Find Many Converts.

Rainey and Elgholz assert that they are much encouraged with prospects in Oregon. Since they have arrived in Portland they have received numerous letters from other cities throughout the letters from other eithes throughout the state requesting them to visit those points in person to explain the princi-oles of the Independence parity. The organizers will visit as many of these cities as their time will permit in order that the parity organization in Oregon may be as representative of the state as possible. In addition to the work in this state, Rainey and Eigholz have charge of the task of organizing the parity in Washington and idano. "It is particularly amusing to me to witness the wrangle in this state over Statement No. 1." said Mr. Eigholz vesterday. "I suppose that the people of Oregon come as mearly electing their Semators by direct vote as it is possible for them to do under state statutes.

Senators by direct vote as it is possible for them to do under state statutes, but the Independence party does not propose to effect popular election of Senators by state laws. We aim at the fountain head of the trouble and pro-pose to amend the Constitution of the United States so as to compel the elec-tion of Senators by the direct vote of the people. Direct legislation is one of the foremost principles for which the Independence party atands and that will be contended for in National as well as state and municipal affairs.

Advocate the Recall.

also advocate the recall; believing that it is entirely proper and advisable for the people to have the power and right to depose their unfaithful legislators and public servants. If the people of Oregon had had such a club in their hands for the last few years, they would not now the last few years, they would not now nd themselves confronted with 19 difon which lerent measures on which they will be called to vote at the June election. Fear of the recall would have a surprising effect on your legislator, who would not be liable to propose legislative measures distanteful to his constituents and on which the referendum could be called, neither would he hesitate to offer for en-methers such measures as the electors might desire and which, under your pres-ent system, must be submitted by the bittative. lions in mis favor, or whether they shall leave the delegates free to act at Chi-cago as they see fit. No other President-ial candidate has been mentioned. Tonight the leaders of the Taft move-ment claimed 25 of the 32 delegates to would have a splendid influence, is just what the people need. We d not dispense with the initiative would not inspense with the initiative and referendum, by any means, but would reserve that for emergency purposes. With the recall, however, the mantical mess of the initiative and referendum would be curtailed largely. There would be for whether the second se hleago. The advocates of an unpledged delegation claim 29 delegates; who the say, do not wish to be bound, but the admit that Secretary Taft will have he few objectionable measures to refer to the people who would have no trouble Through their logislators to secure fair and reasonable legislators to secure fair and reasonable legislation without re-sorting to the initiative.
