BANKER SAVED BY CUNNING

Lures Desperate Man With Nitroglycerine Into Detectives' Hands,

OMAHA, Neb., March 10 .- At 10 o'clock this morning an unknown man entered the Merchants National Bank of this city and demanded a large sum of money, at the same time displaying a bottle, believed to contain nitro-glycerine, and threatening to blow up the bank if his request was not complied with.

not complied with.

The man entered the bank soon after the doors were thrown open and asked to see Vice-Prosident Luther Drake in his private office. Mr. Drake seated himself opposite the man, who began talking in a rambling manner about having had $200 in the National Bank of Commerce in Kansas City when that bank failed.

"And since all you fellows are in to-

"And since all you fellows are in to-gether, you had just better hand me over my money, or I'll blow you and this bank and all of u to hell," suddenly said the fellow, producing a three-ounce bottle containing a thick yellow bould.
"Thou'l your make a more. This is filled Tou't you make a move.

"You don't want to die yourself, de you," coelly asked Drake.
"On, yes; I came in here ready to die." responded the stranger, "but when I die," I'll take everybody in, this building with "Well, I'll go and get you the money," said Drake, rising from his chair.

"Sit down. If you get up again without permission, I'll just drop this bottle. You know what will happen."

Drake sat down. Drake then told the man be would talk it over with him and the stranger account all the time.

detectives pinioned his arms and re-lieved him of his bottle before he knew what was up.

At the police station later the man gave his name as L. L. Fee and said that he came from Rockford, Ill., last October. He insists that the bottle contained no nitro-glycerine, but was only water with a coloring matter in it. The police took the bottle to the river bank and fired into it with a rifle. The bottle was broken but there was no explosion. The police believe Fee is insane.

PORTLAND, March 10 - (To the Editor.)-Before the subject gets cool, let me toy one word about the fire drill in our public schools. Don't have them regularon the contrary, sound the gong when is least expected. Twice a week is not it is least expected. Twice a week is not too often, but never at the some hour. Once a day is still better. The three or four minutes thus consumed is not wasted. Filling a child's lungs with pure air enables it the easier to get through the day's duties. Is it too much to hope that these frequent drills will, in case of real danger, make an orderly exit merely a mechanical operation?

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

During the last 24 hours there has been a general fall in pressure over the North Pacific States and a low-pressure area of considerable importance is central over British Columbia. It has caused increased cloudiness in this district and rain in Western Washington and along the North Oregon coast. It is much cooler in the Sound country, but closes have remained nearly stationary. The indications are that the rain area will spread during the next 24 hours to include all of Western Oregon, Washington and Northern Idaho, and that fair weather will continue in Eastern Oregon, and Southern Idaho. The failing rain will cause lower temperatures in Western Oregon, but in the remainder of the district the changes in temperature will be unimportant.
