HONOR MEMORY OF ST. PATRICK

Sons and Daughters of Erin, 6000 Strong, Gather at the Armory.

IRISH SONG PROGRAMME

Great Audience Cheers Singers to the Echo—Rev. Father Peter C. Yorke, of San Francisco, Delivers the Oration.

Six thousand people gathered at the Armory last night to participate in the St. Patrick's day celebration, which was held in the spacious drill hall. It was one of the largest and most patriotic, perhaps, that ever attended a like celebration in the Pacific Northwest.

An excellent musical programme, in which prominent local singers sang Irish folk songs and airs, was followed by an address by Rev. Father Peter C. Yorke, of San Francisco.

Father Yorke gave a masterly discourse on the life of St. Patrick and contemporaneous Irish history. He concluded his address with an arraignment of modern tendencies in America.

The exercises were held under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which planned the event with great care and carried it through to unprecedented success. The proceeds, amounting well into the hundreds, are destined for the Christian Brothers' Business College. Father Yorke came to Portland to take part as the guest of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The majority of the big assemblage were Irish or of Irish descent. The flag of the Emerald Isle hung from the gallery over the speaker's platform, side by side with the Stars and Stripes. Irish songs brought forth thunders of applause. If the air was a merry one there was a respondent burst of merriment; if it was more solemn the sons of St. Patrick followed the music back to the far-away country of their ancestors and not one but many a silent tear fell.

The programme was opened by the solo, "Sweet Eileen Aroon," by Dom J. Zan Professor J. Hutchison acting as accompanist. Miss Kathleen Lawler sang "Killarney" with great effect and was heartily recalled. Frank D. Hennessy sang "Barney From Sweet Kilarney," and other lively melodies, being recalled no less than five times. Miss Helen Lightner acted as accompanist. The Meistersingers Quartet sang "Oft in the Stilly Night" and "An Irish Folk Song," both with fine effect. Mrs. Walter Reed's rendition of "Kathleen Mavourneen" brought forth deafening applause.

Archbishop Christie then introduced Father Yorke, the speaker, who spoke for more than an hour, holding the close attention of the great audience throughout. Until near the close of his address, which was largely in the nature of a sermon, Father Yorke confined himself to the subject of St. Patrick and the events with which the world was concerned in St. Patrick's day. It was in applying St. Patrick's creed to the present that the speaker paid his respect to modern economic, political and moral conditions. He engaged in no personalities, but touched on the graft investigation in San Francisco. He said, in part:

"This Nation of ours was founded by the Fathers upon an idea. It was founded by them upon the idea that man was called for liberty and that man was worthy of liberty, and that if in the past there had been excesses of liberty the cure for it was not repression of liberty, not a strong and centralized government, but that the cure for the excesses of liberty was more liberty. It was upon that idea that this American Government was founded; namely, that every citizen of this Nation, every man who came loyally to serve the flag, every man and woman born within its borders should have the birthright of freedom, the best things in this world that are granted is the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

"But oh, how has the fine gold become dim and the stones of the truth of the centuries scattered at the head of every street! What do we worship here today in America? Is it liberty? We worship gold; we worship success; we worship power. Let a man's means be so low that no muckrake can ever reach them those means are justified if they spell success. Let a man's character be so black that no hue in the infernal regions could add anything to it, he will be feted and toasted and admired as long as he has money. Let a man lie, let him steal, let him break his promise, let him betray his best friends, let him descend to the lowest round of the sty—it all counts for nothing and he is wined and dined and held in high esteem if he does not fall completely, but by some chance gets into place, into power.

"Ah, we are talking about the Japanese; we are afraid they are coming in to conquer us, to burn our cities. Our yellow press is screaming in alarm of the Japanese, and the prospects of their war with China and saying we must keep them all out. Ladies and gentlemen, they are not our dangers—our fleet can take care of the Japanese. But what fleet, what army, can take care of the enemy within the citadel, can cure the dry rot eating the hearts out of the American people?

"As we stand face to face with that mighty pyramid of snow, Mount Hood, and look down upon this city, I ask you: What is eating the heart out of Portland? What is eating the heart out of San Francisco, out of the whole United States today? What questions are you asking yourselves today and saying they must be solved?

"Two are how to cope with corruption in politics, how to settle the economic difficulties between the rich and the poor man, the employer and the laborer. What answer has this day, with its centuries of progress, with its telephones and its telegraphs, with its perfection of arts and sciences, with its monster engines, with its lightnings harnessed to man's inventions, with its streams brought under control and doing the work in a trice that once was laboriously performed by man?

"What answer have we for corruption in politics? The same old thing—'turn the rascals out!' Yes, turn the rascals out—the same old tune, reverberating down the corridors of American history, like a tin can tied to a dog's tail—turn the rascals out! And when you have turned the rascals out, you get bigger rascals in! The villains that steal the door-knobs are succeeded by the villains that carry off the doors themselves.

"Yes, turn the rascals out, follow the plan that has been followed in the graft prosecutions. I understand some of you are awful anxious to hear about the San Francisco graft prosecutions. Well, I will tell you a story. After the San Francisco earthquake I saw this true story in an Eastern paper—it must be true. It said a band of cattle were being driven down Mission street in San Francisco when the earthquake came. At the first shock the street was rent and a gaping hole appeared. All the cattle went down and disappeared in this hole. When the second shock came the fissure closed and nothing of the cattle was left in sight but one solitary ox's tail waving in the breeze.

"When I left San Francisco last Sunday night all left of the graft prosecutions was some poor old donkey's tail waving in the air under an avalanche of affidavits! Affidavits of 50,000 words, of 80,000 words, yes, of more words than that, and every one of them a lesson in a nice, parliamentary way of calling another man a liar. So down there in the graft prosecutions they can read affidavits and take their choice."

FATHER YORKE SCORES HENEY

Inclined to Distrust Sincerity of the Noted Graft Prosecutor.

Father Yorke gave it as his belief, in an interview yesterday, that the people of Portland harbor several misconceptions regarding the graft investigation being made in San Francisco. He also advances the theory that a general misunderstanding may exist as regards the real character of Francis J. Heney, the noted graft prosecutor. Father Yorke is not an admirer of Heney and is not slow to say so. Without going into details, he expressed himself as doubtful of the prosecutor's sincerity. As to the merits of Heney's recent verbal combats with Senator Fulton, Father Yorke said he knew nothing, but inasmuch as Fulton was fighting Heney, he believed "the man must be all right."

"Recent developments in these graft cases," said he, "throw a very peculiar light on the methods of prosecution. For example, two of the most respected clergymen of San Francisco, Rabbi Kaplan and Rabbi Nieto, have made affidavits which Special Prosecutor Heney calls rank perjuries. What the decision will be I cannot say just now, but it looks to me as if he had reached the turn of a very long lane.

"As far as I could learn, the opinion of the Appellate Court seems to be upheld by all reputable California lawyers. The Supreme Court of California is regarded as comparing favorably with the Supreme Court of any other state in the Union, now and in past times, although attacked bitterly from so many quarters. Its Chief Justice, Mr. Beatty, is a Southerner and an old-time Democrat, yet he has been elected time and time again in California, which is overwhelmingly Republican, because of the public confidence in his legal knowledge and personal integrity."

ECHO OF AN OLD CRIME

ARREST CLARK COUNTY MAN FOR KENTUCKY MURDER.

Jack Collins, of Yacolt, Admits Killing in Pike County, but Claims It Was in Self-Defense.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 17.—(Special.)—Jack Collins, of Yacolt, was arrested today by Officer McFarland, at the instigation of the Sheriff of Pike county, Kentucky, and will be taken to Pikeville by an officer as soon as the necessary papers can be had. Collins has been living at Yacolt for the past three years and is under arrest on a charge of murder, alleged to have been committed at Pikeville about five years ago. Collins' real name is Jefferson Bevins. Collins does not deny that he is the man wanted, but claims that the act was committed in self-defense.

NO BIDS TO EXTEND MAINS

Improvement of Tacoma Water System Meets More Delays.

TACOMA, Wash., March 17.—(Special.)—No bids were received today for the building of the water main to bring Maplewood springs into Tacoma. If bids had been received, no contract could have been awarded, because on the application of ex-Mayor A. V. Fawcett, Judge Reid, of the Superior Court, granted a restraining order to prevent any such action until the Mayor, the Commissioner and Councilmen Doud and Whitman could show that they were proceeding according to law.

The restraining order was not unexpected, but the feature of contract to bid on the main was a surprise both to the Mayor and the Councilmen. It had been generally believed that the specifications had been made up especially to suit some contractor, but there was none on hand to bid.

The injunction is in accord with the ideas of Controller Mead, who has repeatedly said that the creation of the "Maplewood extension fund" it utterly impossible for the simple reason that there is no money to put in it.

San Francisco Shipping.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The British tank steamer Dakotah, 2592 tons, which arrived Monday in ballast from Taketoyo, has been again engaged by the Standard Oil Company to take a cargo of refined oil to the Orient. At 35 shillings, J. J. Moore & Co. have chartered the American schooner Muhukona, 658 tons, now at Grays Harbor, to convey lumber thence to New Zealand. The British tank steamer Winnebago, 2927 tons, which arrived from Hongkong about the same time as the Dakotah, is another vessel to be again engaged by the Standard Oil Company to take refined oil to the Orient.

After strenuous efforts loading the Australian mail liner Aeon, which was detained here and at Seattle, she got away late tonight on her long voyage to Australia and New Zealand, with freight and mails. When Captain Downe took the Aeon out from the wharf she had on board about 1,000,000 feet of lumber and about 1000 tons freight for the antipodes.

The schooner Prosper, the bark Star of England and the ships Star, of France, Star of Alaska and Standard are all being fitted out for their cruises north at the salmon fisheries. Captain George F. Sullivan is in charge of the work of preparing all of these vessels except the Standard, which is fitting out at Oakland.

Towed by the Red Stacker Sea King from Fort Bragg, the barge Vidette arrived today with 500,000 feet of lumber. The schooner A. W. Baxter, from Bellingham, with 650,000 feet, was the ony other lumber arrival.

The whaler Bowhead, Captain Tilton, left today for a whaling cruise on the northern grounds.

Indorse Cole's Candidacy.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Municipal Association yesterday the candidacy of James Cole, ex-Assistant United States Attorney, for the Republican nomination for District Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District, was indorsed. Mr. Cole is appreciative of this indorsement, which he considers will be of material assistance to him in landing the nomination.

La Paz, Bolivia.—William B. Sorsby, the American Minister to Bolivia, who was stricken with paralysis in January, is now practically recovered.

LAWYERS IN CLASH

Disagree as to Testimony in X-Radium Case.

LIE PASSED IN COURT

Deputy Prosecutor Haney and Attorney John F. Watts Have Heated Altercation—Jury Fails to Agree as to Smith's Guilt.

The affairs of the X-Radium Institute were aired yesterday when Deputy District Attorneys Haney and Easterly took up the prosecution of David Smith, charged with contributing to the delinquency of 17-year-old Jennie Sighers. The case went to the jury at 4:30 o'clock. The jurors sought until 9:30 last night to come to an agreement, but could not do so, and were discharged by Judge Gantenbein, of the Circuit Court, before whom the case was tried.

John F. Watts acted as counsel for the defendant and during the afternoon entered into an altercation with Deputy Haney as to whether or not Watts had talked with Miss Sigher's father in the corridor during the morning court session. Mr. Haney thought he had seen the two together, but Watts grew wrathy and cried "You're a liar." Mr. Haney replied that Watts was not far from being one, when the court interposed between the warring attorneys, and Mr. Haney sought the pardon both of the court and jury.

Watts, however, in a surly mood, continually repeated in the presence of the court and jury during the remainder of the trial that Mr. Haney owed him an apology. As Mr. Haney had already apologized for his actions, he failed to look at the matter in that light.

During the morning session Miss Sighers was placed on the stand. She was asked explicitly by counsel if Smith did not pay her a visit while she was at the Home of the Good Shepherd. She replied in the affirmative and was asked if she did not write a note in endearing terms and slip it into Smith's overcoat pocket. She flatly denied having done so.

When court convened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon she was again called to the witness stand and handed the note in question. With a flush of anger she took the paper and quickly tore it into bits. Thereupon she was severely reprimanded by Judge Gantenbein, who came very near giving her a jail sentence for contempt of court.

Smith was placed on the witness stand during the afternoon. He said he paid Dr. Ernest Heymans $100 to attend the girl, but said he did not know her actual condition at that time, and did not conspire with Heymans and Dr. William Eisen to perform a criminal operation. He frankly admitted, however, that he had intended to marry Miss Sighers, and that he met her at Seaside.

A. S. Sighers, when called to the stand, said that Smith was told when he talked the affair over with Judge Frazer, of the Juvenile Court, that he had best tell the truth regarding it, or it would be made hard for him. Mr. Sigher's memory was defective regarding any evidence which might incriminate Smith, but had a distinct recollection regarding other things surrounding the case.

ADMINISTRATOR IS NAMED

W. J. Hawkins Will Handle R. R. Thompson Estate.

W. J. Hawkins was yesterday appointed by the County Court administrator of the Robert R. Thompson estate in America, valued at $870,000, yielding an annual income of about $25,000. The entire estate is valued at $2,000,000, and is bequeathed to Mrs. Harriet Thompson, the widow, who is 86 years old. The will was signed by Thompson July 10, 1890. It is now in the possession of the widow, who is in San Francisco.

The petition of Mr. Hawkins, filed with the County Court yesterday, says that application for the probate of the will is now being made in the San Francisco courts, and that a copy of the instrument is to be filed with the Multnomah County Court. A portion of the estate is in Multnomah, Columbia, Yamhill and Wasco counties. The executors named in the will are the widow and Ivey L. Borden. Colonel L. L. Hawkins was also named, but has since died.

The heirs who were not included in the will are the following children: Eliza F. King, Alameda, Cal.; Sarah Ann Pollock, San Francisco; L. C. Thompson, Carlton; Robert H. Thompson, Portland; Walter S. Thompson, Redondo, Cal.; Lillie Lynch, San Francisco; Frank Thompson, Alameda and Hattie B. Borden, San Francisco.

Meet on Mat Friday.

"Strangler" Smith and a wrestler named Schultz are scheduled to meet on the mat at Merrill's hall Friday night. Smith claims the Northwest championship and recently defeated Ed Kennedy, the big first baseman of the Portland team. Schultz is a good man and the bout should prove interesting. Roy Parker has challenged the winner to a match for from $100 to $250 a side. Parker specifies that the man who accepts must make 142 pounds.

Two Wives Ask Divorce.

Marguerite Bell has filed suit in the State Circuit Court to obtain a divorce from Clyde J. Bell, on grounds of desertion. She alleges that he left her in October, 1904. The couple were married at Grants Pass, August 27, 1903. Annie M. Seol has also filed suit on grounds of desertion against her husband, E. E. G. Seol. They were married at Portland, November 14, 1888. The wife asks to be declared the owner of the community property in Oregon City.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Abe Tichner and family have returned from Collins Springs and Hood River.

Paul R. Kelty, formerly managing editor of the Evening Telegram, arrived in Portland on the steamer Geo. W. Elder yesterday.

Mrs. G. A. Jackson, who has been ill at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. T. Burntrager, 715½ Kearney street, is slowly recovering.

Fritz Kreisler, Mrs. Kreisler and Harold Bauer registered at the Portland yesterday. The eminent violinist and wife are from Vienna and the pianist from Paris.

Dr. Gustav Baar left Portland for Europe last Sunday. He is to attend a medical congress at Vienna, returning to Portland the latter part of June.

J. P. Howe, a theatrical man, of Seattle, Mrs. Howe and daughter, Quennie, were registered yesterday at the Portland. They are on their way home from a trip to California.

J. B. Taylor, of New York, vice-president of the engineering firm of Barstow & Co., who built the Oregon Electric Railroad, left yesterday for home, after spending several days in Portland.

C. C. Robins, one of Portland's well known anarchists, who has been ill with an attack of grip for several days, is improving.

J. Scott Harrison, Special Inspector of Surveys for the Government, registered at the Imperial yesterday from Washington, D. C. Mr. Harrison is one of the engineers in the employ of the General Land Office, but his trip to the Coast at this time has no special significance. The practice of the Department is to have an inspector examine the work of contracting engineers before final approval, and the inspector is on a trip of this nature at the present time, having just completed a trip to Montana and Idaho. He goes to Astoria today.

At the Theaters

What the Press Agents Say.

"Dream City" Matinee Today.

The musical hit of the year is "Dream City" at the Marquam this week. Last night one couldn't get a seat for love nor money and the audience recalled the actors time and time again. Little Chip and Mary Marble are the best ever.

"Zira" at Baker Theater.

Patrons of the Baker Theater are enjoying a rare treat this week in the privilege of seeing a high-class road play which was secured for stock merely by a lucky chance. This is "Zira," Henry Miller's adaptation of the noted story "The New Magdalen."

Empire Matinee Today.

"Sis in New York," which is causing no end of genuine fun and merriment at the Empire this week, is one of the best plays of its kind, and no one who enjoys a good, hearty laugh should fail to see it. Matinee today at 2:15.

"The Stowaway" Makes Good.

No attraction that the Lyric has ever promised its patrons has made good any better than "The Stowaway," which is delighting everybody who sees the Allen Company. The stage settings are equal to the highest-priced attractions. Moving pictures, too.

"On Thanksgiving Day."

"On Thanksgiving Day" is the title of the pastoral play at the Star Theater this week. It is the best of the rural dramas seen here this season. Matinees will be held Thursday and Saturday.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Toymaker" Tomorrow Night.

Beginning tomorrow night and continuing Friday and Saturday nights with a special matinee Saturday afternoon the attraction at the Heilig Theater will be the San Francisco Opera Company in the "The Toymaker." Jolly Teddy Webb and charming Daphne Pollard are with th this company. Seats are now selling.

Musical Play Next Sunday.

Beginning next Sunday night, March 22, and continuing the following three nights with a special matinee Wednesday, the attraction at the Heilig Theater, Fourteenth and Washington streets, will be the merry musical comedy, "Coming Thro' the Rye." This will be one of the musical hits of the season.

Creston Clarke Coming.

Next week's attraction at the Marquam will be that eminent actor, Creston Clarke, in the new American play, "The Power That Governs." It has received the indorsement of every city which it has visited, and this attraction may be safely recommended to your friends. All next week.

"Hazel Kirke" Monday.

Commencing Monday night, there will be only one really important attraction in town, and that will be "Hazel Kirke," which will be presented by the Allen Stock Company at the Lyric. This classic is one of the most beautiful plays ever written.

AT THE VAUDEVILLE THEATERS.

Ovations for MacDowell.

Melbourne MacDowell, the famous tragedian, and Virginia Drew Trescott are being received with unbounded enthusiasm in their remarkable presentation of "The Oath," at Pantages theater this week. Seven other exceptional features.

At the Grand.

The management of the Grand is now presenting a bill of vaudeville such as has rarely been brought to this city. There are many acts not one of which has failed to make good.

MAY FINISH CANAL IN 1912

Stevens Praises Goethal's Work. Doubts Canal's Utility.

HAVANA, March 17.—John F. Stevens, the former chief engineer of the Panama Canal, who is the guest here of Governor Magoon, said to the Associated Press representative last night that in his opinion there was no question of the possibility of the completion of the canal by the end of 1914, and if necessary it might be finished two years earlier. Lieutenant-Colonel Goethals, he said, is pushing on the work with such astonishing celerity that even the most ardent advocate of the canal is amazed at the results achieved.

Mr. Stevens believed also that the cost of the work would be considerably under $200,000,000, possibly as low as $250,000,000, including the price of the French concession. He questioned, however, the military value of the canal. He did not believe it would pay the United States commercially, unless there occurred great changes in the trade relations between the United States and the South American republics. He desired to correct the impression that he had adversely criticised the present management of the canal.

Boosters' Meeting at Stayton.

STAYTON, Or., March 17.—(Special.)—Saturday night's session of the Commercial Club was a boosters' meeting. W. L. Freres, president of the club, presided, and Tom Richardson, manager of the Portland Commercial Club, was the principal speaker. Salem was present with a good delegation, among whom were the following: F. G. Deckabach, Joe Albert, R. K. Page, William Walton, F. S. Skiff, W. A. McGilchrist, A. F. Hofer, Paul Wallace, C. M. Bishop and W. H. Dancy. After the speeches setting forth the advantages of Stayton, her various industries and factories, despite the fact that she has no railroad communication, and the inducements she could offer capital with her almost unlimited water power, if she had railway facilities, those present repaired to the Oilfellows' Hall, where luncheon was spread, after which they departed, pronouncing the meeting a decided success.

Northern Pacific Hard Hit.

SPOKANE, March 17.—The crest of the flood in the Lewiston, Idaho, country is believed to have passed, the streams are falling and the indications are that the danger is over. The Northern Pacific is the hardest hit.

Tomorrow and Friday will positively be the last days for discount on East Side gas bills. Portland Gas Company.

THROW AWAY THE BAD

When you have taken the shell from an English walnut even then all that is left is not fit to eat. Nature has separated the delicious kernel with a hard substance that is disagreeable and harmful. When this has also been extracted, the desirable part of the nut may be enjoyed with impunity.

Until recently coffee roasters were content to discard the outer husk of the berry only. We, in preparing have gone a step further. By special machinery we have extracted the chaff which nature has placed in the center of the berry. We discard this because it is useless and contains in a concentrated form (about 10%) a poisonous, corrosive, bitter tasting form of tannic acid.

The result is a pure, clean, healthful coffee that will go further and taste better than any other brand you have ever used. Please look into the subject.
