COMMERCIAL CLUB OPENS IN NEW QUARTERS.

Members and Their Friends Enjoy Noonday Meal Composed Entirely of Oregon Products.

Commercial Club members were busy yesterday showing friends through the handsome new quarters at Fifth and handsome new quarters at Fifth and Oak streets. The doors of the club's permanent home were thrown open for the first time, and the complete appointments evoked highest praise from many visitors. Club members took noon luncheon for the first time in the new building yesterday. The club's new home is said to be the most elaberate commercial club in the United States. Decorations for the opening day were elaborate. Potted roses were placed in all the public rooms and were effectively grouped on the grand staircase, where they vied with the gorgeous flowers depicted in the art glass windows which are a feature of the landing. Roses in profusion were on the dining table, while an orchestra added to the enjoyment of the club opening. It was charged by Perkins that Morris never deposited the $5500 he had agreed to, and it was not long until he learned that the firm was confronted with an overdraft of about $2000. This situation was adjusted for the time being, but when the bank closed its doors, the autocompany was found to be in the bank's debt to the amount of about $23,000, which was secured directly and indirectly by Perkins' notes.

THREE RESIDENCES IN EAST SIDE SUBURB DESTROYED.

Fire Engine From Sunnyside Station Saves Many Other Dwellings From Flames.

Fire in Montavilla yesterday afternoon destroyed the cottage of G. Way at 225 Broad street, the cottage of Alexander Schubauer, next door, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanthorn, and the two-story house of W. L. Beckner at 239 Broad street, with most of their contents. The home of J. W. Lamdy was also damaged. The total loss will exceed $6000. Only the timely arrival of Engine Company No. 9 from Sunnyside prevented the destruction of other dwellings on the same street. The houses burned were about one block from the schoolhouse and Grace Baptist Church. N. W. Bowland, the principal, promptly marched the children from the schoolhouse as a matter of precaution, as the sparks were being carried in that direction.

After several indicted men had been arrained Judge Gantenbein said that he believed this was the time set for Martin to enter his plea. and Hanthorn cottages were burned to their foundation.

Mr. Way was not at home at the time of the fire. His loss is about $2000, and it is said that he carried no insurance. The loss on the Schubauer cottage, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanthorn, is about $1000. Mr. Beckner estimates his loss at $000 on house and furniture. He carried $1500 insurance.

The fire emphasises the need for fire protection at Montavilla. Considering the long run the engine company had, uphill nearly the entire distance, it is remarkable the firemen were able to reach the fire in time to stop its spread. There are no fire hydrants in Montavilla, and but for the clatern at the home of Mrs. Fred Newell, the fire engine would have been useless. foundation.

were produced from the County Clerk's office to show the effects of the single-tax plan upon various farmers of this locality. The District Attorney was present to explain measures that were complex. The meeting proved to be non-partisan, and created so much enthusiasm that another is planned for next Saturday.

There is little doubt but what the town meeting will be a permanent part of Prairie City's political plan, and will be on a well-organized plan, with committees to investigate certain subjects and authorities to back up conclusions.

WAS DELIBERATE SUICIDE

Hongkong Newspapers Tell Story of A. H. Rennie's Death.

Hong Kong papers that have been re-ceived in this city give particulars of the suicide of A. H. Rennie, the organizer and manager of the Junk Bay flour mills, and a man well known, at least by name, to all the millers and wheat dealers of the Northwest. As was briefly told in a cable message at the time, Mr. Rennie jumped overboard from a launch while crossing the bay from Hong Kong to his mill.

According to the China Mail, it was a case of deliberate suicide, as previous to leaving the city Mr. Rennie wrote a letter leaving the city Mr. Rennie wrote a letter to his wife, announcing his intention to take his life. Mr. Rennie was the only passenger on the launch, which was manned by Chinese, and their actions disproved any suspicions of foul play. A shor! time before embarking on the launch he had a stormy interview with a banker, and left the bank greatly excited, evidently having falled to make some business arrangements, and declaring that the world was against him. He embarked on the launch in the afternoon to visit the mill, as was his daily custom. When the boat reached Lyllmoon Pass, Rennie slipped a rope, to which was attached his tin document-box, over his head and plunged into the box, over his head and plunged into the box, over his head and plunged into the sea.

One of the Chinese crew jumped after him, but Rennie refused his assistance, and deliberately kept his head underwater. The Chinese sallors soon had him back in the launch, but the miller was unconscious. The launch hurried back to the Hong Kong wharf, under full steam, and dectors were at once summoned, but their attempt to restore animation was unsuccessful.

Parma, Idaho. The check was drawn on the First National Bank of Portland, but the local institution denies that Gatewood ever had a bank account with it. Gatewood is said to have represented to the Parma bank that he had large deposits with the First National Bank of Prineville. It appears that Gatewood did have a deposit with the Prineville bank at one time.

Vom Greenwald asserts that many complaints have come in of Gatewood's swindling operations about Parma. Gatewood is said to have been attempting to sell stocks in the Snake River Dredging Company, and in Gatewood Trading & Mining Company, neither of which companies, it is said, exists. It is said that although Gatewood claimed to have mines in Prineville, on the Snake River and near Holbrook, Cal, in reality he has no such property. He is being held at the County Jail.
