Among early telegrams were those from Speaker Cannon, Senator Knox and Governor Hughes, all of whom had been opponents of Mr. Taft. Each one of them cordially congratulated Mr. Taft upon his success and pledged him unfailing support in the campaign yet to come.

"Of all the men who were formally proposed for the nomination, Secre-tary Taft is unquestionably the strong-est. He has an admirable record and has exerted a very important influence in the development of those policies through which the Republicans hope to win the election. The President has supported him, not in order to exhibit his power as a politician, but because he believes in him and admires him.

Though it would be foolish to deny that the nomination on the first ballot was due to Roosevelt, it is absurd to speak of Taft as if he were a mere puppet of Roosevelt. Such talk will count for nothing in the campaign, because it is impossible to belittle a man of Taft's character and achievements."

It was stated positively that he would have the support of the entire delegation from his own state, and it was stated by Chairman Woodruff that he would get Oklahoma solid and that he would have votes from many other states specifically mentioned—Pennsylvania, illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Colorado and many of the New England and nomination has been discussed and many as are the assertions and denials there have been concerning the attitude of the Secretary of War toward him, there is a strong impression that the Iowa Senator was the real preference of the nominee for the first place, and most of Mr. Taft's friends were willing to accept Mr. Dolli-ver if he should be indicated by the Secretary, even though his nomination should make as much trouble in Iowa as has been predicted.

The lows men were not prepared for the movement in behalf of their candi-date, and they were actively engaged in heading it off. They held a meeting during the day and declared for Mr. Cummins, but when they began a can-vass in his behalf did not find general ncouragement.

Fairbanks Stock Goes Down.

There was still talk in favor of There was still talk in layor of Vice-President Fairbanks, but his stock went down before the frequently-ex-pressed opinion that the Secretary would not give him the preference of his indorsement. There was some re-sentment among the Taft people over wald wash, June 18.—(Special.)—"Marion Barnes is not to be found in this county," was the telegram received here this evening from W. E. Shutt, Sheriff of Morrow County, Or., in reply to a message asking whether the missing man had located there, as has been told by his brother, "Bud." who is in the county jall awaiting a second trial for the murder of Mrs. Anna Aldrich tion today, and it was evident that unless the Taft men should become convinced of the wisdom of renominating the Vice-President in the interest of the ticket, he would not be chosen. There were those among Mr. Taft's friends who were willing to say that Mr. Fairbanks could do more for the ticket than anyone else, and they contended for his nomination, even in the face of criticisms and differences of opinion. Those nearest to the Secre

There was no intimation tonight but what Massachusetts would present Govwhat Massachusetts would present Gov-ernor Guild's name to the convention. President."

The Iowa delegation in caucus tonight finally went on record for Governor Cum-mins as their candidate for Secretary mins as their candidate for Secretary Tatt's running mais. The vote was unanimous. The firm stand taken by a majority of the delegation against Mr. Dolliver because of the political situation in Iowa and Mr. Dolliver's own announcement that he did not desire the nomination, made necessary the meeting in order that a candidate might be decided upon.

Having in mind the understood preference of the administration for Governor Cummins, his name was fully discussed. At no time did the opponents of Senator Dolliver waver. DOCTOR'S first duty to eradicate a disease from the body is to ascertain the cause of that disease and remove the cause.

Good coffee is a blessing-a necessity-an every day luxury, but coffee cannot be good or wholesome or pure unless the bitter herbal matter is first removed. This byproduct is the root of all evil so far as coffee goes. It not only spoils good coffee but brings about ill effects-biliousness-shattered nerves.

If you want pure coffee, free from this herbal matter, be sure and ask for Puri-tan-ated Brand Coffee.
