny. Those who reside north of East Ankeny will meet at the home of E. A. Bamford, 694 East Burnside street. Leaders have been selected to conduct these special meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drake have been engaged to conduct the music for the Lenten services to be held next week.

Guard Against Inferior Paving.

No more inferior street work will be tolerated in Multnomah Addition to Albina, such as is being complained of by property owners on Fremont street. In order to prevent bad work and make up for lack of inspection the Multnomah Improvement Club at its meeting Wednesday night decided to appoint special committees on all streets to be improved, to watch the progress of the work and see that it is done according to contract. Committees of property owners were appointed on Albina avenue and Mason street, which are to be paved with crushed rock. These committees were instructed to watch the work and report any deviation from the contract. As fast as other street contracts are let special committees will be appointed to look after them. The club went on record as favoring the State University appropriation.
