Master of State Grange, A. T. Buxton, Proposes to Curb Its Abuse.

FIRST USE LEGISLATURE

Proponents of Measure Never Intended Its Indiscriminate Use by Every Crank Who Wants His Ideas to Become Statutes.

FOREST GROVE, Or., March 23.—(Special)—Master of the State Grange A. T. Buxton has just returned from Eugene, where he has perfected arrangements for the annual meeting of the Grange on May 12 to 14.

He stated that a resolution to amend the initiative and referendum law would be offered at this session of the Grange. He stated that the Grange realizes that the law is being used too freely, and he thought some such curbing should be enacted.

Speaking further on the matter, he offers the following: The present use of the system of direct legislation in this state, which amounts, practically to anarchy, is a matter of which every citizen should be made aware.

Through Out in Legislature First. I believe that the objections to the system in its present form are inherent in the system itself and that they can be very easily and effectively corrected by amendments in the methods of its operation.

My reasons for this are very simple and yet very fundamental. It was never intended, as I view it, that this system should be used by the average voter.
