REPUBLICANS END CAMPAIGN IN CITY

Lowell and McGinn Appeal to Voters to Support the Party Ticket.

JUDGE WILLIAMS IN CHAIR

Attacks Non-Partisan Plea of Governor Chamberlain and Censures Him for Not Attending the Recent Conference.

Eloquent appeals for party loyalty and the support of the entire teket were made by Judge S. A. Lowell, and Judge Henry E. McGinn, of this city, the two principal speakers at the final Republican rally at the Empire Thea-ter last night. Judge George H. Wilter last night. Judge George H. Willams presided as chairman of 'he meeting, which was largely attended. Brown's band and an orchestra furnished music, and Municipal Clerk Frank D. Hennessy sang two solos.

The fallure of the committee on arrangements to provide decorations for the stage did not detract from the earnestness with which the speakers presented the importance of Monday's election, and the need for every Republican to prove his loyality to party by supporting its nominees. Judge Willams was presented as chairman of the meeting by J. P. Kennedy, chairman of the Republican county central committee. Governor Chamberlain's mask of non-partisanship was torn to shreds by Judge Williams, who, in a short introductory address, declared there was no such thing in the National Congress as a non-partisan. tional Congress as a non-partisan.

Would Be Without Influence.

Any attempt on the part of a United

Any attempt on the part of a United States Senator to enact such a role, he said, would win for that member the repudiation of both political parties and completely destroy any natural influence he might otherwise have had. Judge Williams pointed out that the election of Governor Chamberlain as Senator would amount to a disapproval and a condemnation of President Roosevelt's policies which were indorsed by almost every Republican in the state. He emphasized that the election of a Democrat as United States Senator from the State of Oregon, which had for years been regarded as one of the strongest Republican states in the Union, would have a disastrous influence on the Presidential election in November.

"In Monday's election the question to be decided is whether Oregon shall remain a Republican state or whether we shall turn the state over to the Democratic party," said Judge Williams. "That is the real issue presented when we have removed the various means of deception that have been injected into the situation. Governor Chamberlain would have you helieve there is no party issue in the election of a United States Senator, but the activity of the Democrats in seeking his election and that of all the other candidates on their ticket belies that contention. There is no such a thing as a non-partissan in Congress, and if you elect Governor Chamberlain Senator you will find that he will be as much of a Democrat as John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, is in the House, or Senator Culberson, of Texas, in the Senate.

Can Offer No Excuse.

Nill a Republican majority of 20,000 for Roosevelt, what excuse or apology can I make to the other delegates for the election in Oregon at this time of a Democratic United States Senator? The Republicans of this state next Monday will elect a large majority of the mem-Republicans of this state next Monday will elect a large majority of the members of the state Legislature, and if at the same election they elect Chamberlain as their United States Senator, they will be forcing their state Legislators to vote for the very man for the United States Senate whom they do not want."

Judge Lowell made an elequent ad-

Judge Lowell made an eloquent address, appealing, not as a partisan, but as an Gregorian, for the support by Republicans of their ticket, especially in the election of a United States Senator. He called attention to the extent of the indeveloped resources of the state, its forests, water power and mineral deposits. Referring to the need for the conservation of these resources by legislation and the domand for generous appropriations for the improvement and maintenance of rivers and harbors, Judge Lowell argued that these ends could only Lowell argued that these ends could only served through Congress, which was w dominated by the Republicans,

Need United Delegation.

The magnitude of Oregon's interests and its needs, Judge Lowell insisted, demanded that the state be represented at Washington by a united delegation that would be in harmony with the majority and be in a position to secure for the state what was demanded in the way of leavislation and appropriations. He view-would be in harmony with the majority and be in a position to secure for the state what was demanded in the way of legislation and appropriations. He vigorously criticised Governor Chamberlain for failing to attend the recent congress of Governors, which was held at Washington, when various matters of particular interest to the Western states were considered. He charged that the Governor was derelict in his duty as the chief executive of the state when he neglected to attend this important conference where he could have given his personal assistance to measures he was now advocating from the stump for the purpose of securing votes in his Senatorial candidacy. Mr. Lowell then explained briefly the committee system by which measures are introduced in Congress. He said:

"A bill in the first place is referred to a committee for consideration. Utilimately it is reported to the floor. They know they have a majority to enact it into law. The majority controls those committeemen and says what legislation they shall give the people. Under those circumstances where are the interests, or you, or me, as citizens of this commonwealth, to be considered in the next aix years on the floor of the Upper House of Congress? Exercise your reason. What considered the meaning party there? At this time we need many things; we need appropriations. We want this state to grow. In order to do this it must be represented by a member of the majority party there? At this time we need many things; we need appropriations. We want this state to grow. In order to do this it must be represented by a member of the majority party. This is not a question of charming personality—it is plainly a question of the interests of the people of the state of Oregon, your interests and the interests of the people of the state of Oregon, your interests and the interests of the people of the state of Oregon, your interests and the interests of the generation yet to come.

I can see upon her borders entry ports of trade. When that day shall come, her hand upon the Pacific Coast shall hold the scepter and her head shall wear the orown."

Mr. Lowell concluded his address with the following tribute to President Roosevelt:

"There sits in the Executive chair at Washington a man who is more dis-tinctly representative of the true ideals of America than any man since the great Lincoln. The principles which he represents have become the hopes of the American fireside. They are the the American fireside. They are the same ideas which have obtained in your home and mine. In the grand eirele of the American family throughout the length and breadth of this fair land, the people waited anxiously for a leader with courage to reflect the sentiments of the average American citizen, and he came. The question now is whether or not you are to sustain the principles he fosters or repudiate them. If the wires next Monday shall announce the victory of the Republican candidate it will publish to the great East that the policies of the interests have been repudiated and the policies of Roosevelt have been enthroned."

Following Mr. Lowell's address Frank D. Hennessey sang an amusing song apropos of Judge Cameron, which created a thunder of applause.

Judge Williams them introduced Henry McGinn, as the concluding speaker of the evening.

Quotes From the Bible.

The speaker prefaced his remarks with an apt metapher from the book of Revelations to illustrate Governor Chamberlain's non-partisanship, in which the prophet declares that "whom the Lord finds neither hot nor cold, He shall spew out of his mouth." He said: which the prophet declares that "whom the Lord finds neither hot nor cold, He shall spew out of his mouth." He said:

"The Governor has worked both sides of the street and the middle of the street long enough. He is not going to work it any longer. If there ever was an attempt at playing all sides and every way it has been employed by Governor Chamberiain. When he wants to get office he becomes a non-partisan. If he goes to the United States Senate will he be a Republican or a Democrat? will he work for Roosevelt before or for Judge Parker? It is known that he was out and out for Parker, and you may be sure he will be out and out for Bryan after this election is over. He has never mentioned Bryan's name until last night. It is also to be noted that he is not putting on his posters the fact that he is a Democrat. He doesn't mention the name of Mr. Bryan but after this election he will go back to his first love and begin to do his first work.

"When I heard Judge Williams tonight tell of the days when he helped to establish the Republican party in this state, in those dark days that tried men's souls. I could not but wonder if when Sunter was fired on a man could have said I am a non-partisan; if when the Natlon was in the throes of disruption, there could be a self-respecting man who would say, I am neither for the North nor the South." "Tou can't be both ways. You must either be for the South or for the North flovernor Chamberlain was for the South then and he is with the South now, and he will be as long as he lives. What would you think of the State of Oregon, which has normally 25,000 Republicar majority—what would you think of the State of Oregon, is any if on Monday next it throws its vote for Mr. Chamberlain for United States Senator? What would the convention that meets in Chicago think of Oregon if it was announced that a Democrat for life—what will the people say if it should be that a Democrat has received the votes of the people of Oregon for the Important office of United States Senator? It will mea

Confronts Difficult Problem.

"There never was a more difficult problem of the services of a white blackbird, yet he expects to be a delegate to the Democratic National convention, where he will assist to nounfor whose election it may be depended upon he will labor faithfully. I shall go as a delegate to the Republican National convention, at Chicago, next month, and if Governor Chamberiain is elected Senator, I shall be ashamed of my state. With a Republican majority of 20,000 for Roosevelt, what excuse or spology can be desired as more difficult problem confronting the American people than there is at this time. It is the problem that Mr. Roosevelt is attempting to solve, that he has partially solved—the problem of the equality in opportunity for every man, woman and child in these United States. The question now is whether or not Oregon is going to help in the solution of that problem. What would Mr. Harriman vote for if he were a resident of Oregon? He would vote for Governor Chamberlain, of course; simply to embarrass the administration of Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr.

The election of Governor Chamberlain would mean that Oregon—a rock-ribbed Republican state—has repudiated the policies of the present executive. Mr. Chamberlain is for Mr. Roosevelt when it pays berlain is for Mr. Roosevelt, when it pays to be for Mr. Roosevelt, but he is for Mr. Roosevelt, but he is for Mr. Bryan all the time. If the Republicans of Oregon desire to see Mr. Bryan President of the United States the best way to bring about that result is to vote for Chamberlain. If he should be elected Senator, when he soes to the Democratic Convention at Denver next July, the reception he will get will make you feel ashamed that you ever called yourselves Republicans. Would Mr. Roosevelt, if he lived here, vote for Chamberlain? Would he under any circumstances you for Senator Tillman or John Sharpe Williams? Does anyone suppose that Mr. Chamberlain is any less of a Democrat than those men? De not deceive yourselves. Chamberlain and Other Party Candidates Speak in East Side Hall.

ADDRESS BY M. L. PIPES

Presents Candidacy of John Manning for Re-election and Tells of Prosecution of Portland Bank Officials.

The final Democratic rally of the present campaign was held last night at Hill's Hall, in Albina. Besides Governor Chamberiain, Walter C. Farnham, Tom Chamberlain, Walter C. Farnham, Tom Word, Ogleaby Young and Deputy District Attorney Haney were present and spoke. District Attorney Manning, Judge Thomas O'Day, A. King Wilson and John A. Jeffrey were on the programme, but did not speak. Martin L. Pipes took Mr. Manning's place and commended that official on his record in office.

Bishop Harkley, of Albina, presided at the meeting, introducing as the first speaker Mr. Farnham. He spoke for only five minutes, telling the audience that he was a firm advocate of Statement No. 1 and of government by the people. "I will support every popular measure which comes up in the Legislature which will benefit the people, if I am elected," he said.

Speech of Mr. Pipes.

Speech of Mr. Pipes.

Speech of Mr. Pipes.

Mr. Pipes was then introduced and said that, although Mr. Manning was not present, he had already spoken for himself in the manner in which he had conducted his office for the last two years. Mr. Pipes said that being employed as special counsel for Mr. Manning in the bank cases, he had been given an opportunity to see the efficient work of the District Attorney. Referring to the criticism of Mr. Manning for employing special counsel in the bank cases, Judge Pipes said it was only what any prduent man would do, if he were conducting his own affairs. He said in part:

"Mr. Manning has been criticised for calling special counsel in special litigation. I am here to defend him on a charge that ought not to have been preferred against him. Ought a District Attorney to employ special counsel? I am not so vain as to believe that in selecting me he made the best choice, but I think it was his duty to employ a special counsel in the most important littigation ever brought forward in Multnomah County; litigation to establish a principle which was never placed on a firm foundation until it was established by John Manning. That principle is that me matter how high a man may be in the church or in the community, he is not above the law. It was up to Mr. Manning to meet a situation which had never occurred in this county before.

"The District Attorney's office requires probably more fact, more knowledge of human nature, more firmness, and more honesty than any other office in the State of Oregon, and I will not except the Governorship. I believe Governor Chamberlain will concur with me in this statement, because he has twice been District Attorney himself. The man who gets through that office without having made serious mistakes and has done his duty by the citizens of the county is entitled to the approval of his constituents.

Office Calls for Tact.

Office Calls for Tact.

"In a city like Portland there are business disputes every day. Unfortunately it is one of the fallings of human nature for a man, when he gots into a controvery with his fellow, instead of bringing the litigation at his own expense, to go to the District Attorney's office. These are the things which the District Attorney's office must sift, that he may prosecute only those cases where the public welfare is at stake.

"John Manning has never been excelled

"John Manning has never been excelled by any of his predecessors in using that tact. The cases which he has prosecuted are those which should have been prose-cuted, and those which should have gone unprosecuted. If you will take the pains to investigate this matter, you will find that where complaint has been made it has come from those who have not re-ceived the attention in cases of this kind which they thought they deserved.

"This is not the first time I have been employed as special counsel, not only by employed as special counsel, not only by the District Attorney but the Attorney-General, so no criticism should be heaped upon Mr. Manning upon that score. Many others have also been employed at times as special counsel by various officials of the county and state.

Fought at Every Turn.

"If it were your own private business you would as a matter of prudence have special counsel, in order that it might be properly attended to. The District Attorney knew that these men would have funds enough—perhaps some of your funds—to employ the best legal talent to be found. That is just what they did. Demurrer after demurrer and motion after motion were thrust in to stave off the conviction of the indicted officials of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, but John Manning saw the case safely through. safely through.

"From the beginning of the investiga-tion into the affairs of the bank officials who embezzled the educational funds and throughout the trial, Mr. Manning exthroughout the trial, Mr. Manning exercised good judgment and tact. Before special assistance was employed on the case, he had spent weeks and months in investigating a voluminous record, and had the matter in shape, ready to present. The law was examined and an indictment drawn. It was an unusual one, too, because the law covering that question had never been tested in this county. In all of the many arguments, Mr. Manning appeared and succeeded in getting an indictment that would stick.
When the case went to Marion County and the testimony was presented, the jury passed upon the question of fact in your favor and in favor of the State of Oregon. Now the court has pronounced sentence on Ross.

Courage in Prosecutions.

Courage in Prosecutions.

"Mr. Manning "hould receive credit for nathing whome receive credit for having the courage to make an investigation of a bank in the position of that one in this city. There were many temptations and outlets to which a man of less firmness and less determination to be true to his oath of office might have yielded."

Judge Pines then and that it have yielded."

Judge Pipes then said that it was through the earnest efforts of Mr. Manning in behalf of the suffering depositors that he secured the underwriting of the bank, so that no depositor will lose the bank, so that no depositor will lose a dollar.

Tom Word followed and made an effort to show that during his administration the county was put to less expense than during that of Robert Stevens, the present Sheriff and Republicas candidate for re-election. He referred to remarks made the night previous by Messrs. Stapicton and Cole at the Republican relig.

Deputy District Attorney Haney followed and was in turn succeeded by Governor Chamberlain, who gave a stir-

The business of the campaign was ordered closed, with all bills paid and a comfortable balance on hand with which to renew the work on a better and more popular basis than ever before, if necessary, though the unanimous vote of the committee was to the effect that it believed the men of Oregon were too patriotic to compel a renewal of the women's struggle for liberty.

Resolutions were passed thanking the leading men of all political parties who had financed, circulated, signed and certified the initiative equal suffrage petitions in the interests of their mothers, wives, sisters, daughters and sweethearts. Miss Deama Clay of Kentucky, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell and the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, each received a vote of thanks for services rendered.
