BY WILL G. MACRAE Any old time you get these alleged wise birds making prophecies you can just gamble your pennies that some one is going to cut the string. Ruby Randolph, a slasher who has been earning salary in the Coast League for a season or two, whose scarlet hair has often flashed from the Vaughan street playground diamond, yesterday broke the hoodoo and won his first game from Portland by their own fire-side. Just how the passionate-topped one came to perform this feat is easy relating. His short and stout body Groom was as wild as a country miss with her first Merry Widow lid.

Groom's distress flag was floating from the first to the last inning and he was always in trouble. Ruby Randolph was trying the same kind of fat, but he managed to put on the sand and the brakes when the hoodoo was chesty. Captain Dillon's men slid the first one over in the fifth. Delmas and Randolph heaved a couple of two-base hits into this chapter, yet, in spite of the long-distance clouts, the sejourners might not have registered, but for Madden's wild peg. The attempt was a short strike thrown. It missed fire and Cooney also and Randolph scored.

With two down in our half of the sixth, Madden covered up his blunder by scoring the tying run. He rapped out a daisy single and then Randolph walked Groom. Casey duplicated his trick of Sunday and came through with the necessary pinch hit to beat the hoodoo, by a record-breaking sprit and a great slide, scored.

With the game in a jam things moved along to the sixth. Here we had a chance to save the false prophets from becoming members of the Ananias Club. Rattery was safe on Dillon's miss of his shot and Randolph's hit to third with a two-py swat. An attempted squeeze injured Rattery and he dived at the plate. Only one down and Rattery up, but Bates and deep hit sent 'em, so he took a full course of treatment in the ozone room. Randolph walked Cooney and then Madden struck out the third strike down foot high.

The two runs that Los Angeles made in the ninth came easy. With the pegs full Randolph hit a scorcher to Johnson who got away from Smith, who who got on the stations via a two-base wallop. Groom walked Delmas and Hogan, and Oakes was a dead one when Hasey hit a home run for the first. With two in pickle and the bases still bulging, Groom walked Wheeler, forcing Delmas home. McCredie tried to open things up in the ninth, but two were tucked away in both balls and the manager went out on an infield hit. We're not leading the league.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 2.—(Special.)—The University of Washington carmen won the rowing championship of the Coast this afternoon by defeating the University of California eight over a three-mile course on Lake Washington by five lengths; time, 17 minutes, 10 seconds.

The defeat was decisive and the Washingtonians showed better form, better condition and better generalship. California hit up 40 strokes to the minute, with Washington rowing 34, but could not hold it. The visiting crew led for the first mile, but Washington then closed up and Coach Garnett, of the California crew, who was following in the official boat, acknowledged that the race was over. From the first mile on, Washington steadily drew away, rowing in beautiful form, while the California carmen's work became slightly ragged.

Aside from the work of Kuykendall, Moon and Huston, in the hurdles and sprints, the showing of Oregon's weight department was very gratifying, for out of nine places in these events, Oregon secured seven. Bantz, of Washington, getting first in the discus throw and third in the hammer. Moullen surprised his admirers by putting the shot 33 feet 6 inches and securing first place over Zacharias and McIntyre. "Zach" regained his lost form in the hammer and carried off the honors with a nice toss of 145 feet 2 inches. McIntyre raised his own record in the discus throw from 115 feet 8 inches to 118 feet 5 inches, but was nosed out of first by Bantz, of Washington, who secured a boost worth 119 feet 6 inches. Gardiner, of Oregon, was as consistent as ever in the hammer throw, getting second place by this position he has secured in every meet Oregon has had this year.

Lowell, the local 440 man, gave Egmondson, of Idaho, a good tussle in the quarter, while Roberts, the freshman hurdler, did good work in the 100 and low hurdles, being beaten for second place by Montgomery, of Idaho, in the latter event by a scant 6 inches. Oregon's distance men, Downs, May and Dodson, did not come up to expectations, seemingly not being in good condition. Downs and May have both done the 880 in close to 2:02 this year, while May was only beaten two feet in this mile by Davolt of Oregon Agricultural College, in 4 minutes 42 seconds, but distance men cannot stand trips as well as sprinters and hurdlers, and it is thought this was the reason Oregon's endurance department did not make a better showing.

Oregon did not enter a relay team, Trainer Hayward not caring to overwork his men. The University now holds the championship of the Northwest, including the States of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, yet the distinction is getting to be so usual that not much "huzzah" is made about the honor by local enthusiasts.

COURT has decided that a husband must take his wife to the ball games when she wants to go. Here in Portland it isn't necessary for a court's decision. When the husbands are not on the job the wives go anyway. Every member of McCredie's crew is bothered with sore muscles and colds. Yet in spite of the handicap of the weather the team continues to play winning ball. If they can win in freezing weather what hopes have the other fellows when the team goes South, where the humidity will take the kink out of their sore joints. "If your ball team had a hard time beating Princeton, we'll make you like it this week. It's just like an off day for Los Angeles to lick the stuffin' out of the Seals." The mad mutterings of Happy Hogan. Few people who saw Jesse Garrett pitch his Sunday game knew that the little Texan was working with an arm so lame that he could hardly get anything on the ball. It was just pure gameness that made him stick it out. OMA Brick Devereaux is having his troubles as manager of a lot of bushers. Friday he took a poke at the Ump and the constable came along and chased Brick out of the lot. The painting of the Forth bridge cost $16,000. Swell tan shoes at Rosenthal's.
