BAY STATE CARES FOR HOMELESS

Chelsea Already Prepares to Rebuild Area Wasted by Fire.

RELIEF COMES PROMPTLY

Neighboring Cities and Legislature Give Food and Shelter to 10,000 Sufferers—Final Estimate of Loss Is $6,000,000.

BOSTON, Mass., April 13.—From the embers of yesterday's conflagration in Chelsea there arose today a well organized movement for aid and relief to the 10,000 homeless, a counting of the cost by insurance companies, whose representatives placed their losses at $3,500,000, and a determination by the city authorities to rebuild the 250 acres swept by the flames, where stood before the fire property valued at nearly $6,000,000.

No further deaths were reported today, and of the injured persons taken to the various hospitals only two were believed to be in a critical condition. The three bodies which were taken to the morgue in Boston last night remained unidentified today.

The indications are that the losses are divided according to class of property destroyed as follows: Church and schools, $725,000; public buildings, $475,000; factories, business blocks and contents, $825,000; dwelling houses, $3,750,000. The insurance of $3,500,000 is divided among about 50 companies.

Prompt Work of Relief.

Comparatively little suffering was reported among the fire victims today. So prompt and efficient was the relief work begun yesterday that practically no one was without shelter during the night. Today the relief work was taken up by those who handled the Massachusetts fund for the San Francisco sufferers. Early today Mayor Beck issued an appeal to the country, but after a conference with Acting Governor Draper the appeal was amended so as to include only the state.

Announcement was made that $15,000 had been raised by subscription in Boston before noon. The acting Governor sent his personal check for $15,000. In addition the City of Chelsea appropriated $10,000 and a resolution calling for $100,000 from the state was introduced in the House of Representatives. Many nearby cities announced the starting of subscription papers and the city governments of others will hold special meetings to take action on the matter. A message received from President Roosevelt expressed sympathy and volunteered the service of the Army and Navy.

Shelter for the Homeless.

In the meantime the local organizations, such as the Associated Charities and the Salvation Army, were perfecting their work and they professed entire ability to find temporary quarters for all the homeless.

The burned district was closely patrolled today by the state militia. The work of the guards, however, consisted mostly in keeping people from venturing too near the standing walls. There was very little property remaining to be guarded, so thoroughly had the area been swept by the flames. In fact, the underwriters who viewed the ruins today saw no prospect of salvage of any description. One street—Broadway—was cleared and opened to the general public and, as it led straight through the heart of the ruins, a steady stream of people moved through it all day.

Following a conference with Acting Governor Draper, Chairman McClintock, of the local relief committee, requested the Associated Press to make the following announcement:

"The local committee has decided to ask that all funds to be sent for the relief of Chelsea go to the treasurer of the general committee appointed by the Governor at the State House this morning. Lee Higginson & Co."

Appeals for Subscriptions.

The following appeal for assistance, signed by Mayor Beck and William E. McClintock, chairman of the relief committee, was handed to the Associated Press today:

"We have been visited by a most terrible catastrophe. One half the area of our city has been swept by fire. Fifteen thousand are homeless, $12,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed. Our business section is almost wholly wiped out. We are in sore need. We have not lost our courage, but are applying ourselves with all our ability to the task before us. The task is stupendous and we ask assistance of all who are benevolently inclined. He who gives quickly gives doubly. Subscriptions may be sent to the City Treasurer, Thomas B. Frost."

Charitable organizations found places for many of the sufferers, school houses and other public buildings in Boston and other places near the stricken city were thrown open to provide temporary lodgings and hundreds of military tents brought from the state camp grounds at South Framingham served as a protection for victims of the fire. Acting Governor Draper early last night authorized the City of Chelsea to procure provisions for emergency use up to any reasonable amount at the expense of the state, and dairy and bakery companies generously contributed large supplies of their products which found their way promptly to the sufferers.

Search for Lost Children.

But notwithstanding the efforts to render aid, there were thousands of homeless ones who passed the night wandering the streets, or shivered in the parks and squares. Many of the unfortunates applied at police headquarters for shelter and were cared for temporarily in the courthouse. Early this morning, however, tents had been pitched in open lots in Chelsea and the neighboring city of Everett and all applicants were sent to these temporary camps.

As the dawn broke over the fire-swept city the fright of the night previous which had overcome the populace disappeared. Parents roamed the streets searching for lost children. The schoolhouses of the city, as well as those of the neighboring cities and towns, were filled with lost children, and scores of parents went from one to another, growing more alarmed as each was visited and no tidings of missing children were found. At 8 o'clock the first bread lines were started, those refugees on the lower side of the burned district being served at the district courthouse, while those on the upper section were issued rations from the High School building. The lines were regulated by the militia.

Rain Adds to Misery.

A chill wind and a light fall of snow, which later turned into a cold rain, added to the misery of the homeless ones who shivered in the shelter camps in the public squares and playgrounds. Early this forenoon the battalion of marines which had been doing guard duty throughout the night was ordered back to the barracks at the Charleston Navy-Yard, and the work of preserving order and protecting property was continued by the police and the militia.

During the course of the fire yesterday several babies were born, and in each instance mother and child had to be removed to places of refuge, as their houses were directly in the path of the fire and later destroyed. The mothers and children were all reported today in satisfactory condition.

A special meeting of the Chelsea Board of Aldermen was held this forenoon, at which an order was introduced asking the Legislature for authority to borrow $500,000 to reconstruct the public buildings that were destroyed. The order was referred to the committee on public property and finance, and the committee also ordered to increase the amount to $1,000,000 if necessary.

Announcement was made that the city records, which were in the City Hall vaults, were intact. An examination of the vaults of the Chelsea Trust Company, the County Savings Bank and the Chelsea Savings Banks indicated that the contents were uninjured. Following this announcement the directors of the three institutions voted to consolidate temporarily.

While prompt measures for caring for the homeless were being taken, scores of physicians, nurses and volunteer workers were attending to the injured. The Chelsea police station was turned into a temporary hospital and many sufferers were brought there and treated temporarily. Later they were sent to the naval hospital and the marine hospital, both of which were packed the limit of their capacity from this source and to the influx of patients from the two other hospitals which were burned.

Fifty Babies Lost by Mothers.

During the afternoon and evening over 50 unidentified babies who have been picked up by the police, firemen and citizens, were taken to the police station. They ranged in age from 2 months to 5 years. A boy brought in a baby less than six months old that he had picked up in the gutter. A woman brought a pair of boy twins, not more than a year old. She said that a frantic mother had thrust the babies into her arms as she stood on the street saying:

"Here, hold these, I've got to get the others." What became of the mother had not been ascertained at an early hour today.

Some of the derelict infants were taken away during the night by relatives, but others remained still unclaimed today. Among the women taken to the hospitals in ambulances were two who became mothers after the fire started.

The liquor licenses in East Boston and that part of Charleston adjoining Chelsea were suspended today by order of the Police Commissioner, as an aid to the military and police in their efforts to bring about a condition of order and safety.

Roosevelt Offers National Aid.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Roosevelt has sent a telegraphic message of sympathy to the Mayor of Chelsea, Mass., at the same time offering any necessary assistance from the Army or Navy for the stricken city. Similar assistance was extended during the Baltimore fire and at other disasters.

Both the War and Navy Departments will render any assistance possible to the fire sufferers at Chelsea upon authorization by the President.

The Red Cross, Massachusetts branch, is relieving pressing cases, and if National aid is requested the general organization will devise means of assistance.

Hal Danzig has Chase's handle, if nothing else.

A well-balanced hitting team like Portland should not trail behind very long.

Judge McCredie grinned for the first time when the gladsome news reached Vancouver Saturday.

Manager Armour, of Toledo, and Eddie Quinn, of Spokane, have posted bans against the merry widow hats. The poor girls.

* * *

Walter McCredie may be requested to do the same, for Portland fans have no more appreciation for fancy millinery at ball games than the fans of Toledo or Spokane.

* * *

Merry widow hats are quite attractive when worn on the street, but if one of them interrupts your line of vision just as a star play was being pulled off, some unladylike remarks are quite likely to eminate from the average fan.

* * *

Umpires, as a rule, are the most docile creatures, but one, Charles Harris, of Birmingham, Ala., has violated all precedent by filing suit for $5000 damages against Harry Steinfeldt and Del Howard, of the Chicago National League, because they assaulted him in a game. This is the first time on record that an umpire was damaged by anything said about or thrown at him. Harris is in line for a Carnegie medal.

George Engle, who, once upon a time, enjoyed the favor of the Portland fans, fair and otherwise, has signed with the Vancouver team in the Northwestern League. "Yats" put in the past Winter tending bar at Tacoma, and was anxious to get a berth in the Pacific Coast League, but all the managers shied at him.

This man Melchoir, of the San Francisco team, seems to be the legitimate successor of "Rip" Egan in the matter of home-run hitting. He has ripped off two already and in addition to the long clouts has enough of other varieties to his credit to entitle him to the swatting honors at this stage of the game. If he can keep up the present lick, he will not have to beg for a job with the big fellows.

* * *

If Oakland, which sizes up as the weakest hitting bunch in the league, can break even with the "Seraphs," on their own lot, Portland, with her sluggers, should follow suit. At any rate, let us hope that we get enough games to show an increase of material size in the percentage column to warrant a goodly quantity of enthusiasm.

BY W. J. PETRAIN.

The American and National Leagues will inaugurate the baseball season in the East today, and fandom at large throughout the country is awaiting the result of the opening games with almost as much interest as though it were the commencement of the world's series.

The dopesters of the big Eastern cities have, as usual, spread all sorts of encouraging reports as to the championship possibilities of each respective team, and while many of these are likely to be disproven within the next four or five weeks, the general outlook portends a better National League race, and a repetition of the past few seasons in the American League.

The latter league has succeeded in furnishing the classier quality of baseball, for each year a contest is witnessed between three to five clubs that has the fans going all over the circuit, while in the older league the race has been a cinch after the month of July for either New York or Chicago, for five years, and therefore, much of the interest attached to that organization is lost, in view of the splendid struggle between the rival leagues.

This year, however, it appears that Chicago's National League team, while practically assured of another victory, will not have as easy a time as during the past two seasons. Several important deals, embracing the exchanging and purchasing of players, has bolstered up weak clubs to such an extent that the "Cubs" will find harder game at increasing their percentage than in the two previous races for the National League flag. Joe Kelley has been enrolled as helmsman for the hitherto Boston National League "Jokes," and Eastern experts believe that the acquisition of Dan McGann, Bill Dahlen and Frank Bowerman will round out the Beaneaters to such an extent that they will land in the first division this year for the first time in several years.

Some fans are inclined to think that McGraw weakened the New York team by the exchange of McGann, Dahlen, Bowerman and Ferguson for the Boston trio, Tenney, Bridwell and Needham, but if he has, the work of the Giants will soon demonstrate it. Fred Tenney is a much more valuable first sacker than is McGann, yet the latter is not all in, by far. Tenney and McGann have been stars in the major league for years, and the former has always had the better batting and fielding record, but as each player was more or less dissatisfied with their former berths, it is reasonable to presume that the change will prove beneficial to both teams. Philadelphia in the National League, presents the same strong array of talent with which it finished third last year, and the Quaker City fans are expecting even better work from the team this season. Brooklyn and Cincinnati are both stronger than last year, for the reason that the youngsters broke in several years ago, are ripened veterans now and capable of giving as good an account of themselves as were their more experienced rivals of last year and the years previous.

Pittsburg is the team that received the hardest jolt of any team in either league. Hans Wagner, the main dependence of Barney Dreyfus, has announced his retirement from the game, and if he lives up to his determination, it means the elimination of the Pirates from a position as a contender, and, therefore, helps the chances of the clubs immensely, for Pittsburg has been in the habit of holding the Cubs safe when all the other clubs in the league fell before their prowess. Wagner's loss will not only affect the Pittsburg club, but the entire league, for a player of his prominence is a drawing card of the premier quality, and "bugs" who attend the games to see him in action, will stay away or attend the American League games, in order to see Napoleon Lajoie, Wagner's compeer in the matter of diamond greatness. "Honest" John McCloskey and his St. Louis "jokes" will make a strong bid to keep clear of the cellar, but with small hope of being successful. Some day St. Louis will have a team in the National League, but just when this will occur, cannot be foretold.

The American League race promises to be as exciting and, if anything, more interesting than last year. The four contending clubs who fought it out during the last two weeks of last season will have at least two formidable rivals in the field this season. The struggle for supremacy between Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago and Cleveland last Summer will long be remembered by the fans of the country, and the quartet will furnish an equally interesting battle this year, but Boston and New York will swing to the front and center and may give any of the four a run for the money.

Then, on top of all this, there remains McAleer's St. Louis Browns to figure upon, for, with the veteran Rube Waddell and "Dusty" Rhodes added to the pitching staff, they figure to give some teams trouble. This is contingent to a great extent on McAleer's ability to control the erratic Waddell. Connie Mack held the "Rube" for four years and during that time was seldom able to announce him as the twirler on the next day, for Waddell was apt to be absent for a week or two, whenever the spirit, or more properly speaking, "the spirits," moved him. At any rate, if Waddell is right, he will give the other American League clubs some little worriment. Washington, while possessed of a strengthened team, is not likely to prove a first division club, but can be expected to show to better advantage than last year.

KELLY WILL TRY ONCE MORE

Oregon Sprinter to Be Trained by Mike Murphy.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Special.)—It would seem after the many criticisms he has received since he came East that Dan Kelly, the world's record sprinter at 100 and 220 yards, would about have to give up all hope of living up to the reputation which preceded him from the West. He still believes, however, that he can make good and will make one more effort to do so before abandoning the track and confining himself to the broad jump, and to this end has decided to quit New York in favor of Philadelphia.

He will make that city his home about May 1. There he will place himself in Mike Murphy's hands and train daily under the University of Pennsylvania mentor's direction at Franklin Field.

TROUBLE CEASED

When Proper Food was Found.

Good news benefits both parties—the teller and the one to whom the glad story is told.

A man out in Dakota told another man how he had been set on his feet, as it were, by a good doctor who knew how to treat stomach cases in a really scientific way—by the use of proper food.

"About five years ago," writes the man, "I was suffering from dyspepsia, gas in the stomach, and I was on the verge of nervous prostration when I met a man who told me how he had been relieved of a similar trouble.

"He had suffered with stomach trouble for years as a result of eating improper food. He was at the time I write, doing the work of an ordinary laborer and said he never felt so well.

"His doctor had emptied the stomach and then prescribed nothing but Grape-Nuts, soft-boiled eggs and dry toast. He got well under this treatment. I followed his advice and lived on Grape-Nuts with cream, fruit and toast for a month. My trouble ceased almost immediately.

"The strengthening effect on my nerves was so gradual I can't just tell when I began to improve, but in a few weeks I could sit contentedly for hours whereas before I was restless and nervous. In a month or two I could sleep the moment I lay down.

"When my little boy was a year and a half old he had a bad attack of indigestion while I was away from home. He vomited four days and nights. I had never seen Grape-Nuts recommended for babies but I decided I would try it. I warmed and softened the food in water that had been boiled, 2 teaspoonfuls water, 3 teaspoonfuls rich milk.

"As his stomach got better I left out the water and used only warm milk. He is now a strong, active child of two years and eats Grape-Nuts three times a day." "There's a Reason."
