EUGENE EN FETE

Music Festival Successfully Inaugurated.

CHORUS IS WELL DRILLED

Renders Numbers With Good Attack and Splendid Enunciation—Soloists Please With Work—Professor Glen Deserves Credit.

BY J. M. QUENTIN.

EUGENE, Or., April 14.—(Staff Correspondence.)—Flags brighten the street and the town is jammed with visitors in honor of the Eugene music festival, given at Villard Hall by the Eugene Oratorio Society, assisted by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

The musical feast began tonight in the presentation of Gaul's sacred cantata, "The Holy City," and will be continued tomorrow afternoon by an orchestral concert, concluding in the evening with a rendition of Dudley Buck's "Golden Legend."

The Eugene Oratorio Society consists entirely of students an dmembers of the faculty of the University of Oregon and resident of Eugene. Professor Irving M. Glen is festival director, and Herr Rosenbecker directs the symphony orchestra. Women singers in the Oratorio Society nearly outnumber the tenors and basses by two to one, but curiously enough the balancing of the parts leaves nothing to be complained of, and the ensemble effects are remarkably good.

The chorus voices are young and fresh, and the singing marked by crispness and delightfully clear enunciation. I have rarely heard a chorus speak so distinctly, and the rules of dramatic expression are faithfully observed. Gaul's "Holy City" was grandly interpreted, and the solos were acceptably sung by the artists accompanying the symphony orchestra, Genevieve Clark Wilson, soprano; Rose Lutiger Gannon, contralto; John B. Miller, tenor, and Arthur Middleton, basso cantante.

Professor Glen has drilled the chorus with exceptional ability, and tonight he demonstrated that he is at home leading both chorus and orchestra. The favorite selection was the bass solo, "A New Heaven and a New Earth," with choral Sanctus. The harp accompaniment of Signor Giuseppi Dell Aquila, on his $1175 harp, was much admired. I wish to express special appreciation of the really artistic work done by a semi-chorus, consisting of these singers: Sopranos, Mrs. C. B. Willoughby, Mrs. Pope, Mrs. L. H. Johnson, Mrs. N. J. Hill, Mrs. Woodruff and Misses Cross, Simmington, Gilbert, Neal, Hayes and Prosser; contraltos, Mrs. Linn and Misses Yoran, Campbell, Prescott, McCallum and Zimmerman; tenors, R. Steelquist, S. Dunn, B. Prescott, F. Burke, M. McClain and C. Downs; and basses, W. B. Neal, S. Davidson, D. Lewis, H. Davies, H. Rounds, V. Cooper and M. Ogden. Misses Yoran and Simmerman also sang special numbers. The orchestral numbers were Weber's overture from "Der Freischuetz" and the Rubenstein "Melody in F." The attendance was large.

Alfred Robert Gaul, who composed "The Holy City," was born at Norwich, England, April 30, 1837, and in early life achieved fame as a church organist. In 1863 he took the degree of Mus. Bac. at Cambridge University. His musical compositions are well liked, because of their melodious beauty, and the list includes "Hezekiah," oratorio, 1861; "Ruth," sacred cantata, 1881; "The Holy City," Gaul's most popular work, sung at the Birmingham Music Festival, 1883; "Joan of Arc," rendered by the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, 1887; "The Ten Virgins," 1890; "Israel in the Wilderness," Crystal Palace, London, 1893, and "Una," Norwich festival, 1893. Gaul has also composed many well-known hymns and part-songs.

MARION WARMS TO THE ISSUES

Closing Days of Primary Campaign to Be Full of Ginger.

SALEM, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—The last days of the primary campaign in Marion County promise to be exceedingly warm, for much feeling has been aroused and great interest is being manifested. H. M. Cake, the Statement No. 1 candidate for Senator, will deliver an address here Wednesday night and the Statement No. 1 candidates for the Legislature will hold a meeting at Silverton for the express purpose of "Making things hot for L. J. Adams," who was chairman of the Republican convention in which it was declared that "No Statement No. 1 man shall go to the Legislature or to the state convention." On Thursday night a closing rally will be held in the Opera-House in Salem, at which all candidates will be given a chance to speak if they desire.

Aside from the legislative fight, the only other local contest is that for County Judge, but from present appearances this contest has concentrated all the ferocity usually distributed over a campaign involving all the offices. Though the office of County Judge pays a salary of only $1200, the fight for it is red-hot, and the most sensational charges are being made by and against candidates.

YIELDS TO CONSCIENCE TWINGE

Clackamas County Farmer Decides He Broke the Engagement.

SALEM, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—R. A. Stewart, the wealthy Clackamas County farmer, against whom Mrs. C. A. Wells secured a $1500 judgment in a breach of promise suit last week, has gone the jury one better. Since the case was decided he has deeded her a brick block in Woodburn worth $4500. At the trial of the case, Mr. Stewart contende dthat Mrs. Wells broke their engagement by insisting that he must deed her that brick block before the marriage could take place. Stewart refused to execute the deed and later married another woman. Mrs. Wells brought suit for $6000 damages, and the jury awarded her $1500. Stewart evidently came to the conclusion that the jury was right about his having broken the engagement, for he voluntarily multiplied the judgment by 3.

POLICE COURT MAY TRY CASE

Decision Affecting Trial of Liquor Cases at Aberdeen.

ABERDEEN, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—Judge Irwin has announced his decision sustaining the demurrer to the petition of O. C. Vammen for a writ of prohibition against F. W. Loomis as Police Judge of the City of Aberdeen. Two cases are pending against O. C. Vammen in the Police Court in each of which he is accused of selling intoxicants on Sunday, and Judge Loomis overruled a motion for a change of venue. Vammen then sought a writ of the Superior Court prohibiting the Police Court from proceeding in the cases other than to grant the change of venue and on its denial an appeal will now be taken to the Supreme Court. The object is to test the validity of the law of 1907, which created this court with extensive powers.

EXPENSES OF THE COUNTIES

Cost $1,422,475.46 to Run the State in 1907.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

Ruling as to Real Estate Commissions—Other Decisions.

SALEM, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—Decisions were handed down by the Supreme Court today in five appealed cases. One of the most important decisions is that in which the court lays down a rule governing the right of real estate dealers to commission in certain transactions.

Bruce Wolverton, et al, respondents, vs. George Tuttle and Mary Tuttle, appellants, from Multnomah County, Arthur L. Fraser, judge; reversed and remanded; opinion by Commissioner King.

Wolverton and his associates were real estate dealers and induced John Manning and L. H. Tarpley to purchase a piece of property in Portland belonging to George and Mary Tuttle. They had no previous arrangement with Tuttle, but after finding the purchaser went to Tuttle for a price and the latter said he would take not less than $20,000 net. Manning and Tarpley would pay not more than $20,000. The sale was completed and the real estate firm brought suit for the commission, $530, for which they secured judgment against the Tuttles, who appealed. The Supreme Court holds that the testimony for plaintiffs shows that the real estate firm could not have been entitled to a commission unless the price secured was more than $20,000, hence the firm acted at their own peril in bringing buyer and seller together without an understanding respecting payment of commission.

Seth Riggs, appellant, vs. The County of Polk and J. M. Grant, Sheriff, appellant, vs. William Galloway, judge; reversed and remanded; opinion by Commissioner Slater.

It is held in this case that the office of chairman of a school board is a distinct office and a notice of special school meeting for the purpose of levying a tax must be signed by the chairman of the board and not by a member who may have acted as chairman pro tem. Justice Moore dissents, saying that the office of chairman of the board is only temporary, being called into existence when the school board is legally assembled and continued until the business considered at such meeting has been fully discharged, altered or countermanded at a subsequent meeting. Hence, in his opinion, the director who legally acted as chairman of the meeting was the only person authorized to issue the required notice.

Caldwell Banking & Trust Company, respondents, vs. Porter, Jones & Test, defendants, and First National Bank of Ontario, garnishee and appellant, from Malheur County, George E. Davis, judge, officiating; opinion by Chief Justice Bean.

Sarah A. Merrill, appellant, vs. Hexter & Strauss, respondents, from Multnomah County, A. L. Frazer, judge, affirmed; opinion by Justice Moore.

Sweeney to Sell Bank Stock.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—A deal is pending between Patrick Welsh, of the firm of contractors of P. Welsh & Co., and Charles Sweeney, veteran mine operator and banker of Spokane, for the stock owned by the latter in the Exchange National Bank of Spokane. The deal involves approximately $1,000,000.

CONVICTS ARE MADE HAPPY

Pardon Board Recommends Liberty for 47 Out of 100 Cases.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—The State Board of Pardons today recommended liberty in the cases of 47 prisoners and will ask Governor Mead to grant clemency as the different cases seem to warrant. Over 100 cases were presented to the Board. The Board asks the final release for 17, conditional release for three and parole for 23. Spokane County prisoners to the number of ten are favored, Ida Salters, the only woman whose case was acted on, being among the lucky prize-winners. William A. Royce, William McCaul and John Brown are finally released. Robert Ingalls is given conditional freedom, and James Fleming, Charles Johnson, Leroy Rambaugh, Ida Salters and Brigham W. Young are favored with paroles.

Other final releases are: King County—E. F. Broucke, Harry H. Price, John Corvitch, Sidney Deacon, John Bruno. Lincoln County—Thomas Smith. Whatcom County—James McGrany. Chelan County—J. W. Penfield. Asotin County—Lewis Eddy. Kittitas County—J. T. Wilson. Pierce County—C. D. Emory. Thurston County—John Cronic.

Paroles granted: Adams County—Charles Burroughs. Chehalis County—W. H. Harrington. Walla Walla County—Clinton Buchanan. Whatcom County—William Donnelly. Yakima County—Clyde H. Duel. Okanogan County—H. L. Davis. Garfield County—Harry Haynes. King County—George S. Johnson, Robert McCarthy, Reno Marshall, Ben Williams, H. Yamoda. Lincoln County—Robert Lloyd. Pacific County—A. G. McDermott. Ferry County—Randall J. Rodgers. Skagit County—J. S. Snethen. Snohomish County—Arthur Waddell. Douglas County—John Dodson.

Releases from paroles are granted to Paul Salvus, Manuel Douett, O. O. Forsyth, John Massam. Conditional release to O. A. Martiny, physician, Pierce County; James McGauran, King County; Robert Ingalls, Spokane County.

DEAD OF THE NORTHWEST

Mrs. Tennie L. Taft.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Tennie L. Taft, who died April 9, was the wife of Dr. C. J. Taft, a pioneer physician and drug dealer of North Yakima. She was born at Butler, Yates County, Missouri, October 3, 1849. She was in her 59th year at the time of her death. She was the daughter of Joseph and Nancy Milton Laidy, who moved from Butler to the Oregon country in 1853, arriving at Fort Vancouver October 1 of that year. The journey from Missouri to Oregon was not unlike the many trips taken by the pioneers. The usual hardships, trials and tribulations common to those who crossed the plains years ago were theirs. Mrs. Taft grew to womanhood in the Oregon country. Her life was one among stirring scenes common to pioneer days in a country ruled by hostile Indians. On one occasion she, with other members of her family, narrowly escaped massacre from the Indians who continually threatened the struggling whites.

In June, 1869, Mrs. Taft was married to Dr. Taft at Umatilla, Or., where the doctor was engaged in his practice. He also owned a drug store at that place. The two resided in Umatilla until 1871, when they moved to Walla Walla, Wash., remaining in that city until the Spring of 1878, when they again moved, this time settling in Yakima City. With the advent of the railroad to this valley Mr. and Mrs. Taft, with their son Volney, moved to North Yakima. They have resided here since that time.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Taft leaves to mourn her death one son, Volney Taft; three sisters and one brother—Mrs. James Jameson and Mrs. Candear Files, of Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. A. A. Dealy and J. M. Laidy, of Baker City, Or.

Mrs. Taft was a woman of great force of character, energetic, enterprising and charitable. Her hosts of friends deeply loved and honored her. She will long be remembered by the old-timers of the Yakima Valley as being one of the brave and noble women who withstood the trials and perils of Yakima Valley early days.

TACOMA'S NEW MAYOR STRONG FOR PEACE.

TACOMA, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—Rolling on the sidewalk in front of the Olympic Club saloon this noon a bartender was tangled with a drunken sailor to the great amusement of a fast gathering crowd. A few moments later the door of the Olympic Club barber shop flew open and Mayor-elect Linck appeared wreathed in the flapping folds of a barber's bib. The Judge had been occupying a barber's chair when the fight began. His coat was off and the barber had finished shaving one side of his face.

Bursting through the crowd he called upon the fighters to stop, but the men fought all the harder. Grasping one by the collar he jolted him away and spectators gathered around and kept the men separated. The bartender went back to work. The Judge went back to his barber chair and the drunken sailor was marched off to the station.

Mrs. Ella Logan.

GRANTS PASS, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ella Logan, who died at Waldo, in the southern part of the county, was born October 20, 1861, and had lived here from her childhood. She was the wife of County Commissioner Logan. The funeral services were held in the Methodist Church and burial in the Masonic Cemetery.

LIGHT FINGERS ON NEW FRIEND

Seattle Spirit Evidently Not That of Good Samaritan.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 14.—(Special.)—A drunk cost William Warren, a commercial traveler, $490 in cash, a gold watch and a check for $600, according to the story he told the police this morning. Warren was very drunk last night, and when a young man met him on the street and offered to put him to bed, he accepted the invitation. His new acquaintance took him to a hotel, put him to bed and then got into bed with him. It was nearly noon today when Warren awoke and found himself alone. His money and watch were gone.

Another Convict Caught.

SALEM, Or., April 14.—(Special.)—Ed Boyd, one of the convicts who escaped last Sunday night, was captured at Albany last night and was returned to the penitentiary this morning. He was still wearing his prison uniform, a suit of gray. Stripes are no longer worn.

CEMETERY FOR PET DOGS

Graves Marked With Headstones Near Fine Summer Home.

New York Telegram.

Just within sight of the drawing-room windows of Mrs. James Speyer's delightful Summer home at Scarboro-on-the Hudson, possibly 300 yards from the house, lies a cluster of tiny graves. Each is marked with a handsome white marble tombstone upon which is severally inscribed the names of the departed, the dates of their deaths and in some cases the time when they were born.

Upon one is engraved "Jimmie, born 1885, died 1898"; upon another, "Petie, died June, 1906"; "Lohengrin, died 1901"; "Shamrock, born August, 1900, died, 1906," and so on throughout the list. It is by no means a family burying ground, as one at first glance might imagine, but a dog cemetery in which are laid away the bodies of Mrs. Speyer's canine pets who, having served their years of usefulness on this mundane sphere, have passed on to the happy hunting grounds where departed dogs enjoy the fruits of their faithful devotion to friends on earth.

It is not inclosed, but the little reservation enjoys precisely the same care and attention as that given any other part of the big estate, and it is Mrs. Speyer's pleasure to decorate the graves of the pets, of whom she was so fond, with flowers and plants.

In her city home at 257 Madison avenue, by far the most important member of the household as each one cheerfully agrees is "Wu Ting Fang," Mrs. Speyer's $1000 Chinese Chow dog, which she imported from England. "Wu," or "Fang," as he is pretty generally called, is really possessed of royal ancestry, for members of his family are owned in the homes of royalty. "Fang" is an aristocrat. He not only receives quite as much attention as any child of wealth and high position, but what is more he expects it, and makes the worst sort of a fuss if he doesn't get it.

He has a maid at his disposal who practically devotes her entire time to his care. He sleeps on a rich and handsome blanket at the foot of the maid's bed and his care and grooming are not to be equaled by the most pampered pet of fashion.

Once a month he is regularly shampooed, submitting to the process with as much complacency as any young woman of fashion. "Fang" is a pretty healthy canine, but frequently he gets temporarily out of sorts, and then he is taken to a veterinarian or the latter comes to him and he is treated for his life on scientific principles and the fee for his physician's visit is fully as high as would be charged by any high-class doctor to his human patients.

Fresh air is quite important to "Fang's" health, and every morning he goes with the maid for a walk in the park, while every afternoon regularly, whether any other member of the family goes out or not, "Fang" rides for a couple of hours in the motor car. He sits up in the back seat with all the air of a prince of royal blood and he is devotedly fond of motoring.

Moreover, he can pick out the Speyer cars from a score or more, and if the car comes along while he is taking his walk he stops short and no amount of persuasion will induce him to take another step. Ride he will and the maid must put him aboard. Like any well-regulated automobilist, he is supplied with a complete outfit for the sport and when driving in the open car wears his goggles, chest protector, sweater, etc. Should the weather be raw, cold and the walks wet, then for walking he is garbed in a leather, felt-lined blanket with gold mountings, and upon his royal feet he wears shoes to match. If his mistress is devoted to "Fang" the latter repays her devotion in kind. He knows her ring at the door and will pay attention to no other.

Mrs. Speyer, like John Haynes, former president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is an advocate of burial places for pets. Mrs. Speyer feels that the careless tossing aside of the bodies of faithful animal friends tends to lower the standard of regard toward dumb animals.

Besides the graves of her dead pets of Scarboro, Mrs. Speyer has some eight or ten very live dogs on the place of which she is tremendously fond, and her Summers there are largely spent in taking long tramps with her dumb friends or driving about with the whole pack in her trail.

HONORS AN ENGLISH GIRL

Vassar College Elects Foreigner the President of Juniors.

New York Telegram.

Vassar girls held enthusiastic meetings at the college, Poughkeepsie, recently, for the purpose of electing class officers for the next semester. It was a day of bustle and fun for all the classes, despite the fact that examination time was near at hand.

What is regarded as the most interesting feature of the day was the election of Miss Inez Milholland as president of the class of 1909. Miss Milholland's home is in London, and she and her sister Vida have crossed the sea to attend Vassar College. Since her election, Thursday, this English girl has the distinction of being the first foreign student to hold a class presidency at Vassar.

Miss Milholland is a deservedly universal favorite at college, being possessed of all the qualities essential to popularity. She has been an active worker in every field of college life, and has been foremost in promoting the interests of her class. Consequently, her classmates are celebrating the event of her election.

The Juniors, singing gaily, filed across the campus to North Hall, and gathering beneath the window of their president, serenaded her with songs and cheers. Miss Milholland appeared at her window and made a charming little address to her classmates below, telling them of her appreciation of the high honor conferred upon her and paying a high tribute to Miss Cora Edgecomb, the retiring president.

The freshmen had by this time joined the happy crowd, and they too had a catchy song to sing in honor of the president of their sister class.

Miss Milholland is a young woman of striking personality. She is tall and graceful, with a face of refined beauty, shaded by a mass of wavy black hair. Her manner is naturally winning, and she creates an atmosphere of good humor wherever she goes. She is an apt student and a leader in athletic circles, being captain of the 1908 hockey team, but perhaps her greatest prominence in college has come from her dramatic talents.

In her freshman year Miss Milholland took the part of Romeo in Shakespeare's tragedy, which was presented as the Fourth Hall play in May, 1906. For a freshman to assume a leading part in a hall play is considered a great privilege, and Miss Milholland was the heroine of the day. Since then she has appeared in "In a Balcony," and other dramatic productions at Vassar. When acting Miss Milholland puts her whole soul into her work, and displays the grace and strength of a finished artist. Her stage appearance and her rich voice cause her fellow-students to fall in love with her when she appears in masculine parts, which are her forte.

A VILE TASTING POISON

can be generated by adding hot water to that part of the coffee berry which you have always bought ground up with your coffee. This part is what we have extracted by special machinery and discarded from the best coffee obtainable, leaving, after we have thus perfected it, our special

PURI-TAN-ATED BRAND COFFEE

Formerly called "DE-TAN-ATED" COFFEE

Anyone can drink this with impunity. All coffee lovers realize it is the finest tasting coffee that they have ever encountered. Thrifty housewives appreciate it because one pound goes one-fifth further than any other brand. There are many other reasons why this coffee is preeminently the most satisfactory brand procurable anywhere today.

Have You a Summer Stove?

The stifling air of a close kitchen is changed to comfortable coolness by installing a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove to do the family cooking.

No kitchen furnishing is so convenient as this stove. Gives a working heat at once, and maintains it until turned out—that too, without overheating the room. If you examine the

NEW PERFECTION

you will see why this is so. The heat from the chimney of the "New Perfection" is concentrated under the kettle and not dissipated through the room by radiation. Thus it does the work of the coal range without its discomfort. Ask your dealer about this stove—if not with him, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp is a very handsome piece of housefurnishing and gives a clear, powerful light more agreeable than gas or electricity. Safe everywhere and always. Made of brass finely nickel plated—just the thing for the living-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.
