

DEATH SUSPICION OF FOUL PLAY

Death of Independence Girl in Tacoma Considered More Than Accident.

BODY SHOWS MANY MARKS

On Arrival at Girl's Home Post Mortem Is Held and Evidence Leads to Belief That Severe Struggle Has Taken Place.

INDEPENDENCE, Or., May 5.—(Special.)—Was there foul play in the death of Miss Lillian Wyman, which occurred at Tacoma, April 23, in the Point Defiance Pavilion, where she was a waitress?

Such is the belief of the Coroner of Polk County, and the undertaker at Independence, both of whom made an examination of the remains. According to Coroner Chapman, who returned the remains, and Dr. E. L. Ketchum, who made an examination of the body, it was impossible for death to have resulted from any such bruises as were found on the remains of Miss Wyman when they arrived in Independence from Tacoma.

On the neck were apparent fingerprints which might indicate a deadly struggle had taken place, and the victim had been choked. The marks between the eyes were knuckle-prints, as if a heavy blow had been dealt.

Miss Wyman had put on her jacket and hat and had one glove on and the other in her hand, ready to return to her home in the north end of Tacoma when the supposed encounter occurred. In the opinion of Mr. Moseman, stepfather of the dead girl, it was an impossibility for the girl to fall in the position in which she was found and at the same time bear marks on her body such as were found when the remains reached Independence.

A few minutes before she was laughing and talking with companions, in the best of health, and for this reason foul play is suspected. The body was reclining on the floor, and the head resting on a pillow on the couch.

Miss Wyman had formed an attachment for a 15-year-old girl, who was a waitress in the establishment, and it had been their custom to bid each other good-bye every evening on leaving. This evening Miss Wyman had not done so, and the girl went to see if she were in the building. On entering the parlor, she found the unfortunate young woman lying on the floor.

At the time death occurred it is evident there were only five or six people present. Harry R. Manley, who owns the pavilion, was present, and his brother, who was absent at the time, was in the bathroom, which adjoins the parlor. When discovered later he was in the bathroom, preparing to shave. He is presumed to have been the only man on the premises at that hour of the evening.

According to the inquest of the Coroner at Tacoma, there were no bruises on the body. That does not correspond with the inquest held over the remains here. Dr. Ketchum, coroner of Polk County, and County Coroner Chapman, pronounced the circumstantial evidence very strong that the victim met with foul play.

OREGON CITY EMBEZZLER OLSON IS SENTENCED.

Changes Plea to Guilty and Has Nothing to Say When Sentence Is Passed—Taken to Salem.

OREGON CITY, Or., May 5.—(Special.)—Otto F. Olson, self-confessed forger and embezzler, was this morning given an indeterminate sentence of not less than two years and not more than 20 years in the State Penitentiary. Olson this morning entered a plea of guilty to the charge of forging the name of Rudolph Koerner to a check for $250, which he obtained from H. C. Stevens on the strength of Koerner's signature. George C. Brownell, attorney for Olson, had asked for a long statement made by Dr. House, an alienist of Portland, stating that Olson's mind was so crazed over his mining speculations and was unable to distinguish right from wrong.

In passing sentence, Judge McBride expressed sympathy for Olson's family, but said that the man must have known that his criminal acts were wrong and unlawful. Olson undoubtedly profited by his plea of guilty, for it is the custom for the Governor to issue a pardon to a criminal, sentenced to an indeterminate term, after the minimum time has elapsed, and this will be two years in Olson's case. Olson was taken to Salem this afternoon. He had nothing to say when sentence was passed.

Freight Train Catches Gang of Section Men in Cut.

MCCORMICK, Wash., May 5.—(Special.)—The lives of four Italian section men, under Foreman Lawrence, were imperiled today by being caught in the big cut east of McCormick, by the local Northern Pacific freight, which completely demolished the handcar on which they were riding and dived two freight cars.

To complete was the surprise that one of the Italians was forced to jump into the river to save himself. The engineer blew his whistle, as usual, on nearing the cut, but the Italians apparently believed it to be the McCormick logging train, which was due to arrive in McCormick about that time. All escaped uninjured save for a few light scratches sustained by one of the men.

Small Towns Being Shown How Expense Is Divided.

OREGON CITY, Or., May 5.—(Special.)—Promoters of the plan to establish a County High School in Clackamas County are finding considerable antagonism in some of the small towns of the county. Attorney C. Schuebel, Clarence E. Eaton and Professor L. A. Reed, principal of the Parkville School, addressed a meeting last night at Estacada. It was the vote in the towns with small population in Clackamas County that killed the project two years ago. Mr. Schuebel and other interested are directing a number of meetings and are showing that while two-thirds of the students for a County State School would come from the sparsely settled portions of the county, about two-thirds of the expense would be borne by the property-owners of Oregon City and vicinity.

Steamer Washington Picks Up Derelict Kelton.

HARD TOW UP THE COAST

Strong Tide Causes Passage of Bar to Take Five Hours—Kelton Is Found Entirely Abandoned and Drifting Off Yaquina Head.

ASTORIA, Or., May 5.—(Special.)—The derelict steamer Minnie E. Kelton, of Aberdeen, wrecked in the open sea off the Oregon coast above Newport on Saturday night last, when a dense fog descended, is now at anchor in the lower harbor at this port.

The steamer Washington, with the derelict in tow, reached this city this evening, although she started in over the bar shortly after ten o'clock this morning. Captain Nelson, of the Washington, says he found the Kelton entirely deserted at 10:30 yesterday morning, about seven miles north of Yaquina Head and five miles off-shore. Both the derelict's anchors were down but she was drifting slowly to the north.

The Kelton's deckload was gone, her after-house entirely carried away and she was waterlogged. The log on her hold being the only thing that kept her afloat. The find is considered a good one for the Washington owners, as there is about 200,000 feet of lumber in the hold, the vessel has excellent machinery, and as her hull is of oak, it is not thought to be seriously damaged.

The tow up the coast was a hard one, and on account of the strong tide the Washington was over five hours crossing in over the bar. Captain Nelson dropped the derelict on the tide below Smith Point and left his mate and one sailor on board. He has wired his owners concerning the prize and will await their instructions regarding her.
