Crofts Said to Have Been Carroll in Alaska.

ONLY PRETENDED AMATEUR

Scheme by Which Seattle Sports Raked In Portland Coin—Inglis, Virtuously Indignant, Threatens to Sever Relations.

JUNEAU, Alaska, May 7.—(Special.)—Henry Croft, who was entered as a heavyweight by the Seattle Athletic Club and knocked out Ed Johnson, of the Multnomah Club, in the Pacific Coast Amateur Championships, is the son of Charles Carroll, the veteran fighter, and is a brother of Johnny Carroll, now fighting in the lightweight class at San Francisco. Croft fought Nick Burley as a professional in Dawson City, five years ago, losing in the second round. He fought all over Alaska, according to Ed Russell, an authority on sporting events in Alaska the last ten years.

The Juneau dispatch bears out the charge that The Oregonian made against Croft, that he was a professional before he was picked up and carded in the Multnomah Club athletic tournament as an amateur by W. L. Inglis. Mr. Inglis certainly must have known that Croft was a professional when he brought him to Portland, and it looks, on the face of it, that he was in on the frame-up with Joe Dizard, the Seattle cigar man who won all the money when Croft beat Ed Johnson.

No matter who was responsible for the coup, it was well timed and cleverly played. On the night of the tournament Croft met a green boxer in Larry Madden. Croft had a miserable time of it trying to fake the fight, yet he did it well enough to fool a lot of honest people who were not looking for Inglis or the Seattle Athletic Club to put over a sleeper on them. It was the miserable showing that Croft put up against Madden that made it possible for Inglis and Dizard to get their money down, for Ed Johnson's showing against Madden was on the level, so a lot of the Multnomah Club men bet on Johnson to beat Croft, just on the showing that both men had made in their battles with the same Madden.

This play could not have come up better for the Seattle sports. Dizard and the rest of the Seattle contingent who were in the know, went to Croft's chances, hook, line and sinker, and when they saw that the local sportsmen were taking all of the money in sight, a hurried call was sent to Seattle for more money. All told, Dizard and Inglis and the rest of the frame-up artists carried away about $1,800.

Just what action will be taken against Inglis and the Seattle Athletic Club is not known. E. E. Morgan, a member of the P. N. A. and one of the committeemen, has already started an investigation and will lay the matter before President Sullivan.

INGLIS VIRTUOUSLY ANGRY

Threatens to Sever Relations With Multnomah Athletic Club.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 7.—(Special.)—"The worst kind of rot" is the way the Seattle Athletic Club officials characterise the statement that Henry Croft's real name is Carroll and that he was a professional fighter in Alaska.

"Croft joined the club a year ago last November," said Superintendent W. M. Inglis. "He didn't know a thing about boxing. All he knows about it now he learned from our boxing instructor, Lonnie Austin.

"Croft is an absolutely clean boy. He has no professional tendencies whatever. His parents are well and favorably known folks and their name is Croft, not Carroll. They are known to officers and members of this club. Croft admits that he put on the gloves with Nick Burley at Dawson. He did so just as Gene West, of the Multnomah Club, says he boxed with Herrera. He never fought a match in Alaska, or, if he did, he has kept it covered up from this club. I don't see why he should ever have thought of fighting in the North, because when he joined this club he couldn't box a little bit. All he did with Burley was to allow Burley to hammer him around the ring a bit at Burley's training quarters, just as any healthy youngster might.

"If the Multnomah Club has any charges to prefer against Croft, it should present them to the registration committee and they will be sifted to the bottom. It should not try to besmirch a clean young fellow through the newspapers. The registration committee is created to investigate just such matters. The Seattle Athletic Club stands squarely behind Croft, for we are satisfied that "I may add that, if Multnomah continues the course it is pursuing of casting odium on the athletes of this club whenever Multnomah's men are beaten, we are very apt to sever all athletic relations with Multnomah. This has been very seriously discussed by the officers of the Seattle Athletic Club since the Portland championship bouts were held and the absolutely unwarranted insinuations against Croft have been made. If such things continue, the severance of athletic relations will undoubtedly be the result."

CARROLL NEVER FOUGHT MUCH

Only Lightweight Boxer and Not Remembered in Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—(Special.)—Jimmy Carroll, the former well-known lightweight, has a son, but he never was anything but a lightweight boxer and never did much in that class. San Francisco people who have lived in Alaska do not recall the name of Crofts as a fighter in the heavyweight division.

Seattle papers of last week, evidently aware of the charges that had been made, denied them and stated that Crofts is the son of a rich Tacoma business man. If the man who beat Johnson is a professional, he must be some other than the party referred to. At all events, the fact that Portland sports lost $200 on an amateur fight might have caused the stories to start.

CHALLENGE NOT YET ACCEPTED

Boxer's Standing as Amateur Questioned in Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., May 7.—(Special.)—Lee Croft, the local amateur heavyweight boxer, who won the amateur heavyweight championship of the Pacific Coast at the Multnomah Club's boxing and wrestling tournament, held in Portland last month, has been challenged by Vic McLaglen, the heavy-weight boxer.

McLaglen sets forth in his challenge that the story has been wafted all over the Northwest by Croft that he (Croft) had once knocked McLagen down in a contest at a local gymnasium. McLaglen, to show that he means business and that he has the necessary confidence in himself to whip Croft, has challenged the amateur champion to box him 20 rounds for a side bet of $500. So far Croft has not replied to the challenge.

As to Croft's standing as an amateur, it is freely spoken of here and many say they have seen him box in Alaska under an assumed name. He admitted recently that he had boxed Billy Bates and Jack (Twin) Sullivan at Fairbanks, Alaska, and he also owns up to having fought with other boxers who have been known to be professionals for some time.

If Croft decides to accept the challenge of McLaglen, the contest will no doubt take place in the same arena in which Abe Attell and Eddie Kelly boxed. McLaglen has many friends in Tacoma who will back him heavily if he and Croft come together.

HARE AND HOUND CONTESTS

Y. M. C. A. Athletes to Hold Cross-Country Runs and Paper Chases.

A large number of the members of the Y. M. C. A. interested in cross-country and track work met last night at the residence of Physical Director Grilley, East Flanders street, to discuss the formation of some organization which would handle the preparation of the men for track and cross-country running.

The first proposal put before the meeting was that an athletic club be formed to handle all forms of athletics at the association, but for various reasons this plan was shown to be unreasonable. Vosper drew attention to the transient nature of much of the Y. M. C. A. membership and pointed out that this would militate against the lasting success of such a club. Director Grilley thought that it would be advisable for somebody to organize and create interest in hare and hound contests and in paperchases. He said that there are too many members anxious to get all they can out of the association and what is wanted is to create a general interest purely for the sake of the sport involved, and not in order to pander to the pot-hunter.

C. Vosper moved and Himes seconded "that this gathering elect a committee which will give special attention to cross-country running and relay work and that such committee consist of a chairman and four other members." On the question being put the motion was carried. On a ballot to form the committee the following members were elected: Y. Wetterborg, W. Backus, Lau, Keys and Himes. On the committee balloting for a chairman Wetterborg was elected by an almost unanimous vote.

Taking up their duties immediately, the committee discussed the formation of training table regime and the methods by which it could be adopted at the Y. M. C. A. Following this it was decided to hold the first paperchase Saturday, May 16, when Wetterborg and Cartozian, both of relay race fame, will be the hares and Himes will captain the hounds, the start being from Fourth and Yamhill at 6:30. On the motion of the chairman, Mrs. Grilley was added to the committee as an advisory board on the question of a training table, and the adjournment was made at a late hour.

Aberdeen 5; Butte 3.

ABERDEEN, Wash., May 7.—(Special.)—Aberdeen won from Butte this afternoon by superior work at the bat. Thompson made his initial appearance on the slab for the Black Cats and had great speed and excellent control. Samuels, too, pitched good ball, but weakened in the seventh. The Champions tucked one away in the second when Mahon singled, Fitzgerald sacrificed and Brown drove a safe one into left field. In the fourth Butte grabbed three. Bennett connected for two bases into left center, Cartwright was safe on Thompson's poor throw to first, Irby sacrificed and Swain and Stis singled, three runs resulting. The Cats won out in the seventh. Moore was hit with a pitched ball and VanBuren singled, both advancing on Boettiger's out. Brinker then connected for a three-bagger, scoring two and himself came in on Stis' poor throw to third.

Bennett's work in left was the feature of the game. Aberdeen earned two of its runs. The game was snappy and interesting throughout. The score:

Seattle 5; Tacoma 4.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 7.—(Special.)—Seattle won a game today that was in doubt till the ninth inning had been played. Carson lost yesterday for Tacoma, but thought he could do better today and went in. Seattle hit him freely, but he got out of several tight holes successfully. Ross' two-bagger and an error gave Seattle a run in the first. Tacoma tied it in the third, when Frisk dropped a fly and scored two in the fourth on Kellacky's home run and two singles. Seattle got to Carson hard in the fifth, netting three runs. Burnett's single and Kellacky's three-bagger tied the score again in the eighth, but in Seattle's half Hammond's single, Dudley's sacrifice and Cahill's drive brought in the winning run. The score.

RAIN PREVENTS BALL GAME

Double-Header Probable Sunday to Catch Up With Schedule.

It was a shivering day of rest for the ball clubs yesterday. The rains prevented playing of a game and the chill wind made the players sigh for overcoats. The game was not called off until the last moment.

In order to catch up with the schedule, Manager McCredie is figuring on playing a double-header on Sunday, and if it rains this afternoon, there may be one on Saturday. Big Ed Kinsella will be sent against the Seals this afternoon and Jones will perform for the visitors. Kinsella is just rounding to, so he figures to win, for when he is right, no club can beat him.

Wisconsin Fan Has a Kick.

PORTLAND, May 7.—(To the Sporting Editor.)—As an exasperated fan I desire to put in a vigorous protest against the practice at the baseball grounds of daily warming-up work by the reserve batteries directly in front of the bleachers. It hides the game from the fellows on the lower benches, compelling them to invent new and involved forms of profanity to express their feelings. Thus far they haven't expressed my sense of outrage by several degrees. It is bad enough to sit and see Portland go to pieces like a pack of Teddy Bears, before the beautiful work of the Frisco boys, without having to put up with glimmers of the game caught between the legs of the big duffers who spoil our view. That sort of thing would not be tolerated in any city in Wisconsin.

HANG ON

Coffee Topers as Bad as Others.

"A friend of our family who lived with us a short time was a great coffee drinker and a continual sufferer with dyspepsia. He admitted that coffee disagreed with him, but you know how the coffee drinker will hold on to his coffee, even if he knows it causes dyspepsia.

"One day he said to me that Postum Food Coffee had been recommended and suggested that he would like very much to try it. I secured a package and made it strictly according to directions. He was delighted with the new beverage, as was every one of our family. He became very fond of it and in a short time his dyspepsia disappeared. He continued using the Postum and in about three months gained twelve pounds.

"My husband is a practising physician and regards Postum as most healthful of all beverages. He never drinks coffee, but is very fond of Postum. In fact, all of our family are, and we never think of drinking coffee any more." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.
