LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 15.—(Special.)—Timely swats by Bassey and another defeat for Los Angeles were the features of today's game with Portland. Brashear made the first home run of the season with a long fly to center field that bounded over the fence. Good pitching by Pinnacle was the cause of the locals being skinned. He had but one bad inning, in which Los Angeles made all its runs, and up to that time sixth but one hit had been made off him.

Oakes started the sixth with a swipe to left, and a moment later Brashear hit his long fly. Smith followed with a single, stole second and scored on Ellis' hit and Delmas' sacrifice.

Portland made its first two runs on Smith's walk and Delmas' sacrifice grounder. McCredie's sacrifice triple and Bassey's single to center. The next came on Johnson's double to center, Cooney's sacrifice, and Bassey's single, and the final run resulted from Danzig's single, Johnson's sacrifice, Cooney's out and Bassey's double.

About 10:30 fans saw the game, which was very fast.

San Francisco at Last Wits, 4 to 3, on Oakland's Errors.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Notwithstanding the fact that Hogan rapped out a home run for Oakland, the San Francisco team annexed another game today by a score of 4 to 3. It required 17 innings to obtain that result, however, and from the beginning of the fifth, when both teams had three strikes, to the last half of the seventeenth, when San Francisco again scored. Critical errors lost the game for Oakland.

DR. ROLLER IS THE WINNER

Defeats Tacoma Wrestler in Two Straight Falls.

BY WILL G. MAC KAE.

It was merely an exercise romp for Dr. R. F. Roller, Seattle wrestler, to defeat Victor McLagen in two straight falls last night at the Helix Theater. The bout, while it lasted, was worth looking at, but the quick finish that Dr. Roller put on the match failed to satisfy some of the crowd, who felt that a little over ten minutes of action was hardly proportionate compensation for their deposit with the box office man. McLagen may have pugilistic ambitions and judging from his size and physical construction, he may develop into a biffer of some class, but as a wrestler, well, perhaps it's a good thing that he decided before last night's match that it would be his last performance on the mat. As a wrestler he was hopelessly outclassed by Dr. Roller.

It was the Seattle man's first appearance in Portland since he became a professional. He had little opportunity to show just what he could do, because he was not called upon to extend himself. Yet what he did was done in a finished manner. Dr. Roller may never be able to take the championship from Frank Gotch, but one thing is sure, there are not many big fellows between the Seattle physician and Gotch that have anything on him. He is strong and willing, the type of a hustling wrestler that is not many days from becoming a professional. He seems to know every trick of the game and is lightning quick to take advantage of any opening.

It was 5 o'clock before Dr. W. G. Woodruff, who refereed the bout got the motion picture camera men began working without adding. Roller threw McLagen after a minute and a half of grappling and at once Roller assumed the aggressive. Roller threw McLagen with a flying move. The Tacoma man hit the floor with a thud that jarred the building. Roller would have won the first fall right there, but he missed his mark. Then followed some very hard work and several times McLagen was able to get out of some tight places. Finally Roller worked his man into a double hammerlock and won the fall in 7 minutes and 25 seconds.

After a ten-minute rest, they were sent together again. McLagen was through. His steam was gone. Roller for a leg hold, but Roller slipped over him, and with an inside croch threw his man to the mat. Then he used a Gotch hold and in a second McLagen groaned in agony. Letting go this hold, Roller worked into a leg Nelson and then into a double-body hold. Once also Roller got a half Nelson and a hammerlock. Roller was seen to let this slip and he explained in his dressing room that he was let go because he was sure of winning and did not want to break his opponent's arm.

Roller's best bout began "Strangler" Smith was on hand and challenged the winner. Smith is confident he can beat Roller with the strangle hold and his friends are trying to raise the $1000 side bet demanded by Roller for the fight. The challenger and host before his match that if Smith wanted to bet $1000 he would take him on instead of McLagen. If the match is made it will be pulled off early in May.

Chit-Chat of the Sporting World.

BY WILL G. MAC KAE.

ONCE more it's safe for us to venture around the corners where they smoke hemp and hold fanning bees. It ever there was such a thing as a human weathercock the baseball bug is it. When the team was losing they were a bunch of muck, now that they've won a game or two they are stars.

McCredie left Pitchers Harmon and Bloomfield behind when he went to Los Angeles. Both should be in great form to hook up with Oakland next week.

There were more downright brutality in that Getch-Hackenschmidt wrestling match than you would see in a dozen fights. Yet the Chicago authorities, like a few we've got at home, allow wrestling and put the hit on boxing.

It has cost New York $100,000 for its grand opera. No wonder that the best rich have advertised their yachts for sale.

A Detroit ballplayer is suing his wife because she refused to put a porous plaster on his back. He would have a better case if he had charged her with pulling one off without soaking it.

Ben Melchior, the Seal right fielder, is out after Truck Egan's record for lining back hitting. He is stung one of Tex Garrett's twisters for a homer Sunday.

It is no longer the Battling Dan. Nelson has been fighting with Gans and now the San Francisco fight-fans call him the vaunting Dan.

PUBLIC MORGUE JOKER

CITY ATTORNEY SAYS CORONER CANNOT ESTABLISH ONE.

Three Candidates for Coroner Have Promised Such an Institution if Elected.

During the recent primary campaign one of the warmest fights for nomination has been waged between the five candidates for the office of coroner. One of these candidates, Dr. Ben L. Norden has repeatedly argued, in the campaign meetings, that it is not within the power of a coroner to establish a public morgue, and while he favors such an institution, he has not promised to establish one, knowing that he cannot, after election, make his promise good.

Yesterday morning Dr. Norden requested an opinion from the City Attorney. The opinion follows:

Portland, April 15.—Dr. Ben L. Norden, coroner-elect, has requested an opinion from the City Attorney as to whether the laws of the State of Oregon, or the charter of the City of Portland, contain any provision concerning the establishment of a public morgue, and while he favors such an institution, he has not promised to establish one, knowing that he cannot, after election, make his promise good.

Canby Team Ready.

CANBY, Or., April 15.—(Special.)—The Canby Baseball Club held its annual meeting last night and elected W. H. Lucke manager, George Meeks, assistant manager; J. L. Eckerson, treasurer, and Claude Haty, captain. The opening game will be next Sunday when the "Canbians" of Portland will be here. Canby has usually had a strong amateur team and the fans here are sure that this year will be up to the old mark.

In a game that was full of errors and every kind of a misplay known or even dreamed of, the Columbia University lads defeated the Portland Academy baseball team by the score of 15 to 14.

Through the full nine innings the lilo ebbed and flowed. First Columbia was in the lead and then the youngsters wearing the white and yellow would pull up in front.

Slugging the ball, errors and a free-for-all fight for possession of the Portland Academy flag that was snatched from the big flag pole furnished the afternoon's entertainment. There was not a minute when there wasn't something doing, all the way around the field. The game started in the first inning, when Columbia chased seven runs home. Portland Academy came right back and landed six, so there was joy for all.

In the fourth inning the big thing happened. A lot of near-gentlemanly students, a mixture of the East and West Side High School students, with a generous sprinkling of Hill Military lads, rushed on the field and lowered the Portland Academy flag. This was

GIRL SAVES MOTHER FROM ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

TACOMA, Wash., April 15.—(Special.)—Crawling through a window of her home after finding her mother locked up, a frightened girl, Miss Crystal Taber found her mother lying on the kitchen floor at the point of death with a gas jet over her head. The frightened girl hastily notified the neighbors and several doctors were summoned, who, after working for several hours, finally revived the suffering woman. All indications point to an attempted suicide, but no cause for such an act on the part of Mrs. Taber is known. Death was so near at the time the daughter arrived that another 15 minutes would probably have been too late. Mrs. Taber is the wife of Sumner S. Taber, a well-known lumberman.

FIND LOBBY'S SECRET CODE

ROSS RING SENT MESSAGES IN CIPHER.

Used List of Terms for Banking Bills and Members of the 1907 Legislature.

The secret code, in which the Salem lobby of the defunct Ross bank wired messages about progress of legislation in the course of the 1907 Legislative session, has been discovered by the probers of the Title Guaranty & Trust Bank.

In this code messages were sent to Ross, John Kotlock and C. B. Atchison. "Nonesuch" meant House bill and "Nautical" meant Senate bill. "Jocular nautical" meant Senator Haines banking bill. Many messages were exchanged with Ross in this code every day. The code for the members of the Senate was as follows:

Jill, Kay, T. H.; Jilted, Smith, J. N.; Jilting, Miller, M. A.; Jimerack, Miller, Frank H.; Jolber, Bingham, L. H.; Jolber, Coshaw, O. P.; Jolbing, Booth, R. A.; Jolcarty, Calk, J. S.; Jockey, Holt, L. L.; Jockeyism, Laycock, J. A.; Jockeyship, Johnson, A. J.; Jocrine, Wright, G. S.; Jocularly, Laughery, Jocosness, Caldwell, P. P.; Jolcarty, Siebel, Sigmund; Jolcarty, Nonesuch, C. W.; Jolcarty, Beach, S. C.; Joggle, Schofield, W. T.; Johnny-cake, Wheelton, N.; Jolnder, Bowerman, Jay; Jolnery, Cole, W. G.; Jolnted, Smith, C. J.; Jolntedly, McDonald, Peter; Jolnture, Hart, J. N.

In the House, Speaker Davy was known as "Jollity." State Treasurer Steel was "Justifier." C. B. Atchison was "Knoave." J. N. Tenl was "Knoelling." Ross signed himself "Kaland." T. T. Burkhardt was "Kitten." J. B. Atchison was "Kitchchen."

The code bears evidence of compilation by C. B. Atchison, since part of it is written in his hand.
