

TOO MUCH LOVE
FOR THE JUNIORS PLAY

Faculty Members Fear World
Will See Them Depicted in Wrong Light.

PRODUCTION IS FORBIDDEN

Amateur Theatricals at University of Washington Must Be Confined to Sober Old Plays in Which Cupid Plays Minor Part.

SEATTLE, March 5.—(Special.)—Too many love scenes of a very fervent nature have caused the proposed junior class play, "The Faculty Member," to fall under the ban of the professors at the State University. The decision to place the faculty ban on the play was arrived at at noon today, and now the juniors are in mourning, for they feel that they were about to produce something which would send their name down in student posterity as the organizers of the "warmest ever."

The faculty is composed of married men for the most part and, besides, no member of the faculty is scheduled to take a part in the junior farce where love-making can be done with all the attendant "stage" things. So, of course, the faculty does not like the big play.

It was argued in the meeting of instructors this noon that if the play was permitted to be given at the University it would not be quite as repulsive to married faculty members. Given in the Moore Theater, as planned, however, it was believed that the audience would give the very erroneous idea that life at the University is one big love scene, whereas the students according to their own statements—have very little time to indulge in the pursuit of Cupid.

Plans are already being made to give some old standard plays which will be no love-making at all, just to appease the faculty members.

W. W. Smith, of Lafayette, Despondent Over Threat to Kill Wife.

M'MINNVILLE, Or., March 5.—(Special.)—W. W. Smith committed suicide this morning at his home in Lafayette by the carbolic acid route, and upon being notified of the tragedy Corner Culver drove over to hold an inquest.

Smith has been a resident of this section for the past 15 years, coming here from Canada with his wife, son and daughter. He has been a horse-trader, and owner of trotting-horses since coming here. He was also an inveterate drinker, and when on a spree was said to be very abusive to his family. A couple of weeks since he pulled a gun on his wife and his daughter and their husband. He was arrested on a charge of insanity, but released upon examination. He was held, however, on a charge of attempted murder, and after spending a number of days in the County Jail here, he was released under a $500 bond. It was while Smith was lodged in jail that his wife released herself from the influence of the drink, and, by accompanying her daughter to their home in Canada. Dependancy at the recollection of the part his own misdeeds had taken in wrecking his home, he thought to have been his motive for self-destruction.

JOHN HAS BAD RECORD

MAKES THREAT IN SPOKANE TO KILL HIS WIFE.

Woman's Pluck Saves Her Life. Father of Dead Man Tells of Charges Made in Pittsburg.

SPOKANE, Wash., March 5.—(Special.)—"Well, I've made up my mind to end it all tonight. I'm going to kill you, the two children and then myself. I've fought and fought to put this off, but I have decided to give up the fight. I'm going to do it if you are. If you're game, go ahead and kill us all. We might as well end it that way as any other."

Holding a loaded revolver in his hand, J. H. Jahn, who shot and instantly killed Jesse B. Price near Everett, Wash., Wednesday night, held the above conversation with his wife at their residence in this city last Friday night. When her husband made this threat, Mrs. Jahn dared him to execute it, but his nerve failed him.

HAS NO FEAR OF OUTCOME

Slayer of Jesse Price Confident He Will Be Cleared.

EVERETT, Wash., March 5.—J. H. Jahn, of Spokane, who yesterday afternoon shot and killed Jesse Price, a miner, at Darrington, yesterday made a statement regarding the crime, stating only that any man who cared for his home and family would have done as he did. He said that he had been in the story in court "there won't be a dry eye."

Jahn has wired Pittsburg for special counsel. The crime was committed after a lengthy conference between the two men in the office of the Darrington Gold Mountain Mining Company. There was testimony that Price, who had been married a number of years ago in the East.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 5.—J. H. Jahn, who shot and killed Jesse Price, of Darrington, near Everett, yesterday, where he shot and deliberately killed Jesse B. Price, has had a stormy career. Jahn, who is said to have killed the man for persecuting him. After the assassination Jahn telegraphed to his wife here, "I have killed the vulture."

PRICE GIVES HIS VERSION

Says Jahn Killed His Man Out of Revenge on Father.

PITTSBURG, March 5.—Attorney William M. Price, father of Jesse B. Price, who was shot and killed by John H. Jahn at a mine near Darrington, Wash., said today that although he had received no details of the tragedy, he was confident that Jahn's sole motive was revenge upon himself (the father). The dead man and his slayer, the elder Price said, had no relations or association in business or otherwise, and hence there could be no grievance between them.

Jahn's enmity for the father, the latter said, was due to his activity in prosecuting Jahn out of a series of charges in local courts about five years ago. Jahn was in the real estate business and in connection with a number of deals, was accused of bribery, conspiracy and embezzlement. On a number of them Jahn was tried and sentenced to six months in jail. Other charges were not prosecuted. Attorney Price said, on condition that Jahn leave the city.

Price was the attorney against Jahn in most of the cases and said Jahn made threats. He was arrested in 1903, charged with being an accessory to the alleged murder of Charles Schepfer, at Millvale, a suburb, when he accused the wife of the dead man of the murder, saying he had given her the revolver with which the crime was committed. The wife was acquitted, however, upon testimony of a number of witnesses, who discredited Jahn's veracity. Schepfer's death was henceforth considered as due to suicide. Jahn at one time prosecuted Attorney Price and his co-conspirator for conspiracy, but they were acquitted. Jahn left here about three years ago.

In compliance with this rule of the city, the pioneer maple trees are being severely trimmed back that the light may shine without interference.

PALOUSE FARMERS

Wheat Demonstration Train
Awakens Great Enthusiasm in Inland Empire.

LEAVEN WORKING STRONG

Lectures by College Experts on Folly of Summer Fallow Heard by Hundreds at Each Stopping
Point of O. R. & N. Train.

WINONA, Wash., March 5.—(Special.)—The most enthusiastic 3000 members of the "wheat demonstration train," run today by the Washington State College over the lines of the O. R. & N. Company never dreamed of an awakening interest shown at the many meetings held today. The leaven of "anti-summer fallowing" is working strong in the minds of the farmers, and it was a surprise to those in charge of the work—for the crowds, the interest and enthusiasm and the reluctance to leave the train shown by the farmers was an agreeable surprise to all. At Ellerton 125 enthusiasts greeted the train. Five hundred at Garfield heard the lecture. At Farmington there were eager listeners. Tekoa, Okanogan, Thornton, Sunset, St. John and Winona turned out big crowds.

The train reached St. John at 7:25 a.m. and was met by a brass band and 200 citizens and farmers. An hour was spent there and interesting talks made by Professors Lawrence, Elliott, Sorenson, Thatcher and others. Accompanying the train, and much interest was shown by citizens in the exhibition car, where every exhibit was closely examined by the farmers.

This was the last meeting of the day, and the train was stopped at Winona for the night. Everyone with the train is greatly interested in the attendance and interest shown at the meetings. The total attendance was almost 2000.

GIVEN DINNER AT GARFIELD

Three Hundred Farmers Turn Out to Greet Demonstrators.

GARFIELD, Wash., March 5.—(Special.)—This has been a great day for Garfield and in fact the entire Palouse country because of the presence of the O. R. & N. train. The train arrived at 11:30 a.m. and was met by a brass band and wheat belt under the auspices of the railroad company and the Washington State College. The train arrived at 11:30 a.m. and was met by a brass band and wheat belt under the auspices of the railroad company and the Washington State College.

The train pulled in, Senator McCrook, the wheat king, boarded it and extended an invitation to the railway officials and college professors to repair to the opera-house, where lunch was being prepared. Accompanied by 300 wheat-growers, the railway and college men were seated at the long tables that fairly groaned under their load of good things to eat. After lunch there were speeches by Professors Elliott, Lawrence and Lawrence, of the State College.

The purpose of this movement by the railway company is to encourage diversified farming, and to induce the application of the Commercial Association of the land. The train consisted of several coaches and a baggage-car filled with improved farming implements, and a number of wheat-belt and various sorts of the inland Empire.

The train is truly a farmers' school on wheels. The people of the entire Palouse country are flocking to it, and the company is putting forth to assist the wheat-growers in getting a better understanding of diversified farming.

MEANS LOSS OF FERTILITY

Why Pullman Agricultural Experts Object to Summer Fallow.

Young, president of the Washington Wheat Growers' Association.

Pendleton Wants Demonstration.

This committee will endeavor to induce the Harriman agents to extend their instruction lecture train into this county. An effort will also be made to have the railroad people establish a modern experimental farm in this county where it can be demonstrated that the summer fallow system is a wanton waste of land.
