HARRY WOOD MARKET CO.

The Home of U. S. Government-Inspected Meats On the Corner First and Alder

A friend said to me: "I don't see why you quote such low prices on your meats for your Saturday sales. Why don't you make your customers pay for your advertising, instead of spending a large sum to advertise something you are going to sell at cost or below?" Now, that is where I think he is wrong. I believe in giving you a genuine bargain, one that you will know is a bargain, one that you will remember about, tell your friends about, that your friends will tell about, then "once a customer, always a customer." Any time you see our ad you know that we are going to give you a bargain. I will stake my business integrity on these bargains as being absolute bargains; no question about that. If you don't agree with me, I will gladly refund your money, after you have used up your meat, will take your word in the matter absolutely. That's more than fair, is it not? Say, did you like those LIVING SKELETONS that you bought last week? I warrant many a person regretted that they had not bought their meat in a shop that was not afraid to show their meats to you and cut it up before you. HARRY WOOD. REMEMBER, THAT WE ARE ON THE CORNER; THE MARKETS TO THE WEST OF US MAY HOLLER AND FIGHT, BUT WE STAND ALONE FOR QUALITY FIRST, PRICES CONSISTENT WITH GOOD MEATS.

GOOD THINGS IN PORTLAND MARKETS. BY LILLIAN TINGLE. It is not very often that red bananas are seen in the Portland markets. There were plenty to be had this week and very delicious they are, either raw or cooked. The red kind is particularly good for salads and has a rich creamy consistency which is very pleasing in those desserts and cake fillings that call for banana pulp. Baked in their skins they are nice eaten with cream and sugar, like an apple, or with butter and salt, like a baked potato. Served in the latter style they go well with roast beef or a good broiled beefsteak, either with or without horse radish, as in the well-known "beefsteak a la Stanley."

filed an action against Brooks and his wife in Klamath County upon judgment for a deficiency against them, which he had obtained in the Superior Court of Jefferson County, Washington. In that suit the property of Brooks and his wife was attached and judgment was rendered for the plaintiff. But the records do not show that this judgment was ever entered and in 1888 the State School Land Board brought suit to foreclose a mortgage made by Brooks and his wife in 1888 and which had been recorded five years before. In the meantime Mr. Meyer had attached the lands. In 1888 the court made an order foreclosing on the lands which were bid in by the State of Oregon and sold to William A. Wright. Out of this complication resulted the suit, decided yesterday by Judge Wolverton. Free candy with children's shoes at Rosenthal's, Seventh and Washington.

On account of the close season only California salmon is to be had, but there are plenty of other kinds of fish. I saw a large supply of sea trout at 20 and 25 cents a pound and smelt from 5 to 8 cents. There was black bass at 20 cents, striped bass at 25, baraboussa, catfish, mackerel, rock cod, croppies, sole at 15 cents; ling cod, black cod, large California smelt and halibut at 12 cents and flour, perch and herring—the last particularly nice and fresh—at 10 cents a pound. There was also California shad at 15 cents, but no shad roe as yet. I saw, however, salmon roe (which is much prized in some places) at 5 cents a pound. Fresh turkeys are rather scarce, but the price of them and of poultry generally is about the same as last week. Spring lamb is getting slightly cheaper, but is still high in price, as indeed all meat tends to be just now; but a nice fore quarter can be had for 18 or 20 cents a pound or a hind quarter for 25 to 30 cents. I saw some very special and delicate lamb chops, cut for an invalid, at 40 cents a pound; and delicious morsels they would be, just broiled to a turn. I also saw some nice lamb's tongues for pickling, at 3 for 10 cents. These make a number of good entrees, both hot and cold.

FAILS TO SECURE TITLE. Postmaster-General Loses Suit for Valuable Oregon Land. Postmaster-General Meyer in the United States Court yesterday was the unsuccessful defendant in a suit to quiet title to 1300 acres of land in Klamath County of the estimated value of $1,000,000. The plaintiff were the Hot Springs Improvement Company and William A. Wright. In 1888 the lands involved in the litigation were mortgaged by the owner, Quincy A. Brooks. Seven years later the lands were deeded to E. C. Brooks, son of the original owner. In 1894, the defendant in the suit decided yesterday
