THE MORNING OREGONIAN, MONDAY, MAY 25, 1908. 8 part of this discourse we are told that we are not to lay up treasure upon earth, where moth and rust corrupt, and where thiswas brank through and steal. From our modern point of view, this seems about the most im-practical thing that our Lord ever com-manded. We are all trying to lay up treasures for ourselves in these modern times. Treasures they's courselves in these modern times. All COME HERE IN 1909 PORTLAND BUSINESS DIRECTORY SEEK TO DEFEAT PROPOSED LAW manded. We are all trying to hay up treasures for ourselves in these molern times. Treasures itself occupies the center of the stage. All things of life are grouped about it is being of lesser importance. Volumes are written about treasure, about its output and istake; about the laws which govern its ebb and flow. The intellectual and spiritual progress of a thousand years is a great thing, but it has been accompanied by the desire for treasure all the way. The man who is to give the greatest uplift to civilization in the future will not be he who discovers the unification of the elements, or even the chemical sources of life. If will not be he who drafts great have or devices great treaties. If will not be he who con-quors disease and pushes hack death; but it will be that man who, by the power of his spiendid imagination, by the power of his words and of his life, shall lead his follow men into the civilization of Jeans Christ.
