As soon as the news of the confession spread, people began to congregate about the city prison, where he was lodged, and tonight the growd became so large that the authorities considered it best to take precautions to insure the safety of the prisoner. Terwilger and his wife had rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nutter. This morning one of the members of the family went to the room to call the couple for breakfast. Getting no response, the door was forced and Mrs. Terwilger was found lying upon the bed dead. Her tongue protruded from her mouth and there were finger marks on her throat, indicating clearly that she had been choked to death.

Suspicion at once pointed to the husband. He had been heard to leave the room shortly after midnight, but no unusual noises had been heard. Later he was arrested.

It was learned that Terwilger had been crinking yesterday and that he went home in the evening under the influence of intoxicants. His wife asked him for money and he declared that he did not have any to give her, whereupon she is said to have twitted him for his inshillity to provide for her. Terwilger had been out of work. A quarrel ensued, and Terwilger, according to his admissions grabbed her by the throat as she one out of work. AFRICAN REPUBLIC PLEADS

Delegation Seeks Ald and Counsel From Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON. May 24.—Secretary Root has made an appointment to receive Tuesday afternoon a delegation representing the Republic of Liberia, which has come from the West Coast of Africa to ask counsel and ald in the many troubles which have continuously beset the effort to colonize the freed states of Africa. It is admitted that Liberia is, from the standpoint of na-tions, in a hopeless condition. Her lat-est tribulation is in effect an ultimatum from England to maintain a better gov. from England to maintain a better gov-ernment. Although the United States is virtually responsible for the exist-ence of Liberia, diplomatic history shows that this Government has hest-tated to stand sponsor for the little republic before the world.

Just what is to be the outcome of the present appeal to the United States for sid is a question upon which officials will undertake to throw no light. That there is a feeling of sympathy is apparent, and that the position of the United States with reference to the weak republic is one which would seem to demand a measure of consideration from us, was a fair conclusion.

MARK PACKAGES IN FULL

RAILROADS PUT ADDITIONAL BURDEN ON SHIPPERS.

Initial and Hieroglyphic Markings Barred on Less Than Carloads of Freight.

May 24.-(Special.)-Besides determining to increase freight rates 10 per cent, the railroads in the 'official classification" territory have agreed to add considerably to the burdens of the shippers of package freight At the same meeting at which the rate increases were decided upon, the representatives of more than 400 railroads agreed that after July 1 they will not receive for shipment any packages in less than carload lots which are not marked plainly with the name of the consignee, the station and state of consignee, the station, city and state of

It is estimated that this action will It is estimated that this action will save the railroads in the territory east of the Ohio River to the seaboard, at least $2.000,000 annually in loss and damage claims. On the other hand, it will cost the shippers of package freight probably as much, or even more, to perform the actual work required in marking the shipments as quired in marking the shipments as prescribed by the railroads. It is also stated by the shippers that it will make impossible any secrecy regarding the identity of the customers of any business house.

On the contrary, any business house may, after the new rules go into effect, station men at railroad warehouses and learn in detail all about the shipments learn in detail all shout the shipments of competitors, to whom shipped and in what amounts. That this will have a tremendous effect upon this class of business is confidently asserted.

It has been the custom of the shippers to mark their packages with an initial or some hieroglyphic, the key to which is to be found on the bill of lading. It was the theory that this lading. It was the theory that this would save the time and labor of the shipper and throw a certain amount of secrecy around the conduct of his

The railroads claim, however, that this has led to great abuses and to an indiscriminate mixing of packages at transfer points. Owing to the fact that there was no means of identification, great confusion resulted, and also delay, which in turn resulted in increased claims for loss of freight. It is stated by the Pennsylvania's representatives, for example, that on the lines east of Pittsburg last year that company paid out a total of $262,520 on claims for goods lost in transit, which was an increase of $4 per cent over the amount of the previous year.

Senator Bourne Also Wears Out His Welcome at the White House.

Results of "Second Elective Term Booming and the Persistent Villifying of Secretary Taft.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, D. C., May 24.—Hon. Jona-than Bourne. Jr., Senator from Oregon, but better known as the originator and chief promoter of the "second-elective crusade, accomplished more than he intended when he undertook to re nominate and re-elect President Roose-with Taft in the White House and resting under the suspicion of the majority in the Senate, Senator Bourne does not face a particularly bright future in his legislative career. When Sepator Bourne entered upon

"second-elective-term" he was confident of winning out. In the promotion of that campaign, Bourne spent unknown quantities of money, wrote thousands of letters, gave out innumerable interviews, and ex-

out innumerable interviews, and exhausted every means at his command to check the tide toward Taft.

Had the "second-elective-term" movement been a success, Mr. Bourne's efforts might have availed him something; the President could not well ignore him, but the course pursued by the Oregon Senator was particularly unfortunate for him as things turned out. fortunate for him, as things turned out, For a time, Senator Bourne had hope that President Roosevelt would remain slient, and let the people have their way. But no sooner had the "second-elective-term" movement gained head-way than the President came out with a statement that removed all doubt as to his purpose. This did not deter Sento his purpose. This did not deter Sen.

days, but the blow had no lasting effect. Soon he was as active as ever, and apparently on as good terms with the President.
But the President did not reliab Mr.

Bourne's clamerings, and he said as much on many occasions. Neither did the President appreciate the Senator's repeated slaps at Secretary Taft, and his reiterated declaration that Bryan, if nominated by the Democrats, could defeat Taft in the November election.

Notwithstanding this change of heart Notwithstanding this change of heart in Mr. Roosevelt, Senator Bourne con-tinued his cails at the White House, though in the past few weeks he has been there not at all. Just before Senstor Bourne's visits ceased a Western Senator went into the President's office as Bourne was leaving. The President looked after Bourne till the door had closed, then he turned to his new caller, saying: "Senator, do you know that after Bourne, Beveridge is a real relief." The significance of this statement is understood when it is known that Senator Beveridge is one of the most tiresome men in Congress.

In the United States Senate Mr. Bourne's "econd elective term" campaign has always been regarded as a joke. Not a Senator in the body agreed with Bourne; not a Senator indorsed his propaganda. On the contrary, it was regarded by many as a lavish use of money for the puropse of exploiting—not Rossevelt, but Bourne.

The Senate's estimate of Bourne was Roosevelt, but Bourne.

The Senate's estimate of Bourne was not improved by the course he pursued in the late Oregon campaign, for the Senate is satisfied that the junior Senator was in no small degree responsible for the defeat of the senior Oregon Senator and that defeat was anything but ator, and that defeat was anything but pleasant news to the older members of that body. Bourne's campaign for "Btatement No. 1" satisfied the Senate that be is not a party man, and if his activities should result in the election of a Democratic Senator from an overwhelming Republican state, he need never expect to be forgiven by the majority in the Senate. In their eyes auch a thing is unpardonable, and if, as is possible, Mr. Bourne has a Democratic colleague in the next Congress, Mr. Bourne will find himself out in the cold. There are times when a Senator need not be a party man, but on party issues, and when the party's interests are at stake he must fall in line. There never was a Senator r, and that defeat was anything fall in line. There never was a Senator bigger than his party and Mr. Bourne is not looked upon as an exception to Senator Bourne has nearly five years longer to serve in Congress. If Taft is elected President, and Governor Chamberlain (Democrat) is elected United States Senator from Gregon to succeed Mr. Fulton, the chief engineer of the defunct "second elective term" campaign will find very hard sledding in Washington, for a member of the majority party who is an outcast among his colleagues, and who is much the same thing at the White House, has no influence worth men-

The result has been that Senator Fulion has had the entire responsibility for looking after Oregon appropriations in the Senate, and he and Representatives Hawley and Ellis have worked without Senator Bourne's aid before conference committees that framed up all appropriation bills. Conditions are improving at La Guayra owing to the spiendid efforts of the Mer-Thants' Club, which succeeded in raising considerable money and securing a large quantity of supplies to aid the destitute and fight the disease.

But notwithstanding the efforts of this committee there are at least 1500 destitute persons in that place depending absolutely on charity. At the present time the funds are practically exhausted but with the reopening of the port it is expected that the improvement in conditions will be immediate.
