UNION PROHIBITION RALLY.

The prohibition forces will hold a union rally Sunday night in Centenary Methodist Church, East Pine and East Ninth streets, which will wind up the public meetings in the interest of the movement to make it. East Side precincts dry. Several speakers will address this meeting. Good music will be provided. On election day the Anti-Saloon League will have workers at all polling places. Tickets will be placed near the polling places where coffee and sandwiches will be served. The precincts in which the local option society will be held have all been canvassed and the managers of the campaign for the Anti-Saloon League say they have a line on what the result will be. These precincts have been provided with literature and plastered with posters calling attention to the election. The Union men have not been idle, but are busy meeting the arguments of the temperance forces, their main contention being that to make the business sections of the East Side dry would drive business property without accomplishing anything for the cause.

RECEIVED NO REMUNERATION.

The executive committee of the Open River Association issued the following statement: "We have been advised that statements have been recently made in Gilliam, Sherman and Wheeler counties to the effect that N. V. Martin was not only paid a salary for his services as such secretary. This statement is absolutely without foundation. Judge Mariner has not only not been paid any salary, direct or indirect, but has subscribed liberally to the funds that have been raised. He has not even been supplied with stationery or stationery, furnishing them at his own expense. He has given his time at the expense of his own business, and has spent hundreds of dollars of his own money in the open river cause. No man could have done more for the people in this direction than he has, and we feel that it is but simple justice to make this public acknowledgment."

KNIGHTS GO TO SPOKANE.

Over 40 members of the local council Knights of Columbus left last night for Spokane, where the fourth annual convention will be conferred, upon a class of 600 Sunday. These men will remain in Spokane for a few days when they will return here accompanied by large delegations from Washington who will be entertained by the local council. One of the main features of the entertainment will be the Knights of Columbus mystery drama, "The Idol of Folly," at the Helios Theater, Monday evening, June 8. Among the party were the following: J. T. Miller. The little girl was seriously injured and lies in her home in a critical condition. The accident occurred while the child was crossing the street with her father. They had stopped to allow a car to pass when the wagon bore down on them, striking the little girl to the street with great violence. One of the wheels passed over her body. Mr. Hess filed a complaint with the police regarding the recklessness of the driver and said he would cause suit to be brought and bring damage proceedings against Henderson & Finch, owners of the tram.

CHRISTIANITY AND WOMAN

FATHER THOMPSON DISCUSSES SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

The Home, Where Woman Belongs by Nature, Is More Potent for Reform Than the Ballot. Catholic Sentinel.

GERMANS AND LIQUOR

Denial That All of Them Stand for the Saloon.

PORTLAND, Or., May 29.—(To the Editor): Mr. Ed. Alisky, whom I have not the pleasure of knowing personally, writes in most respects, in this morning's Oregonian, a sensible article setting forth the German-American's desire as he sees it to drink now and what he likes.

It is quite natural for one raised under the social order described to feel as he does relative to this matter. But Mr. Alisky errs in presuming that the condition of our body politic is not as healthy as we would all like to have it. The pro-suffragist insists that the extension of the ballot to women will have a tonic effect upon our political system.

It may not be superfluous to state at the outset that the Catholic Church has set forth no authoritative teaching on the subject. It is one of the many questions which have been left to work out their own solution. The opinion of a priest, therefore, as to the attitude of an individual and has not, even for dutiful Catholics, the practical cogency of authoritative guidance. This said, we shall not be easily misquoted.

That the possession of the ballot, even by those who are anxious to use it, would redound to the advantage of our state, we are well prepared to believe. We feel that the inevitable concomitants of political activity would introduce into the Nation's womanhood an element of discord which would augment neither her dignity nor her influence.

God has already laid upon womankind a fair share of responsibility, and we deem her time and talents best directed when consecrated to those duties which belong to her by nature.

A system which tends to develop manly qualities in feminine nature is at least an unworthy task. Ascendancy, whether in family, state or church, was not intended by the Creator to be vested in a woman, and history has never known a woman whose daily life was a pleading or otherwise, the fact is that the Scriptures bid wives be subject to their husbands, and since National Prohibition is a law of God, we cannot persuade ourselves that St. Paul would have changed the order in the affairs of state. In this connection women would do well to remember that Christianity has ever been to them a wise counsellor and faithful friend. The institution that has secured to woman her divinely bestowed rights ought to have a respectful hearing when it speaks of the proprieties of her sex. The premises of Christianity can hardly furnish a more fitting plea for God intended to mother to be politicians. If he did, the world has certainly been slow in finding it out.

CONSTABLE ASSISTS CUPID

Forecibly Reminds Seattle Groom of His Wedding Appointment.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 29.—(Special.)—George Cavillines, an usher at a local vaudeville house, and Miss Nellie Lutes, of Portland, were married yesterday by Justice of the Peace John E. Carroll. Cavillines was taken from the theater an hour before by Constable James Shannon and taken before Justice of the Peace Carroll, who had promised several weeks ago that he would marry Miss Lutes. He had apparently forgotten that yesterday he had to go to court. The constable girl had not asked the constable's assistance in reminding him of his promise. At Justice Gordon's Court he found the young woman, and an autocrat who had just been arrested for speeding, took the couple to Justice Carroll, who tied the nuptial knot.

SPRING STYLES HADAM SHOW at Rosenthal's

Two great concerts in Seattle, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, were not sufficient. The Damosch success was pronounced that he was immediately consulted about a return engagement. Every night having been filled many months ago, Sunday afternoon was agreed upon and the great orchestra will stop on its way to British Columbia to give the matinee. One of the interesting facts in connection with the Sunday return matinee is that Mr. Damosch will present the same programme which he worked so much for at the Seattle matinee which he has arranged for the Portland Thursday matinee, containing, among other numbers, the Liszt symphonic poem, "Les Preudes," the "Valse Leube" and "Pisicelli," from Delibes' "Sylvia." Then, too, there will be a violin concerto by Vieuxtemps, played by the soloist, Saschky, the choralists, "Satan's Chair," "The Rain," David, and the much-requested March Slav, Tchaikowsky.

The Wednesday evening programme contains the Beethoven symphony and Thursday night is all Wagner. The concerts are to be in the Army June 3 and 4 under the direction of Lois Steers-Wynn Coman. Seats for all concerts now selling at Sherman, Clay & Co.

NO BLAME ON WILLIAMS

Jury Exonerates Him for Death of W. H. Bigelow.

At an inquest held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Deputy Coroner A. L. Pinley and a Coroner's jury the death of W. H. Bigelow, alleged horse thief and drunkard, who died in the Good Samaritan Hospital early Thursday morning following an assault in the McAllister rooming-house, Third and Flanders streets, the following verdict was found: "That W. H. Bigelow came to his death from a fracture of the skull which was caused by a blow struck by one Fred Williams, and we further find no reason to blame the said Fred Williams."

THE HOME, WHERE WOMAN BELONGS BY NATURE, IS MORE POTENT FOR REFORM THAN THE BALLOT.

Those who have adopted the maxim that nature which concerns humanity is unworthy of consideration, will be inclined to give some thought to the question of woman suffrage. Indeed, the elementary duties of citizenship are properly of such a course independently of personal interest or inclination.

We believe that we state the case correctly when we say that the present endeavors in behalf of woman suffrage have their genesis in the patent fact that the condition of our body politic is not as healthy as we would all like to have it. The pro-suffragist insists that the extension of the ballot to women will have a tonic effect upon our political system.

the lodging-house for the night. He heard the screams of a woman and running to the scene, found Bigelow fighting with Mary Kieker, the landlady of the house, a disorderly woman. Williams stepped between them and pushed Bigelow away. Bigelow fell, his head striking with great force and resulting in his death. This finding exonerates Williams from all blame and he was released from the City Jail on recommendation of Deputy District Attorney Haney.
