Senator Battey seeks to go to the Denver convention of the Democratic party as one of the four delegates at large from the State of Texas. He has been attacked before, but, claiming pledges, won the fight for re-election to the Senate. Now, while the office is small the principle is great. It is one of vindication or censure. Texas is overwhelmingly Democratic, and in the primaries, in which only whites may participate, the great battles are fought and won. If Senator Batley receives the most yotes in the primaries of May 2, he goes, vindicated by his people, to Deriver and into the Democratic Convention. If he loses, it is believed that he will be forced to resign his seat in the upper house of Congress and a verificit of guilty readered by a jury of 20,000 voters, his friends say, would end his political carrier. He stands charged with betraying the people of Texas to the Waters-Pierce Standard Cell subscidery company at a the people of Toxas to the Waters-Pierce Standard Oil subsidiary company at a time when the warfare between the com-monwealth and the trust was raging.
