SAN FRANCISCO, June 17 .- (Special.) For 15 innings the Commuters and the Beavers fought and struggled on the diamond without result. After the last Caklander had been retired, Umpire Jack O'Connell, seeing that it would only make a farce out of the game to attempt prolong it, called time. The contest had one of the most peculiar finishes ever seen on any lot and the bone headed play made by Haley spoiled Oakland's chance to break it up.

Cook was on third and Hardy on second and one down, when Haley came to bat. He lined one down to Cooney, forcing Cook at the plate. Instead of gunning his own hit out, Haley deliber-Lely walked to the bench. Naturally Van Haltren and other members of the Cakiand team came within an ace of making a punching bag out of Haley's face, but they took compassion on the poor boob and let it go at that.

Contest Is Spectacular.

Throughout the contest was replete with spectacular incidents and WAS chock full of rattling good baseball. The only bad feature was the time, the game consuming no less than three hours and minutes,-the most time ever taken by a ball game since the National pastime was introduced to San Franisco 40 years ago. The batters on both teams were won to loom up dangerouly at times and then fade away under the bewitching curves of the opposing pitchers. Garrett, who was being pounded hard by the Commuters, was replaced by Groom in the eighth and after that time Oakland landed but one run and that came about through the wildness of the long boy. Hardy was a wonder after the seventh, holding the heavy-hitting Beavers to two scratch hits from that time on. He used a floater that reminded the fans of Ham Iberg in his palmy days. Slattery had three chances to break up the game but Groom and Garrett walked him purposely every time

Tie Game With Oakland Loses Team First Place. That 15-inning draw battle between Portland and Oakland and Los Angeles taking the Seals down the line yanked us back into second place. The hold we have on that position is still pretty se-cure, but with McCredie using up two pitchers in one game, there is a grave chance that his pitching staff will be shot to pieces before the Oakland series is through. According to the dispatch from Sar

Francisco. the only thing that kept us from getting our percentage figures jolt-ed was Haley's mutt play. Whether this was done deliberately remains to be seen. Haley hasn't been satisfied with his berth and it may develop that he did this berth and it may develop that he did this trick to obtain his release. While Haley may be charged with a boob play, Groom was responsible for the run that gave the Oaks a chance to the the game into a bast of his wildness. Los Angeles seems to be turning the tables on the Seals, and they will be exceptionally lucky if they break even. The local fans, however, need not wotry, for Hen Berry's hired men are only a little over one game to the good.
