

POLLING PLACES FOR PRIMARIES

Fixed by County Court for All Portland Precincts and a Few Outside City.

MANY TENTS TO BE USED

Canvas Shelters Will Be Tried in 54 Precincts—In 35 Precincts Polling Places Will Be in Buildings—List Soon Ready.

Polling places for all the precincts within the city of Portland and a few of those outside the city limits have been fixed by the County Court. As soon as the County Supervisors have finished making their reports on the matter the entire list will be given out by the County Clerk, Fields.

When the first decision to purchase the election tents was ordered, but it was found that three more were needed, so there will be 54. In 35 precincts the election will be held in buildings. The tents will be tried at the primary election without floors. It is believed that they will be much better for the judges and clerks than rooms in buildings, which are often musty and dark.

The list of polling places by precincts, as far as they have been fixed, is as follows:

Court to Settle Venue in Title Bank Cases.

JUDGES NOT UNANIMOUS

It Is Expected That Court Will Grant Motion of Defendants for Change of Venue—Rumor That Hill Will Testify for the State.

Judges Cleland, Gantenbein, O'Day and Bromough, who recently sat en banc to hear the arguments aent a change of venue in the Rose-Burkhardt-Altschick cases, will render their decision today at 2 P. M. It is generally understood that the judges will grant the motion, thus allowing the case to be tried in some Oregon county other than Multnomah. Rumor also has it that the judges are not agreed upon the question, three favoring the change and one dissenting.

Late yesterday afternoon Judge Cleland called his three colleagues into his chambers for consultation. They remained in private council for a half hour. Upon separating they would say nothing regarding what the decision will be, refusing either to affirm or deny the current rumor.

It was the contention of Attorney McCann, for J. Thorburn Rose, that the newspapers of Portland had so prejudiced the minds of the citizens that a jury of 12 men could not be secured who would fairly and impartially try the case at issue, particularly when, if they returned a decision for Rose, "they would be grilled the next day in the newspapers."

It was stipulated between the District Attorney and the indicted bank officials that the decision of the judges in the Rose case regarding the change of venue be made to apply in the cases of J. T. Burkhardt and John E. Atchison.

Rumor has it that George H. Hill is to be exempted from prosecution by giving his testimony in the cases against the other officials. On this question the District Attorney is silent.

SUES FOR $6000 SALARY

Other Creditors of Hygienic Mattress Co. Contest Davis' Claim.

Before Judge Cleland, in the Circuit Court, A. E. Davis is seeking to recover $6000 he alleges is due him for unpaid salary. Davis was formerly president of the Hygienic Mattress Company. Allegations of creditors of the company are to the effect that the ex-president paid himself $500 a month salary, when the business only paid $100 a month profit.

The chief creditors, other than Davis, are the Oregon Pine Needle Fibre Company and Joseph M. Healy, but the total of their claims amounts to only about half of his. An assignment for the benefit of the creditors was made in June, 1906.

When the company was organized, in the Fall of 1904, it was capitalized at $50,000. H. H. McCarthy and M. W. Bremer are said to have subscribed $50,000 of this and Davis the balance. The $50,000, instead of being in cash, is alleged to have been a contract with the pine needle firm valued at $50,000. Now the creditors say the contract was worth nothing. Of $1500 which was obtained from the sale of stock on hand when the assignment was made by Judge Gantenbein in 1906, Davis claims the largest share. The other creditors, however, say he is entitled to nothing, asserting that the pine needle firm was a dummy corporation. It is alleged that Davis manipulated the business through dummy directors.

Sues Ely for Value of Stock.

Alleging that B. C. Ely converted stock of the Home Telephone & Telegraph Company belonging to Frank Stott to his own use, the latter has brought suit in the Circuit Court. He demands $1250 damages.

J. C. YANCEY INSPECTING HIS TIMBER HOLDINGS.

Declares Financial and Business Conditions in West Much Better Than in the East.

J. C. Yancey, of New York, who has extensive timber holdings in Oregon and Washington, is registered at the Portland. Mr. Yancey arrived yesterday morning and will visit his timber lands, which are located in the vicinity of the Lewis River. It is Mr. Yancey's intention while going over his holdings, to select a place upon which to build a large mill.

Mr. Yancey has great faith in the future of Oregon and says that it is easy to see the West has been more prompt in recovering from the effects of the panic than the East.

"The East was harder hit than you on the Pacific Coast can imagine," said Mr. Yancey last night, "for the recovery back there has been very slow compared with that of the West. While business in and around New York has about reached its normal trend, financiers are not taking hold of new projects. Money has been hard to get and even now loans are difficult to secure. The loans are small compared with those made before the panic and in the majority of instances are extended to men of the highest business standing. New York, Pittsburgh and Boston were fruitful fields for all kinds of promoters, but since the panic the money market has been very tight. However, the outlook is exceedingly bright and I look to see confidence restored before long."

Makes Change in Ballot.

Because the words, "impartially, efficiently and economically" were placed upon the declaration of intention of John S. Stott, but were not marked, "Words to be placed on ballot," County Clerk Fields failed to enter the words on his copy of the ballot. He has now made the change, and inserted the words, as other papers filed by Mr. Stott, who is running for County Coroner, indicated his intention regarding the phrase.

Through an oversight the name of H. R. Albee has been given out under the caption of Representative. He is running for the State Senate.
