East Side Thinks It Is Entitled to Larger Representation — Support for Livestock Association. Other Doings at Push Club.

After full discussion last night at the meeting of the United East Side Push Clubs, President W. L. Boise was authorized to appoint a commission of five to take up the question of the extension of Union avenue from the Willamette to the Columbia River, 80 feet wide, and also for the establishment of a boulevard in Albina extending northeast from the foot of Hancock street. This committee also was empowered to gather information as to the best way to proceed to secure a general system of boulevards all through the East Side, including the Peninsula. This measure was heartily indorsed by M. G. Munly, L. C. Fones, M. G. Griffin, L. E. Rice and others, who declared that now is the time to open these boulevards before property becomes more costly than at present.

On motion it was decided to be the sense of the club that the East Side should be redistricted so it should have in the City Council a larger representation. This matter will be taken up with City Attorney with a view to submitting it to an initiative vote probably in November.

In view of the great importance of another pipe line to Bull Run being constructed as soon as possible, it was voted that the City Attorney be asked to take steps to have the cases pending in the Supreme Court involving the water and bridge bonds advanced so a decision on the matter can be had as soon as possible. Resolutions were passed congratulating the East Side Business Men's Club and its president, C. A. Bigelow, for the fine parade it arranged during the Rose Festival on the East Side.

S. G. Reed and H. C. Campbell, of the Country Club and Livestock Association, addressed the club on the work of that organization. They also set forth what the association has undertaken at the Country Club's ground, and asked the co-operation of all East Side organizations. On motion, the secretary was instructed to communicate with affiliated clubs and ask that they do all they can to support the work undertaken by the Livestock Association. Mr. Campbell told something of what is being done on the ground, and urged all present to go in person and see for themselves.

Attention was called to the lecture by R. H. Thomsen, of Seattle, Thursday night, on the improvement of streets, and all were urged to attend. In the matter of the city taking over streets that had been improved with hard-surface pavements, L. E. Rice, chairman of the committee, announced that information was being gathered on the subject and a report would be made at a future meeting.

Resolutions from the Ironworkers' Trade Council were submitted favoring the contracts for making fire hydrants to local manufacturing plants, and will be considered at a future meeting.

ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

HUGH M. KIMBROUGH, PAINTER, COMMITS SUICIDE.

Out of Work and Said to Have Been Disappointed in Business, Young Man Grows Desperate.

Hugh M. Kimbrough, a painter, out of work, killed himself at midnight by firing a bullet into his brain. The suicide occurred on the porch of the house where Kimbrough resided, 352 Second street. The sound of the shot and the thud made by his falling body was heard by Florence and Laura Nudelman, sisters, who, with David and Gussie Weiser, their visitors, were sitting on the front steps of their house, 345 Second street, which is almost directly across the street.

Mr. Weiser and R. W. Johnson, of 232 Mill street, telephoned for the police. In the pocket of the dead man was found a card on which he had scribbled, "I belong to the Modern Woodmen." Deputy Coroner A. L. Finley, who hurried to the scene, learned that the young man's mother, Mrs. E. J. Kimbrough, lives in Lewiston, Ill.

Kimbrough was about 27 years old and had been living in Portland about two years. At one time he had been in business in the firm of Kahler & Kimbrough, contracting painters, with offices at 1234 East Tenth street, North, but the firm's business was not a success and of late he had been working at his trade by the day. According to the people in the same house, he had had no work at all during the past couple of weeks. It is believed that, in addition to his financial distress, Kimbrough was actuated somewhat in his deed because of love affairs.

Rose Eytinge in Recital

BY J. M. QUENTIN.

SOMEHOW, what are known as readings or evenings spent hearing elocutionary effort are rare in Portland. We have so many musicales, piano, vocal, etc., that it seems to me Shakespeare and Browning are nearly neglected these days. Last night I had the great pleasure of attending a recital given by Rose Eytinge and her pupils at 564 Flanders street, on which occasion Miss Eytinge was assisted by Miss Sarah Glance, contralto.

Those of us who have good memories know of the distinguished position which Rose Eytinge has occupied on the American stage, and the celebrities with whom she has acted. Her ideals have always been of the best and her art has pleasantly mellowed with the years. Portland is again honored in having her once more a resident, and I hope this time that she will make this her permanent home, where she has so many loyal friends. Last night Rose Eytinge had neither footlights, scenery nor costume to help her in her readings, but so potent was the charm that these accessories were never missed. Her voice and conversational charm were better than an orchestra.

Along with Miss Edna Irvine, Miss Eytinge gave a scene from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" and Elizabeth B. Browning's "Lord Walter's Wife," and as an individual reading Miss Eytinge gave "The Nightingales." All these selections were rendered with rare intelligence and personal charm.

Mrs. Katherine Tranchell and Miss Mabel Selover also were successful in their readings, Miss Selover in addition singing two songs. Miss Sarah Glance sang "You and Love" (D'Hardelot) with fine vocalism, and her encore was "My Rose of Yestere'en," by Marie Rich. Miss Selover has a pleasant soprano voice. All those who participated in the programme were cordially received.

NEW TODAY.

PALOUSE FALLS

The new town in Adams County, will soon have three railroads running through it. Don't take our word for it, but send to the State Railroad Commissioner, Olympia, Wash., for 1908 railroad map, and see for yourself. Then, after you are satisfied on this point, buy all the lots your pocketbook will allow.

$50 is the starting price, $10 down and $2 per month will pay for one. You can't help making money on this investment. But get in right away.

If you want irrigated fruit land, buy a 5 or 10-acre tract at

PALOUSE ORCHARDS

Just across the river from the town.

Our low prices and easy terms will help you.

$10 per acre down and a little each month is all you need to pay, and you get a perpetual water right with the land. Remember, you don't have to wait for water and transportation. They are there now.

Soil, elevation, water, railways and the general trend of development assure a big future. Get in now, while the price is low. Call or write for our circulars if you are interested—they are free, and will give you valuable information.
