EXTEND ROAD TO ALBANY

OREGON ELECTRIC WILL BUILD UP VALLEY.

Surveys Now Being Made for Main Trunk Line South From Salem.

By the first of January, 1909, the Oregon Electric Railway Company will have 100 miles of main line in operation, representing the one principal trunk line from Portland to Salem, and two extensions, one from Salem to Albany and the other from a point near the southern city limits of Portland to Hillsboro and Forest Grove. The system will be the finest that money can build, and sufficient progress has been made in the way of surveys, purchase of rights of way, securing of steel and other structural material, that the corporation feels safe in announcing the completion of the system at, and possibly before, the date mentioned.

The trunk line from Portland to Salem is 50 miles in length, the Forest Grove extension upon which construction work will be begun within 30 days, is 21 miles long, while the Salem-Albany extension will be 27 miles long.

Gangs of surveyors have been in the field for several days working on three distinct routes for the extension from Salem to Albany, and it is announced that work on this extension will be begun just as soon as the line to Forest Grove has been completed, which will be in about six months. Three routes are being surveyed so that the most direct as well as the most desirable as to grade and other physical features may be found.

General Manager Guy Talbot and Chief Engineer Turner have been over the various routes considered within the last week and preliminary work will be rushed as fast as conditions will permit. The contracting firm of W. S. Barstow & Co. will construct both the Forest Grove and the Salem-Albany extensions.

MONDAY BARGAINS.

On sale today—$1.50 black Mercerized Sateen Petticoats, 98c; 50c Corset-covers, 25c; $2 Cambric Skirts, $1.29; $2 White Lawn Waists, $1.47. Special reduced prices on Cream Dress Goods and Silks. Women's sample Suits at 50c on the dollar. McAllen & McDonnell, Third and Morrison.

One Symphony Patron Objects.

PORTLAND, March 28.—(To the Editor.)—The concert by the Portland Symphony Orchestra at the Marquam theater Friday, was unquestionably of high order, but why should several hundred people be compelled to sit waiting twenty minutes or more after the time announced for beginning? CLODHOPPER.

Favors Modern Packing-Plant.

PORTLAND, March 28.—(To the Editor.)—I have been very much interested in the controversy about the proposed packing-house location in South Portland. Will someone enlighten us as to what will be done with about three miles of the South Portland waterfront, if manufacturers are not allowed there? Are we to have our park system extended? The Schwarzschild & Sulzberger people are certainly worthy of very serious consideration, before refusing them a permit to build their plant in South Portland. As the writer understands it, they only ask a permit to conduct business and build a modern plant. After its erection, and operation, should it prove a nuisance, the city could and would put them out of business. The modern packing plant is nothing to be compared to the old-fashioned slaughter-house. The location of such a plant means more to the city of Portland than one would suppose on first consideration. MAKER OF MENS CLOTHES

Prices of meat have been boosted outrageously this past week in Chicago, the home of the Beef Trust. The poorest cuts of meat are costing 14c, and the choice cuts 24c. In Portland the price of meat remains the same, not because the Beef Trust wants it that way, but because Smith is doing it that way. We want every householder in the city to stand by us in our efforts to keep the price of meat down. Practically every other market in the city is supplied by the Chicago Beef Trust. Smith is asking 3c a pound for the cheapest cuts of beef, and only 12½c and 15c for the very choicest—that's cheap enough for anybody.
