

HISGEE WILLING TO BE THE GOAT

Hearst Postpones His Presidential Hopes for Four Years.

FOOTSTEPS OF LINCOLN

Some of Independence Leaguers Want Him to Run This Year, but After Careful Consideration He Decides to Wait.

BY LLOYD F. LONERGAN. NEW YORK, May 4.—(Special.)—Here is sad news for the bloated plunderer.

William Randolph Hearst intends to run for President in 1912. It seems almost established now that the "hero of the common people" will not lead the forlorn hope this year. In fact this was freely admitted by one of his lieutenants today.

Hearst intends to be the Lincoln of our new party," he said, "and he has not forgotten that Lincoln was not the first Republican candidate. Fremont was the original nominee, and Fremont, as you will remember, was stung. Thomas L. Hisgen, of Massachusetts, will probably be our Fremont, but Hearst is cast for the role of Lincoln."

The "Lincoln boom" was launched by "Fremont" at his dinner at the League held a "National banquet" here the other night, and Mr. Hisgen spoke. His remarks, which appeared exclusively in the New York American, closed with these words:

"We, of Massachusetts, are ready and waiting for the opportunity to elevate one of God's great and good men to the Presidency of the United States, the Honorable William Randolph Hearst."

Hisgen Slated for the Goat.

That Hisgen is slated for the role of goat this year is indicated by the American's introduction to the story of the banquet. The reference to the sterling Bay State patriot appears under this fat, two-column sub-head: "Hisgen Slated as Next President." Whether the second word is meant for greeted or grated is not clear. Under the circumstances, "grated" seems a happy choice. Then the article goes on to say:

Thomas L. Hisgen, the sturdy Independence fighter of Massachusetts, received a greeting second only to that of Mr. Hearst. The next President of the United States will be elected in the year 1912. He has not to be a habit to vote for Hearst for something each election, and why should they make a change now? I don't want to wait until 1912 to vote for Hearst for President. Nobody can tell what any of us will think in four years. I want to vote for him now, as I always do."

Object to the "Swine."

Many of the diners objected to receiving the glad hand from swine, even by proxy. Mr. Hisgen, however, differed along. He took as his theme the impossibility of accomplishing reforms through the old parties, and laced the Democracy good and proper.

"Can we accomplish our reforms through this worm-eaten bulk?" he demanded, referring to the Democratic organization. "For accomplish through the machine, the Republican machine, whose proudest boast is that it is against Roosevelt, has always been against him, will always be against him, and maintain in its efforts to retire him."

"These remarks the League men declared to be in the worst possible taste. "Everybody knows that one of two men will be nominated at Chicago," remarked an angry district leader. "Taft will be the nominee, and Roosevelt will be the Roosevelt. If Taft is named, it will be because he is the choice of Roosevelt and because the Roosevelt men vote for him. Now where do you stand, Mr. Hisgen? One of our shining lights come out and says that the reason the Republican machine is rotten is because it is against Roosevelt. That means that a Roosevelt League speech should be edited before it is delivered. Then we might have some chance."

Hearst Carefully Decides. The new move on Hearst's part—the decision not to be a candidate for anything this year—is said to be the result of careful decision. Hearst's original plan was to head the ticket himself, and have a grand, joyous speechifying tour from one end of the United States to the other. For Hearst enjoys addressing crowds. It was pointed out to him, however, that nothing would be gained, and a great deal might be lost, if he personally made a noise like a candidate this Summer.

Let somebody else stand for the ticket," he was advised. "You can make all the speeches you feel like delivering. Any glory will be yours, any blame goes to the man who heads the ticket." It was also impressed upon Hearst that he owed it to the organization to be free to leap into the Mayor's chair. If the present recount proceedings are successful, Hearst's lawyer, Clarence Shearn, publicly says that the trial will be over and a decision rendered by July 4. Nobody else indulges in such hopes, owing to the fact that the "preliminaries" of the trial are still far from completed.

Programme Outlined for Hearst.

Despite all delays, Shearn is charmingly optimistic. Publicly he believes that Hearst will officially shoot off fireworks in the City Hall on Independence day; privately he looks for a Thanksgiving proclamation from his chief, but anyhow he has no doubt as to the final result of the court proceedings.

The next number on the programme would naturally be the nomination of Hearst for President by the Independent League party, or whatever its name may be that year, and the crushing defeat of the Republican and Democratic candidates. In the meantime, the "party goat" or the "party Fremont," whichever you care to call him would be in retirement, if alive, and glad to accept a commission in the cabinet or the diplomatic service. It sounds fine in print, and the Leaguers, who are close to the throne, believe it is a correct forecast of coming political conditions.

Some of the faithful independents, however, earnestly object to such a

58 Years of "Keeping Faith"

Not merely by searching the entire world for its choicest merchandise and marketing it at the fairest possible margin of profit has this immense establishment attained its present high standing. That has been a pronounced factor, to be sure, but back of it, and overshadowing it, is the store's primal policy—its foundation business ethics—of strict integrity in all its dealings and keeping faith with its patrons at all times.

This principle has been maintained unwaveringly for over half a century. That it has been appreciated is shown by the public confidence that through all these years has been placed in the store's reliability—a confidence more deeply rooted today, if possible, than ever before—and certainly never better deserved.

The people of Oregon have learned to rely upon the character of Lipman-Wolfe goods and the moderateness of Lipman-Wolfe prices. They rely on the accuracy of the advertisements that bear this firm's name, knowing full well that every announcement must ring true—that a promise here means a performance—that every statement will be carried out to the letter.

The practical expression of that reliance has made this great store possible—a splendid commentary on its fair dealing methods. Surely, honesty is a good policy—in business as well as out—and on that good, old-fashioned principle we'll continue, so long as this business exists, to "KEEP FAITH" with our patrons.

RIGHTS OF NEGRO TROOPS

SUIT FOR PAY BY MAN DISMISSED AT BROWNSVILLE. Lawyer Contends Enlistment Is Contract, but Judge Hints Decision Will Be Adverse.

NEW YORK, May 4.—For more than three hours tonight Judge Hough, in the United States District Court, listened to arguments which involved the question of the right of President Roosevelt to dismiss the three companies of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry for alleged participation in the Brownsville riot. The argument was on a demurrer interposed to a portion of the answer of the Government in the action commenced by Private Oscar W. Reid to recover $12, which sum represented his wages as a soldier from the date of his dismissal without honor to the date of the expiration of his enlistment.

United States District Attorney Stimson entered a general denial, and alleged the right of the President to dismiss the soldiers of these companies and also referred to the reports of the various Army inspectors, recommending such action, making the reports in position of the record of the same. It was to this portion of the Government's answer that Charles E. Mellen, counsel for Private Reid, demurred. Mr. Mellen contended that the enlisted men were protected by constitutional rights, which the President had not the power to ignore, even as Commander and the Chief of the Army and Navy, the enlistment operating really from a legal view point as a civil contract between the soldier and the Government.

Judge Hough reserved decision, but told Mr. Mellen plainly from the bench that it would require considerable legal proof to convince him that the relations of an enlisted soldier and the Government amounted simply to a civil contract. Briefs are to be submitted by Wednesday, and Judge Hough said he would take the matter up at the end of the week.

THINKS MEXICANS ARE GUILTY

Bulkeley's Theory of Brownsville Raid—Fulton Joins in Debate.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Bulkeley of Connecticut, a member of the military affairs committee, spoke at length in the Senate today on the Brownsville affair. Bulkeley declared his belief in the innocence of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, and said the rioters in the town on the night of August 13-14, 1906, in his judgment, were lawless Mexicans from outside the town, assisted by the lawless class within Brownsville. He insisted that the absence of light in the city on the night of the raid was sufficient to impeach the testimony of witnesses who told of seeing negro soldiers. Borah interrupted to say that the night in question was an ordinary starlight night, and that the theory of darkness had never been suggested except by the men who wanted it to be a dark night. Fulton of Oregon stated that, while he was convinced the shooting up of Brownsville was done by the negro soldiers, he favored Foraker's bill requiring the enlistment of the men upon their statements of innocence. Foraker added that this bill had an important feature in its provision that should at any time evidence of the guilt of the men be discovered, they should be tried either by the civil or military authorities, and by having them back in the Army they could be reported at any time. The Senate today passed the resolution appropriating $250,000 to relieve the recent

BOMB CONSPIRACY IN INDIA

PROMINENT HINDUS PLOT AGAINST BRITISH RULE. Widespread Movement to Destroy Officials Fanned by Many Arrests at Calcutta.

CALCUTTA, May 4.—The police are investigating the native plot revealed yesterday to murder Europeans by means of bombs, and the more thoroughly they go into the matter the more widespread does it seem. The authorities believe they are facing an attempt at revolution. A number of prominent Bengalese are implicated and sensational arrests are expected to follow. An examination of 30 persons arrested today confirm the gravity of the bomb conspiracy. Some of those in the hands of the police denied complicity in the affair, while others made startling admissions regarding the intentions of the organization against public officials, and actual attempts at the use of bombs, which, however, proved unsuccessful.

IMMUNITY FOR PLOTTERS

Portuguese Assassins So Prominent Government Dare Not Prosecute.

LISBON, May 4.—The government has completed its investigation into the plot that led to the assassination last February of King Carlos and the Crown Prince of Portugal, but it would appear that the conspiracy had so many ramifications and that so many persons of position are either suspected or implicated that it had been decided not to bring any prosecutions. Nevertheless, in order to keep up appearances, King Manuel, when he takes his oath of office, will grant a general political amnesty. This, however, will only cover offenses up to January 30. The assassinations occurred February 1. Although King Manuel has expressed his willingness to repay to the treasury the money advanced to the late King Carlos, the cabinet on account of the present condition of the finances of the royal house, has decided to ask Parliament to cancel these debts.

Thousands of visitors boarded the battleships during the morning. At Delmona there was a general leave-taking up to the last minute between officers and wives or friends. Motion Before Supreme Court by the Prosecution Counsel. WASHINGTON, May 4.—In the Supreme Court of the United States today a motion was made in behalf of the Interstate Commerce Commission to advance on the docket the cross-appeals of the commission and E. H. Harriman and Otto H. Kahn, the latter of the New York banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in the cases in which Harriman and Kahn refused to answer certain questions propounded by the commission in 1906 in connection with its inquiry into the alleged consolidation and combination of railroads subject to the interstate commerce laws. The government contended that the operations, and the United States Circuit Court for the southern district of New York, to which the matter was submitted, directed the witnesses to make reply to all except those relating to the purchase of stock by Harriman in anticipation of the Union Pacific dividend. Neither party was satisfied with this solution, and both sides appealed to the Supreme Court.

The railroads fined were as follows: Rock Island, $600; Northwestern $300; Illinois Central, $100; St. Paul, $50; Santa Fe, $50; and Burlington, $30. The majority of the fines were imposed on pleas of guilty, but in all cases the Chicago & Northwestern pleaded not guilty.

PROBLEM OF LONG LIFE

Anxiety to Live a Hundred Years Appears to Be Increasing.

New York Telegraph. Certain New Yorkers again are stirred with the laudable ambition to live to be a hundred years old, and more if possible. These New Yorkers, who are under the leadership of a physician, have mapped out courses to follow which they believe will result in long life. Strangely enough each one has different ideas. While one will eat no meat another eats nothing else. One believes in gorging on fruit, while another declares it is "poison" to him. One woman member of the Hundred Year Club drinks many tumblers of water during meals and between, while her husband never drinks clear water. And so it goes. No one has ever been able to give reasons for remarkably long lives. Dr. William George Meade, a celebrated physician in his day, died at his home in Tunbridge Wells, England, in 1932, at the age of 148 years and 2 months. His birth and death are matters of record, so there is no mistake about his age. This extraordinary man was asked scores of times how he prolonged his life to such a length and he was never able to tell, but answered vaguely that it probably was because he never worried. Dr. Meade smoked a pipe, which will gratify tobacco users, but practiced as a physician after he was 130 years old. Meade's methods were simple and are followed by many doctors at this day. He believed in diet, open air exercise and cleanliness.
