WILL HOPS ADVANCE?

No One Has Yet Followed Paul Horst's Lead.

MARKET IS VERY CRITICAL

It Would Take Little to Turn the Scale Either Way—Conditions in Europe and in New York State.

There is a strong undercurrent in the 1908 hop market, though business is not extensive. It is said that not to exceed 500 or 600 bales have been contracted for since the market reached 9 cents. The advance of a cent in futures had the effect of so stiffening the views of growers as to make it almost impossible to contract at any price. So far as can be learned, no one has yet followed Paul Horst's lead in paying 9 cents, but it would not be surprising if some of the other large buyers would meet or exceed this price in the near future. It is regarded in the trade as almost a certainty that the market will reach 10 cents, but what it will do after that is a question.

The market has reached a critical period. Prices may soon go up or they may go down, and it would take very little to turn the scale either way. The world's production this year will be materially less than that of 1907, but it remains to be seen whether there will be any actual shortage. The factors that may operate against the market are the large reserve stocks in the possession of brewers and the decreased consumption. On the other hand these can be offset by a very small crop in England. The latest cable advices from that country reported the crop looking well. The Kentish Observer, in its issue of June 11, gave the following plantation reports, among others:

Ash-Next-Sandwich—The bine has made wonderful strides during the week, so fast in fact, that training has got considerably in arrear. We are evidently (as far as present appearances point) in for another bumper crop similar to 1899 and 1901; so rapidly has the bine grown that already some heads in the Bramlings are swinging over the top wire. The fly has left sufficient deposit to make washing imperative. If the crop is to be saved it will need some of the old bulldog tenacity to face the expense at the present ridiculous prices. The neighboring parishes of Elmstone and Preston have sustained severe damage through the hailstorm last week. One garden visited had nearly every head cut off and the foliage torn to pieces, and the ground panned so badly that all the labor expended in listing is as good as thrown away.

Canterbury—The bine started slowly at first, but the hot weather and warm rains forced it along at a very great pace. There has been a check during the last few days, and the leaves do not look quite such a good color. There is a sprinkling of fly, and the washing machines are being got ready. Cultivation excellent in some gardens, in some rather behind.

Littlebourne—The variations of temperature are not conducive to healthy progress, but nevertheless the bine is growing, and in the well-farmed grounds keeps a good color.

Northiam—The bines have made amazing strides in growth of late, but the cooler temperature of the last few days has affected them. As a rule they have started evenly, and have now more than caught up their lost time, and are of good color on the whole. There are a good many fly at places.

North Hereford—Bine is looking very yellow owing to the cold winds and the changeable temperature. The blight still keeps very bad and washing is almost general.

Sheldwich (Faversham district)—The bine grows with warm nights, but the weather is too changeable, and there are more fly. The bine at places looks like being slack.

Wingham—The cold winds of last Saturday turned the hops yellow and untwisted the bines from the strings, which causes a lot of extra labor to get them back again. There is a quantity of fly and lice come in the last few days, but the bine continues to grow well.

Crop conditions in New York are reported by state papers as follows:

Waterville—Still there is nothing unfavorable reported from the hop yards. The vine is certainly looking well and growing well, the tops of the poles in some yards are already reached which is quite unusual as early in the season as this. So far then the prospects are all that can be desired.

Cooperstown—The vine is rapidly creeping up the poles and along the strings, giving promise for a fruitful season, if something doesn't happen.

Oneida—A drive through the country surrounding this city proves that hops are already in many instances up over the tops of the poles and apparently strong and healthy.

Sherburne—The hop yards in this vicinity are looking remarkably well, the vines being well up the poles. There are not many yards around here just now.

Franklin County—Hop vines are shooting up the poles at a surprising rate and it has been many years since the growing crop looked as promising at this date as it does at this time in most yards. Our Central New York exchanges state that there will be a largely decreased acreage in that section, but that the yards that have been retained are looking exceptionally well.

GOOD PRICE PAID FOR VALLEY WOOL

Bids at the Auction Sales at Ontario and Weiser.

A wool pool of 4000 fleeces was sold at Scio at the unusually high price of 15 3-5 cents per pound. In view of the low quotations current earlier in the season, the growers in the Scio pool are very well pleased with the transaction.

At the Ontario sale the prices ranged from 10¾ to 16¼c. J. H. Seward, who runs his sheep in Barren Valley, secured the highest price for his clip from Orcutt, of Boston. Over a million pounds were sold at private sale.

At the wool sale at Weiser 741,000 pounds were offered, and 274,000 pounds were sold. Bids on 467,000 pounds were rejected by the growers. A. Butterfield offered 180,000 but the bids were unsatisfactory and he rejected all of them. Prices ranged from 7½ to 13¾ cents, Nat Webb, of Heppner, Or., receiving the latter figure for his clip. S. F. Frankenstein, representing Hecht, Liebmann & Co., of Boston, secured 104,000 pounds.

POULTRY MARKET QUOTED STEADY

Some Improvement in Demand, but Higher Prices Might Check Sales.

The poultry market continues to show a better tone, as compared with last week, but there is no improvement in prices and any material advance now would doubtless check the demand.

The inquiry for eggs is small, and as receipts continue light, prices remain about steady.

Butter is active and firm at the old prices. Trade advices from the East report the market there as wavering. Should New York and Chicago prices break, as some authorities expect, it will have a weakening effect on values in this section.

Cheese is quoted at unchanged prices. Local stocks are large and more cheese is coming, but no one in the trade is prepared to say yet that the market will decline.

Better Demand for Summer Fruits.

Business was of fair proportions in the fruit line yesterday. There were no carlot receipts, but supplies of nearly every description were good. The strawberry market showed a stronger tone and good fruit sold readily at $1.25@1.75 per crate. Cantaloupes are being worked off at a wide range of $1.50 to $2.25 per crate, according to quality. Deciduous fruits generally were unchanged in price.

Secretary Muller Returns.

Secretary Fred Muller, of the Board of Trade, returned yesterday from Eugene. While there he met all the Eugene members of the Board, and they expressed themselves as well satisfied with the workings of the organization.

Linseed Oil Declines.

A decline of 2 cents per gallon in linseed oil was announced yesterday by the Portland Linseed Oil Works. Raw oil in barrels is now quoted at 51 cents and boiled in barrels at 53 cents.

Bank Clearings.

Clearings of the Northwestern cities yesterday were as follows:

Demand for Securities Is Almost Stagnant.

AND OFFERINGS SMALL

J. P. Morgan's Optimistic Views Have Strengthening Effect on Prices, and Gains, Though Small, Are Held.

NEW YORK, June 25.—The shifting fluctuations in prices today marked the lack of speculative conviction on the part of the small operators who made up the stock market. Part of the idleness and indifference of the trading is attributable to the seasonable desire for vacation leisure. Demand for securities is almost stagnant. The professional traders who were disposed to operate on the bear side of the market under these circumstances are timid about making committments, owing to the small floating supply of stocks and the occasional demonstration of the extent to which favorable factors have been discounted in the price level.

The action in American Locomotive today served as an object lesson to bear traders who did not observe sufficient caution in selling stocks short. The declaration of the usual quarterly dividend on that stock proved an agreeable surprise to some holders and a correspondingly unpleasant shock to the bears who have assumed with great confidence that the dividend was to be reduced or even passed. The basis for this assumption was the known heavy decline in traffic of the railroads, their forced resort to economies and their selection for first observance of these economies of the usual expenditures for new equipment. The strength of the American Car was partly in sympathy, notwithstanding the different policy already pursued by that company in a reduction of the dividend rate.

There was nothing new to explain the weakness of the Rock Island securities, but it gave color to repeated rumors of a reorganization of the company's finances in prospect. Reports of crop news and allegations of extensive damage to Winter wheat had some influence in the stock market at one time.

J. P. Morgan was reported, on the eve of his return to Europe, as declaring himself optimistic over the financial outlook, and this utterance was of effect in the late firmness of the market, which was held until the close. The day's gains were small, as a rule, but last prices generally were the best.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,438,000. United States 3s declined ¾ on call.

WHEAT SELLS OFF

Slack Demand by Millers and Exporters.

WEAK NEARLY ALL DAY

Ideal Weather Conditions Are Responsible for Selling Pressure. Corn and Oats Prices Also Break.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The wheat market was weak all day with the exception of moderate firmness at the start, due to an advance at Liverpool. The feature of trade was heavy selling of July by several prominent commission houses and by a leading long. The ideal weather conditions in the Winter and Spring wheat territories were chiefly responsible for the selling pressure, but an extremely slack demand for cash wheat by millers and exporters also inspired considerable selling. The market closed weak. July opened ⅛@⅜c lower at 85⅝@85¾c, sold up to 86¼@86¼c and then declined to 85¼c, closing at 85¼@85⅜c.

Corn was weak all day. July closed near the bottom at 68¼c.

The weakness of wheat and corn offset unfavorable crop news and caused a weak market for oats. July closed at 45¼c.

Provisions were firm early, but weakened later because of the decline in grain. At the close, September pork was off 10c and lard and ribs were both 7½c lower.

CLUB IS SOLID FOR TAFT

Forty-fifth Precinct Republicans Support His Candidacy.

At a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Forty-fifth Precinct Republican Club Wednesday night, in the hall on East Twenty-seventh and Powell streets, resolutions were adopted setting forth the importance of the coming Presidential election and declaring that Oregon ought to roll up a substantial Republican majority for William H. Taft for President. Allen R. Joy delivered the principal address of the evening, and dwelt at length on National politics. He pointed out the place Oregon had occupied in the past and urged that Republicans stand by their party.

Henry S. Westbrook gave a comprehensive review of W. H. Taft's official life, setting forth that he is one of the ablest and best equipped men in public life. He predicted that if elected, which he surely would be, Mr. Taft would carry out the Roosevelt policies and his own as well, and that he would act independently on all public questions. Mr. Westbrook's remarks were heartily applauded.

The sentiment of the meeting was that the club should hold regular meetings twice a month from now until the Presidential election. A committee on arrangements was appointed.

DR. RICHARD BURTON HERE

Professor of English Literature Lectures Tomorrow.

Dr. Richard Burton, professor of English literature at the University of Minnesota, arrived in Portland last night and is at the Nortonia. He will deliver a lecture Saturday night or, as he terms it, a dramatic recital.

Dr. Burton is an authority on modern drama and has published several important works on that subject. The subject of his lecture will be "Romance," half of which will be devoted to readings and the other half to criticisms of Booth Tarkington's novel, "Monsieur Baucaire." Mr. Tarkington's story was selected, according to Dr. Burton, because it is the best story in the language to illustrate his point.

"In his dramatic interpretation Richard Mansfield changed the ending of the story," said Dr. Burton. "The change, according to my opinion, was by no means beneficial and I know that Mr. Tarkington felt the same way about it. However, Mr. Mansfield insisted upon the change and had his own way. It is really a beautiful ending to the story and my reading will include that portion."

Dr. Burton will leave for San Francisco on Sunday. It is his first trip to the Pacific Northwest.
