BEAVERS HOOK UP WITH SEALS TODAY

Portland Should Take Series From San Francisco, if Dope Counts.

TOP OF LADDER IN SIGHT

Picking a Pennant-Winner at This Stage of Season Hard Task, and Any of the Four Teams Is Justified in Counting on Prize.

BY W. J. PETRAIN.

After grabbing six straight games from Los Angeles and Oakland in a two weeks' series, during which the rain interfered considerably, McCredie's huskies finally suffered a defeat Sunday at the hands of that ever dangerous crowd of Oaklanders. The defeat was one wherein no fault can be found, for "Rasty" Wright simply outpitched "Bud" Pernoll. The latter, even though defeated, showed plenty of class, but it was not on the cards for Portland to win, and the newly christened Athenians hit the rattlers for home with one up their sleeve, which was somewhat better than the record made here by the Angelic band.

All kinds of "ifs" were indulged in before the results of Sunday's contests became known. If Portland had won the joyous fans would have seen their club leap from last place to the premiership of the league in one lone week, a week, by the way, wherein only a portion of the games scheduled were played—but fate decreed otherwise, and fandom must rest content until the result of the series with San Francisco is known.

On its last appearance here the Seal brigade hooked a couple of the trio played, and on that account many of the skeptical ones have been voicing visions of Mac's talent again decorating the abyss. Beware, ye skeptics! That aggregation of husky swat artists is not going to be trimmed as handily by the Seals as some of the hammer brigade imagine. Portland should take the series, if dope counts.

Groom on Firing-Line Today.

Walter McCredie will probably open the series with Cap. Mohler's outfit by sending Robert Groom, him of the attenuated soupbone, against the wallopers from the Golden Gate. Sir Robert is the candy kid when pitted against the Mohler, Melchoir, Hildebrand tribe. Slivers Henley, the tall, lanky chap who beat Bobby Groom out in an avoirdupois contest because he carried a hunk of chewing tobacco in his hip pocket, was the successful gunner against McCredie in the opener, but Tom Raftery, Hal Danzig, "Count" Bassey, Pearl Casey, Jack Ryan, Tom Madden and a few other willow wielders of Portland seem to have a decided hunch that the lanky Seal is due for a little bad luck.

"We don't wish you any harm, Slivers, old boy, but if you have the misfortune to have your fence ball in working order, some husky-lunged fans of this burg will not be overly sorrowful." Such is the manner in which Henley will be received on his arrival this morning. Oscar Jones—well Oscar may beat us, but we doubt it, and if there is anything in history repeating itself, the man who dispensed gloom in large chunks for the Portland fans on April 4, will not get away with a similar proposition on McCredie's home lot.

And maybe there won't be a bunch of the rabid ones out in force today to extend the gladsome welcome to big, genial Jack O'Connell, the kingpin of umpires on the Pacific Coast. Big Jack will make his first appearance in Portland in something like four years, and when he makes his little salaam previous to announcing the batteries, he will be required to make a speech. "Truck" Eagan says that the extent of O'Connell's "speechifying" is "Hello, fellows," but if he only says that much it will be appreciated.

Open Season for Seal-Skinning.

The enemy in our midst this week should not prove a formidable foe, for the reason that they have just wound up a series in which they got handsomely trimmed in five out of seven by Cap. Dillon's Angelic herd. The seraphic outfit took the Seals into camp in the opener and had them on the run the balance of the week, therefore it behooves the Portland bunch to emulate their example. Get the opener on the Seals and the rest will be easy.

Trying to pick a pennant winner in the Pacific Coast League is very much like a blind man attempting to buck the shell game. Every team in the league has a chance, and Van Haltren's Oakland crew is just as likely to prove the champion team as is Portland, San Francisco or Los Angeles, and the race is likely to remain a close one throughout the season, unless some club suffers the misfortune to have its good men crippled so badly as to prevent their playing for a long period.

Vancouver (B. C.)	10	17	.370

Seattle 5; Aberdeen 1.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 25.—(Special.)—Emil Frisk won the game for Seattle today in the fifth inning when with one run in and the bases loaded, Califf had to put the ball square over the fence for the circuit. Gamble, a new recruit of California, pitched for Seattle and was effective, though very wild. He lost the plate altogether in the ninth and one run was scored on a wild pitch. With two out, he was retired and Rush struck out the last man. Califf pitched a good game with the exception of the disastrous fifth, when four hits, including Frisk's homer, netted five runs. He was in trouble on two other occasions, but fast double plays saved him. The score:

Aberdeen	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1	3	3

Batteries—Gamble, Rush and Stanley; Califf and Spencer.

Vancouver 8-8; Tacoma 0-1.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 25.—(Special.)—Vancouver won twice from Tacoma today. The morning game was a shutout for the visitors, the locals scoring 8 runs. The afternoon game stood 8 to 1.

Walla Walla 8; Pendleton 2.

PENDLETON, Or., May 25.—(Special.)—Walla Walla won in a walk today, defeating the locals by a score of 8 to 2. Cross, the new pitcher for Pendleton, was decidedly wild, walking six men and making four wild pitches. He and Catcher Munson were both off color and their work took all the ginger out of the other members of the team. The game was lost despite eight hits and the eight errors of their opponents. Hits, Pendleton 8, Walla Walla 9; errors, Pendleton 3, Walla Walla 8.

Amusements

What the Press Agents Say.

The Value of Laughter.

Laughing is one of the greatest Spring tonics ever discovered by man, and the largest quantity for the least price can be had at the Baker this week, where the popular stock company is presenting George Broadhurst's famous farce, "Why Smith Left Home."

"Sweethearts and Wives."

This week the Armstrong Company at the Star Theater is presenting a new and amusing musical comedy, "Sweethearts and Wives." The patrons of the house declare that it is the best bill that has yet been given. There are new songs and dances and several specialties.

Fun at the Oaks.

These beautiful sunshiny days are attracting great crowds to the Oaks this week. The fact that there are but a few more days of the stay of Breton and his thrilling flying auto ride, and the famous Tyrolean singers and dancers is the reason why you should go today.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

John Drew Next Friday.

The attraction at the Heilig Theater, Fourteenth and Washington streets, next Friday and Saturday nights, May 29-30, will be the distinguished American actor, John Drew and his excellent company, included in which are Miss Billie Burke, Miss Dorothy Tennant, Ferdinand Gottschalk and many others, in the delightful comedy, "My Wife." Matinee Saturday.

CAUGHT TRYING TO STEAL

Nightwatchmen Find Two Burglars in Store and Nab One.

Burglars broke into the liquor store of M. Jacobs & Co., corner of Fifth and Pine streets, shortly before 10 o'clock last night. They were discovered by Deputy Sheriffs Parker and Yost, who are employed as special watchmen in that neighborhood. One of the men, who gave the name of Andrew Johnson, 26 years of age, a Swede, was caught in the store, while the other made his escape by breaking for the street and mixing with the crowd in front of the Oregon Hotel. The two men had been in the place but a few moments and had not had time to get any loot.

An open door in the rear led to the burglars' discovery. They had forced this door and then incautiously forgot to close it after them. The watchmen noticed it and entered. Parker grabbed and held his man but Yost was not quite so fortunate.

GIVES BAD ADVICE

Spiritualist Charged With Underhanded Methods.

SHADY ETHICS ALLEGED

Accused of Having Advised Medium to Resist Payment of License, With Purpose of Making Trouble.

That Mrs. Virginia Roe, vice-president of the Oregon State Spiritualists' Association, who was recently arrested for failure to abide by the city ordinance requiring the paying of a quarterly license for the privilege of practicing mediumship, took her stand upon the advice of Harrison D. Barrett, spiritualist lecturer and disputed pastor of the First Spiritual Society of Portland, was alleged yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Sophia Selp, president of the state organization.

That Barrett was her counsellor Mrs. Roe admits and lays the blame for her arrest at his door. It is alleged that Barrett's motive in advising Mrs. Roe not to pay the license was for the purpose of causing her arrest and thereby having the pleasure, so it is said, of seeing the woman made an object of notoriety. Barrett believed, it is alleged, this would injure the standing of other spiritualist mediums whom he was secretly fighting.

In addition to advising Mrs. Roe not to pay her license, it is charged that he has been playing politics at the expense of the state spiritualist association. For many months the ordinance regulating the practice of mediumship by license was not enforced and spiritualists were allowed to practice their belief and doctrines undisturbed. In addition to other things they charge that it was Barrett who agitated the enforcement of the ordinance for the purpose of satisfying his own selfish desires by having the spiritualist mediums subjected to humiliation and imposition. Barrett, it has been contended, is only a spiritualist lecturer and has been opposed to mediums, because, it is alleged, they injured his chance of drawing large crowds at his own meetings.

Mrs. Rowe, who is now out on $25 bail, will be given a hearing in the Police Court today. She will plead guilty to the charge against her, it was stated yesterday, and depend on the leniency of the court. She says:

"I had the money and would have paid the license, but realizing that the ordinance made it a little hard on us, I went to Barrett for advice. He was supposed to be a friend of ours—at least he had been pretending that he was such, and I thought him the best person to go to when the issue arose. It appears that all the time he was working against us. He advised me not to pay the license, saying that he would see that it was fixed up. I thought nothing more of the matter until I was arrested at my apartments a week ago."

At the time she was arrested, Mrs. Roe was visiting with Mrs. J. H. Baylor, a prominent spiritualist, and proprietor of the Osborn Hotel, on the East Side. She was taken to jail, and between the two women the bail money was made up. She was formally arraigned in the Police Court last Tuesday, but her case was put over a week.

TO FORCE CURRENCY BILL

ator Aldrich that they were ready to talk for a month to prevent any feature of the Vreeland bill from becoming law.

Although Speaker Cannon was supposed to father the compromise movement, it met with decided opposition in the House. Representative Burton, of Ohio, one of the Republican conferees on the bill, had opposed the Aldrich measure and was pledged to a considerable following to do all he could to prevent the adoption of any of its principles.

Signs of Deep-Laid Plot.

Conceding that the Democrats of the Senate will not yield, the chance for legislation is slight. It is in such a contingency that, according to the belief of many, public demand is expected to play a strong part.

Whatever the result may be, the leaders in that body insist today that they will not accept the Aldrich bill unless the Vreeland provision for issuance of circulation based on commercial paper is retained as the alternate provision.

That Speaker Cannon entertains hopes that there will yet be an agreement is indicated by the fact that the sergeant-at-arms of the House has been asked not to leave the city until final adjournment has been decided upon, and in some few cases members who have already gone home have been asked to come back.

Bartholdt Waves Big Stick.

Bartholdt of Missouri, chief of the House managers in the conference on the public buildings bill, made the following statement late today to the Associated Press:

I served notice on the Speaker today that I could not call up the conference report on the public buildings bill until a satisfactory currency bill had been passed. The conferees on this bill have reached a final agreement, and their report has been adopted by the Senate. I told the Speaker that my constituents, especially Republicans, are urging on me with much vigor the absolute necessity of enacting at this session an emergency currency measure, and I agreed with them and I believe, with a majority of the thinking people of the country, that such legislation is necessary to restore financial confidence and guard against recurrence of panic conditions. The Speaker's reply was that no one could force me to present the conference report.

Starve Out Recalcitrants.

The situation is this: The country is looking to the Republican party to pass an emergency currency bill. Congress has been in session six months and has failed to agree on a currency measure. If we adjourn without doing anything more than creating a currency commission, it will be up to the Republican party to make embarrassing excuses if panic conditions recur this Fall; furthermore, a Presidential campaign approaches.

I have the report of the conferees on the public buildings bill in my pocket. I am going to keep it there until a satisfactory currency bill has been passed. The House and Senate conferees on currency are at the threshold of a tentative compromise. There is no reason why they should not agree and why we should not enact this agreement into law. I for one am willing to stay here all Summer, if necessary, to "starve out any recalcitrant group or faction."

Commenting on the report that Senators Teller and Culberson had announced their intention to filibuster against the adoption of any features of the Vreeland bill, one of the House conferees said:

"The only potent interpretation of this attitude is that the Democratic Senate managers now propose the Aldrich bill or nothing. If this be their attitude and they maintain it, of course there will be no currency legislation beyond that creating a commission."

Demands Sanction of Treaty.

RIO JANEIRO, May 25.—President Penna has sent to Congress a message demanding its sanction of the treaty recently adjusted with the United States, which protects the right of naturalized citizens who return to the country of their birth.

Voice and Violin at the Heilig

Mrs. Pauline Miller-Chapman and William Wallace Graham Render Difficult and Pleasing Programme.

MRS. PAULINE MILLER-CHAPMAN, mezzo-soprano, made her initial appearance before a Portland audience in the Heilig Theater last night, assisted by William Wallace Graham, violinist. Mrs. Chapman's voice is of rare quality and was shown to advantage in a varied programme of English, German and Italian songs. Mrs. Chapman formerly resided in Chicago, where she held a prominent place in music circles. She has appeared in concert in Berlin and other European music centers. For several years she has been in charge of the department of vocal music in Pacific University at Forest Grove.

Mrs. Chapman's selections included a group of German songs, sung with delightful abandon and charm of sentiment. Her most difficult number was the aria from Donizetti's "La Favorita." Her rendering of this showed to advantage the richness of her lower tones as well as the brilliancy of her upper register. Dvorak's melancholy "Songs My Mother Taught Me" was one of the gems of the programme, eliciting an encore.

William Wallace Graham, violinist, who has also met with success abroad, after his absence of two years, was warmly greeted. His opening number, the Sonata, op. 21, No. 2 (D minor), by Niels W. Gade, showed his wonderful command over his instrument. Mr. Graham's bowing is strong and smooth and the technique of his left hand is flexible and sure. He plays with good feeling for music that is communicated to his audience. The "Ciaccona," by Bach, for violin, alone gave him a chance to display his technique to good advantage.

Miss Wilma Waggener's accompaniments for both Mrs. Chapman and Mr. Graham, were intelligent and adequate.

Following is the complete programme:

Sonata op. 21, No. 2 (D minor).....Neils W. Gade
Adagio, allegro di molto; Larghetto, allegro vivace; Larghetto, allegro vivace, larghetto; Adagio, allegro moderato; Allegro molto vivace.

Praise for Portland Writer.

Miss Anne Shannon Monroe has received the following appreciative letter from Edward Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, in regard to an article by Miss Monroe published in the May number of that magazine:

May 11, 1908.

Dear Miss Monroe: I have several times had it in mind to write to you personally and say how much I enjoyed the reading of your article which we published in the May number of the Ladies' Home Journal under the title of "When a Girl Has No Business to Marry." It was a pleasure for me to read this article in manuscript and a greater pleasure to accept it for publication, and I shall indeed be disappointed if you fail to think of us in connection with any further work you may do along lines which you think would be of interest to us. You may always feel assured that anything you send to us will be read with nine leanings in its favor after the writing of such an excellent article. Believe me, very cordially yours,

EDWARD BOK.
