CHURCH CONFERENCE NEXT MONTH.—Preparations are being made to hold the annual Oregon conference of the United Brethren Churches at the First United Brethren Church, East Fifteenth and East Morrison streets, beginning Thursday, July 2. Rev. H. C. Shaffer, the pastor, announces that the committees on arrangements are now at work preparing for the conference, which will be the most important gathering of this denomination held in this state. Among those who will be present are Dr. W. S. Funk, of Dayton, O.; Bishop William Belle, D. D., and Bishop N. Castle. During the conference, the Second Church, now being built at Vernon, under the direction of Rev. B. E. Emerick, will be dedicated, and probably the cornerstone of the Third Church in the Mount Scott district will be laid. The question of federation and ultimate organic union with the Evangelical and Methodist Protestant churches will be considered.

STREET WORK AT MONTAVILLA.—According to the present plans many streets are to be improved in Montavilla this year. Six streets between the Base Line road and Villa avenue are to be improved: Grove, Broad, Spencer, Olney, Hunter, Casin and Mohle, three north and south and three east and west. Petitions are being circulated to have the work done under one contract so the cost will not be so great as where single streets are improved. The improvement of Rosenthal street has been postponed for the present owing to the opposition that has developed. In addition to these streets a movement is under way for the improvement of East Seventy-eighth street, between the Base Line road and East Glisan, and also East Seventy-second street, between East Glisan and Hassalo. The cost of these improvements will run above $25,000.

LOCAL HOTELS FULL.—Local hotels yesterday reported very little less demand for rooms than marked last week when the city was full of strangers. Tourists, traveling salesmen and members of grand lodges of Masonic bodies have kept the hotels filled up, and the condition is likely to remain unchanged for at least another week or two. Yesterday at some of the hotels patronized by traveling salesmen there were heard loud complaints at the desks on account of all the samplerooms being engaged and no immediate prospect of having them vacated. Relief will come by resorting to renting rooms in the vicinity of the hotels for use of the "knights of the grip."

TO OPEN PUBLIC BATHS.—Arrangements are being made by William Isensee, Edward Holman and Joseph Supple, to reopen the Portland Public Baths in the near future. It has been found that a number of repairs will be necessary before the baths can be opened to the public. An effort was made last year to have the City Council take over the property, but nothing came of it. The baths were repaired at the beginning of last season at a cost of $1000. The remaining indebtedness was recently paid off by Messrs. Holman, Isensee and Supple. A report of the subscriptions and disposition of the funds so secured will be published soon. It will be necessary to raise another fund in order to put the baths in condition before they can be opened for the Summer.

ROSE ISSUE OF SCHOOL PAPER.—The June number of the Lens, the East Portland High School paper, has just been issued and shows improvement over the initial numbers. On the front page is a picture appropriate to the Rose Festival, while the contents begin with a poem by Mary C. Davis entitled, "Where the Roses Grow." Among the articles are several on topics connected with the Rose Festival, including "The War of the Roses," by W. Homar Maris and "Why Portland Has a Rose Festival," Edward Garcia. The editorial comments also contain articles about the rose. This number which is the concluding one of the year is well illustrated.

CHARGED WITH STEALING COAT.—Charles T. Lenahan returned from a visit to San Francisco Saturday, and yesterday afternoon was arrested by Acting Detective Smith on a sworn warrant charging him with having stolen an overcoat belonging to J. F. V. Thompson. Lenahan is a man of good appearance. As it was Sunday he could not secure bail, whereupon Captain Slover, acting on the advice of Chief Gritzmacher, permitted him to go on his own recognizance.

IDAHO NORMAL CLOSES

Commencement Exercises at Lewiston During This Week.

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 7.—(Special.)—The principal attraction during the Lewiston State Normal's commencement week, which begins today, will be the senior class play, Tennysons "Foresters," to be given at the Temple theater the evening of June 8, under the direction of Miss Aurelia Henry, of the Department of Elocution.

The Baccalaureate address was delivered by Rev. A. A. Morrison, Ph.D., of Portland.

Tuesday evening President Black will hold a reception at Lewis Hall, and Wednesday at 10 A. M. the school will formally close with the graduation exercises of the senior class and the commencement address on the "Democracy of Education," by Professor E. H. Sisson, Ph.D., of the University of Washington.

Portland People Lured Out of Doors

First Real Summer Sunday, After Long, Cloudy Spell, Attracts Thousands to Various Recreation Places.

AFTER a week of the Rose Festival, Portlanders took advantage of the first Summer Sunday of the season yesterday to visit the parks and outdoor places of recreation. Shady spots were at a premium.

It was just such a day as Portlanders have been longing for, however, and there were no complaints. Residents of the city have been begging for weeks for a Summer Sunday and when they got one yesterday they were thankful. It was a great day for the streetcar companies. Eight thousand people packed the City Park cars and three times as many more went out to the Oaks and Council Crest. Five thousand others went to the baseball game. It is impossible to estimate the number that formed launch parties, went rowing or joined excursions on the river. The Willamette, as far as the eye could see, was dotted with pleasure craft of all descriptions.

Those who went to the City Park lay on the lawns under the sheltering trees or else busied themselves with feeding and watching the animals. The monkey family was in clover. There were peanuts galore and many other delicacies that are always associated with a park-going crowd. The proud peacocks, their tails aloft, strutted around before hundreds of eyes. The bears in their pit did not seem to mind the approach of civilization and were willing to sit on their haunches and partake of whatever the crowd thought fit to throw their way.

"Brown's Vacation" at the Star

THE Armstrong company seems to be holding the clientele it has succeeded in recruiting here in a most satisfactory manner. Large audiences were present yesterday afternoon and last night to see the latest effort, "Brown's Vacation." It is the customary entertaining hodge-podge of jokes, dialogue, funny situations and song numbers. It opens with an attractive medley and dance by the chorus, attractively arrayed in new dresses, and from that time things go with a whoop and hurrah. The comedians work overtime to keep the audience laughing, and the chorus is always up and doing. Of course, the plot is a very shadowy affair as is always the case with a show of this kind, but there is enough of it on which to string the songs and gags.

The Armstrong brothers appear as Mr. Brown, a gay dog, away from home on a good time, and Mr. Hogan, an exaggerated Irishman, who aids and abets him. Nick Cogley, a new member of the cast, plays Deacon Jones in a most satisfactory manner, while Magdaline Holly and Ethel Davis contribute their full share of the entertainment.

Among the song hits are "Mary Carey," "Way Down in Chinatown" and the "Anvil Chorus." The same bill continues throughout the week.

HANGS HERSELF TO BED

Minnie Belle Travers, Despondent, Suicide in Sanitarium.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—(Special.)—By hanging herself to the head of her bed at the Sound View Sanitarium, 106 Sixteenth avenue, North, Minnie Belle Travers, 20 years old, ended her life this morning. When found by one of the nurses she was dead.

Miss Travers was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Burbank, of 3349 Angeline street, Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Burbank and their niece, who had lived with them since she was a little child, arrived here from Utah last September. The young woman had been suffering from melancholia and depression. Her relatives believed that a change of air would benefit her and that was one of the reasons for their moving here.

In Seattle Miss Travers became worse and three weeks ago her guardians decided to place her in a sanitarium. They secured a room for her at the institution on Sixteenth avenue, North, where she was taken.

BY ARTHUR A. GREENE.

AN ever-welcome friend is back again at the Baker for the week. It is Clyde Fitch's one rural comedy and one of his most successful pieces, "Lover's Lane." Everyone who has patronized the theater in the last decade is supposed to be familiar with the plot and the people. The broad-minded, purposeful young clergyman and his choleric but tender-hearted sister, the lovable schoolmistress, the unhappy Mrs. Woodbridge and her crippled son and worthless husband, the henpecked old storekeeper, the diverting Mr. Skillig, "opry-house" manager and billposter; the ancient lovers, Aunt Melissy and Uncle Bill; the heydenish Simplicity, Deacon Steele of the "meetin' house;" Molly Mealy, who sings in the choir; the strong-minded ladies of the sewing circle and church council, and all the rest.

Almost everyone remembers the minister's heart-breaking efforts to bring his stiff-necked congregation to a saner and happier religion, of his love for Mary Larkin, his unselfish kindness to everyone, the story of his "churchings," and his final victory over bigotry and the obstacles in the path of true love. It is a very simple play, but there is a lot of heart in it and much honestly-depicted human nature. It lacks stirring climaxes, but at no stage lacks interest. Whatever of bitterness appears is sweetened at the end, which leaves one with the restful feeling that comes from the quiet of the country and the music of village church-bells.

"Lover's Lane is a thoroughly wholesome and helpful play with some pathos and much gentle merriment; a play that deserves to survive. It is exceptionally well-acted by the Baker Company this week, even yesterday afternoon's performance running smoothly, with scarcely a hitch from beginning to end. It is a piece that actors like to act in, which may be said of all the Fitch plays, for he knows his stage by heart and never asks his characters to perform miracles.

Mr. Alison and Miss Jewel, in the roles of the Parson and Molly, were en rapport with their tasks and made the leads at all times the good and charming young people who leavened the perverse little Massachusetts community. Maribel Seymour claimed perhaps the largest part of the attention and applause for her delicious rendition of Simplicity. She suggested Lotta, as Lotta must have been in her prime. William Gleason had the audience in that responsive frame of mind where the crook of the finger set them off into peals of laughter. Uncle Bill is another of those creations which have placed Gleason pere in the front rank of American character actors. Howard Russell, Earl Dwire and James Gleason divided honors about equally among themselves in their interpretation of characteristic "rube" parts. Lucile Webster as Miss Mealy, the choir singer, and Gertrude Rivers as Aunt Melissa, added decidedly to the general excellence of the performance.

The production is another one of those best efforts of Director Dills and his staff, the orchard set, an especially difficult one, being exceptionally well-accomplished.

The company is already hard at work on Howard Russell's new play, "The Swindler," which will be given its first performance on any stage next week. Those who have read the manuscript believe that the popular young actor and writer has made a genuinely meritorious play and its production here will be attended with wide interest.
