Testimony for Divorce Overcomes Mrs. Moore.

CRUELTY CHARGE DENIED

Joseph W. Kane Files Answer to Minnie M. 'Kane's Divorce Suit.

Circuit Court yesterday afternoon after testifying in her suit for divorce from Lou Moore. So completely overcome was lestifying in her suit for divorce from Lou Moore. So completely overcome was Mrs. Moore by her ordeal on the stand that it was necessary to remove her to her home in a carriage.

Mrs. Moore says her husband has been guilty of continued crueity and non-support. On the witness stand yesterday she testified that he often accused her of infidelity, especially while she was working as a housekeeper for a Mr. Michaels, at 372% East Oak street. She also declared that when a roomer came to her to have his injured hand bound up her busband became angry and accused her of being in love with the young man. Mrs. Moore said that she was once taken violently iii when her husband was planning to go on a pleasure trip, and that instead of postponing it on account of his wife's condition he left her without any aid. She also said he provided no money for her to purchase clothing, and that six months, after their marriage what little clothing she owned mysteriously disappeared. Her husband came home one night, bringing between $200 and $300 in coin with him and jingled it before her with the assertion that he intended to use it in fighting her. Moore said that she managed to save up $15 in pickels and dimes which her.

Mrs. Moore said that she managed to save up $15 in nickels and dimes which her husband had given her, and that when he found she had the money in the bank he told her he needed it to purchase cattle. She testified that she never saw cattle. She testified that she never saw the money afterward.

Moore does not ask for a divorce himself, but is endeavoring to prevent his wife from receiving one. He says she is the best woman who ever lived, and denies that he has ever mistreated her. In this he is corroborated by other witnesses. He says that if his wife wishes to live apart from him he is willing to pay her expenses. The case will be continued this morning.

Joseph W. Kane has filed in the Cir Joseph W. Kane has filed in the Circuit Court his answer to the divorce complaint of Minnie M. Kane, his wife. After denying all the allegations of his wife, except the date of their marriage, February 19, 1995, he says that he has always treated her with the greatest of kind-ness and consideration. Notwithstanding this, he avers, she lived with him for nine months. Mrs. Kane took up a homestead in Gil-liam County. Kane says he supplied her liam County. Kane says he supplied her with money that she might live on it, and also provided a horse and buggy. The breaking up of the Kane home occurred November 18, 1907, according to the husband. At that time his wife took all the household goods except the heavy furniture, and left him. Four days later he received a letter telling him to send her mail to the general delivery at Portland. Then came another letter requesting him to meet her at a rooming house.

Kane does not say whether or not he kept the engagement, but asserts that on December 22, 1907, his wife was in Los Angeles, and that she secured an apartment house at Long Beach last January. He received a letter on January 3, which said: "I have an apartment house here, and hope I will do well. I have leased the place for two years, so you know that means that I have bld adieu to old Oregon for awhile."

years, so you know that means that have bid adieu to old Oregon for awhile."

Mrs. Kane is said to have returned to Portland March 22 and to have asked her husband for money. Here again Kane falls to state whether or not he acceded to his wife's request. He says that during their married life he has given her $500. When she left Gilliam County she left $500 in bills, and sold Clara M. Wheeler, who has lived with Frank Wheeler as a housekeeper since December, 1880, alleges in a suit filed yesterday that he has threatened her life. She is suing him to recover $2000 for services at $20 a month.

RESORTS TO LAW OVER FENCE

Mrs. Engh Also Wants Chicken

House and Eaves Removed. Mrs. Marie Engh has brought suit in the Circuit Court against Mary A. Cass, to compel her to remove a chicken-house, which the plaintiff says projects 10 inches upon her property. Further than this she wishes to have the court compel Mrs. Cass to remove 14 inches of the eaves to her house and a fence, which are also said to have been built upon the property of the neighbor. of the neighbor.

The reason Mrs. Engh wants the caves removed, she says, is because they damage her yard by acting as a rainabed. Mrs. Engh's property is lot 8, block 329, Portland. She says that the building of a house on her lot is prevented by her neighbor's fence.
