PASS ON LOCAL OPTION PETITIONS

County Court Will Decide Today Important Point in Oregon Law.

OPPOSING LAWYERS HEARD

Question at Issue Affects Legality of Second Election Less Than Two Years After the Precinct Has Voted Dry.

The County Court will decide at 10 o'clock this morning which petitions for local option in Multnomah County are valid and which are worthless. All day yesterday Judge Webster and Commissioners Lightner and Barnes sat en banc listening to the arguments of John F. Logan and Ralph E. Moody, counsel for the liquor interests, and Frank B. Rutherford for the Prohibitionists. It was the contention of Mr. Rutherford that territory voted dry can be combined with wet territory at a succeeding election. Mr. Logan replied that if such is the case the local option law is only prohibition in disguise.

The precincts included in each of the 13 petitions for a vote on the saloon question, in the order in which these petitions were filed with County Clerk Fields and showing the grouping are as follows:

No. 1. Precinct 3.
No. 2. Precinct 60.
N. 3. Precincts 100 and 101.
No. 4. Precinct 101.
No. 5. Precincts 101 and 103.
N. 6. All of East Portland except precinct 51.
No. 7. Precincts 89, 90 and 91.
No. 8. Precincts 52, 62, 63, 69, 71, 72, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79.
No. 9. Precincts 90 and 91.
No. 10. Precincts 42, 43, 44, 46, 47.
No. 11. Pecinct 67.
No. 12. Precincts 90 and 91.
No. 13. Precincts 99 and 102.

Mr. Rutherford, for the Prohibitionists, appeared in favor of Petitions 6, 9 and 12. He opposed the others. Mr. Moody favored Petition No. 8, but opposed 6, 9 and 12, while Mr. Logan favored No. 10, and opposed the three petitions fathered by the Prohibitionists.

Contention of Prohibitionists.

In order that Mr. Rutherford might make more clear his contention as to the provisions of the Oregon local option law, the Court asked him to illustrate it by taking Precincts A, B, C, D and E as examples. Mr. Rutherford said that the law provides first that a vote may be taken, upon petition, in Precincts A, B, C and D, combined, or on any other number. No vote can be again taken on this combination of precincts for two years, unless the first election should result in a vote to retain the saloons. In that event the local option question could come up at the election of the following year. But, contended Mr. Rutherford, if Precincts A, B, C and D were combined with Precinct E a vote could be taken the following year. The petition covering all the East Side, with the exception of Precinct 51, would be adequately illustrated by taking Precincts B, C and D, eliminating A and adding E. This is the knotty question upon which the County Court must pass.

Regarding Petition No. 2, for Precinct 60, Attorney General Crawford has said that a vote may be taken this year. District Attorney Manning disagrees with him, and says a vote may not be taken this year. Mr. Rutherford contends that the petition is invalid because it includes less territory than was voted on in 1906. No one appeared in court to father the petition.

Mr. Moody said that under the provisions of the Oregon statute, the liquor question cannot be submitted to the voters of a precinct which has gone dry in less than two years after the first vote is taken. The only exception to this rule, he contended, was when a valid petition had been filed to have the vote taken in the entire county.

Quotes From the Law.

He pointed to Section 14, of the statute, reading as follows:

In no case where prohibition has carried in any subdivision of any county shall an election on this question of prohibition be held thereafter in any precinct of such subdivision until prohibition has been defeated at a subsequent election held for such entire subdivision.

Commenting on this section, Mr. Moody said that no vote can be taken on the East Side as a whole until it is all saloon territory, when it may be included in one petition. He contended that in excluding Precinct 51 the East Side petition violated this act.

Attorney Logan said, in arguing upon the question:

If it is true that precincts already voted dry may be combined with others that are wet, thereby making the larger territory wet, it will be possible to run a shoestring of precincts through the county, overwhelming certain wet precincts with others that are known to be heavily the other way. Take Precinct 89. That is University Park, a portion of Portland, where every lot is sold with a prohibition clause in the deed. They join Precinct 89 with 90 and 91, comprising the city of St. John, to get prohibition in St. John. They have a right to do that, and I am not complaining about it, but the court can see the identity of it. What becomes of the spirit of the local option law? This is nothing but prohibition, disguised as local option.

OTHER CLEW THAN SHIRT

Writer Wants New Investigation in Wolff Murder Case.

PORTLAND, May 7.—(To the Editor.)—The Oregonian cannot be given too much praise for its fine editorial on the Wolff murder case, which appears in today's issue. Its broad and conservative view of the incident should open the eyes of both the police and detective departments. Is it not true that all stores have hundreds of shirts of the same patterns, fabric, marks and sizes, and could not hundreds of people buy them? Is it possible that E. H. Martin could have left the scene of the murder, in broad daylight, with his shirt, coat, vest and overcoat soaked and spattered with blood, with bleeding wounds on his neck, head and hands—travel over the streets at the busiest hour of the day to discard the bloody shirt in one end of the city, and secret his overcoat and gun in the extreme other end? Perhaps the individual who wore the bloody shirt (if other than Martin) is many miles away now, or perhaps knowing the crime is fastened on another than himself, might be leisurely roaming about town. Who knows but what Martin, while under the influence of drugs, may have had trouble with another "fiend" or in a drunken brawl received a beating? When in a stupor somewhere, the real murderer could have besmeared his clothes with blood in order to fasten the crime on Martin.

It was reported that one man was seen who acted as a guard in front of Wolff's store, in a blinding rain storm, with no overcoat or umbrella, at the hour the crime was supposed to have been committed. Why not look for that fellow? The promptness with which a man in Martin's predicament answers all questions put to him, throws one in doubt.

The case is similar to one which occurred some years ago in Indiana, when a young woman was butchered. A short time before finding the body, two drunken laborers had a rough encounter in which one was badly bruised and bleeding, and was seen in the neighborhood with blood-stained clothes. He was immediately arrested, the town turned against him, was found guilty and hanged in less than four months. Seven years after, a tramp on his deathbed confessed to the crime.

I think it would be well if the detectives and police would follow some advice from The Oregonian: "Look at two sides." I don't wish to defend a brutal murderer, but when the police refuse to work on any other clew than a shirt which anyone might have discarded, it seems they are all bewildered by the dazzling splendor of the $1000 reward. Any old thing will do.

EXCURSION TO HOOD RIVER

Portland Realty Board and Guests Take Outing Tomorrow.

Arrangements have been completed for the Realty Board's excursion to Hood River tomorrow. The realty men and their guests will leave the dock at the foot of Washington street on the steamer Charles R. Spencer, which will leave promptly at 7 A. M.

Upon arrival at Hood River, committees are to meet the excursionists and escort them through the valley. Information has been received that the apple trees are now in full bloom and that the scene from elevated places affording views of the famous fruit section is beautiful.

Included in the cost of the trip, which is placed at $3.50 a person, are lunch and dinner on the steamer. Short speeches are to be made by representatives of the Hood River fruitgrowers and by members of the Realty Board. Whitney L. Boise and Tom Richardson are expected to be members of the party making the trip, and will be called upon to tell the Hood River people something about the advantages to be gained through organization of allied interests, as is evidenced by the Realty Board of this city.

A band of music is to accompany the excursion and Secretary Rountree expressed himself yesterday as being confident the trip will be both enjoyable and instructive. Several local dealers said yesterday that the result of the excursion more than likely would be to effect closer business relations between dealers of the two points.

Thiel's Cashier Arrested.

W. E. Douglas, cashier of the local office of the Thiel Detective Agency, for whom a warrant was issued Wednesday night, was arrested yesterday morning. The complaint charges him with a shortage of $4448, covering a period of nearly two years. Douglas is said to have lost the money by gambling, and, aside from this vice, was known as a man of good habits. It is said that the case will be adjusted without prosecution.

Tomorrow and Monday positively the last days for discount on West Side gas bills. Remittances must be received before discount period expires.

BUSINESS MEN DINE

Discuss Progress of East Side District.

BIG GAIN IN INDUSTRIES

Speakers Call Attention to What Has Been Accomplished by Organization and Outline Improvements Now Desired.

The East Side Business Men's Club held its second banquet last night at the Hotel Heyser, East Third and Burnside streets. Representatives of business and property interests were present from all portions of the city. The Portland Commercial Club was represented by C. C. Chapman, Tom Richardson, the manager, not being able to attend. C. A. Bigelow, president of the Business Men's Club, was presiding officer and toastmaster. He opened the programme by setting forth what had been undertaken on the East Side in the way of developing business, improving streets and inducing industries to locate. After welcoming the guests he introduced Mr. Chapman, who commended the enterprise that had been shown by the people of the East Side. As an integral part of Portland he saw no reason why the East Side should not keep up the pace it had set in the past few years.

Following Mr. Chapman, W. Wynn Johnson spoke on "Civic Improvement." He pointed out that Portland had made great progress toward becoming one of the most attractive cities in the United States. Mr. Johnson especially commended the civic organization and the federation. He spoke of the need of parks, boulevards and playgrounds for children, and urged all the clubs to stand for these things. Mr. Johnson also commended the Rose Festival and especially the children's parade, which the East Side was providing, and expressed regret that the Board of Education had not seen fit to co-operate in a general school children's parade.

R. D. Inman said that the growth of the East Side was certain to go forward; that with the erection of fine buildings business was sure to increase. He, too, favored parks and playgrounds for the school children, and said that children who should take part in the coming Rose Festival would learn a valuable lesson to them in civic virtue. Mr. Inman pointed to the coming of the great Swift packing plant on the Peninsula, which would have a large payroll and which would result in substantial growth of population.

H. H. Newhall spoke of the work of the clubs in transforming East Portland into a desirable business district by immense fills and the erection of handsome business blocks. C. H. Raffety gave some pleasant reminiscences of East Portland.

J. M. Woodworth, representing Multnomah Camp No. 77, Woodmen of the World, said that the camp would give an exhibition drill at the intersection of Grand avenue and East Alder street on the night of the East Side programme during the Rose Festival. It was also expected that the camp would decorate this intersection by erecting an arch.

Chairman Bigelow said the streets were being made ready for the part East Portland was to have in the Rose Festival, except East Morrison street between Union avenue and the bridge. He was authorized to appoint a committee of 20 to wait on the Mayor and Executive Board and ask that the street be replanked by June 1. The following were among those present at the gathering: George Dilworth, C. A. Bigelow, H. A. Calef, J. W. Singletary, S. H. Brainard, O. S. Fulton, A. W. Lambert, J. C. Cassou, L. H. Morgan, George F. Achley, W. O. Munsell, A. H. Averill, John Deere, Clyde Evans, Dr. W. C. Adams, G. W. Griffin, W. H. McMonies, C. A. Baker, A. U. Green, J. W. Green, R. A. Wilson, F. S. Bennett, E. Womselsdorf, C. H. Raffety, J. J. Keyes, W. B. Hall, M. M. Ringler, W. W. Mitchell, H. H. Newhall, O. E. Heintz, D. A. Good, R. Schmeer, W. S. Love, E. R. Gelinsky, H. T. Hermann, A. A. Kadderly, C. C. Chapman, James Rudiman, W. W. Minar, W. M. Jackson, R. D. Inman, W. Wynn Johnson, Curtis Sargent, J. M. Woodworth, L. H. Wells.

CANCELS OREGON GAMES

Multnomah Not Able to Play University at Eugene.

The proposed trip of the Multnomah baseball club to Eugene has been called off. The clubmen were scheduled to play two games with the University of Oregon at Eugene on May 8 and 9, but it was found impossible for the players to make the trip, so the games were canceled. The University team will come to Portland and meet the Multnomah nine on the club grounds on Decoration day. They will also play here the Monday following. It is reported that some radical changes will be made in the club line-up in the near future and the team thereby greatly strengthened.

A challenge has been received from the Victoria, B. C., Athletic Club for a game there on Dominion day, and if it is possible to get the players off for so long a time, this challenge will be accepted. A challenge has also been received from the Aberdeen team.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The British Columbia disturbance has moved southwestward and this evening is central over Western Montana. General rains over Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, accompanied in many localities by high winds, have attended the development of this disturbance. Rain was falling at the time of observation at Portland, Roseburg, Baker City and Boise. The following maximum wind velocities were reported: Tatoosh Island, 52 miles, south; North Head, 32 miles, south; Pocatello, 44 miles, southwest; Modena, 42 miles, southwest, and Helena, 30 miles, south.

Temperatures over the Pacific Slope and Plateau region were decidedly lower than last evening, especially over Eastern Oregon and Southern Idaho. At Baker City the fall in temperature was 38 degrees, and at Boise, 44 degrees. The pressure is now rising rapidly over this forecast district and fair and warmer weather is indicated except in Southeastern Idaho, where cloudy weather, with probably showers, is likely to prevail.

FORECASTS.

Portland and vicinity—Probably fair and warmer; westerly winds.

Western Oregon and Western Washington—Probably fair and warmer; westerly winds.

Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho—Probably fair and warmer.

Southern Idaho—Probably fair and warmer, west portion; cloudy, with probably showers, east portion.
