United States Marshal Expects to Place Other Southern Oregon Persons in Custody Soon as He Can Locate Them.

ROSEBURG, Or., June 26.—(Special.)

United States Deputy Marshal W. E. Griffith, of Eugene, today arrested three Roseburg citizens, Louis Kohlhaugen, Joseph Gilpin and L. S. Shipley, on indictments returned against the men in the Government land-fraud cases.

These arrests are the result of the rush for Jackson and Josephine County lands which were filed upon at the Land Office in this city last April.

Marshall Griffith admitted today that he has warrants of arrest for other persons in land cases, but he declined to make known the names of the parties until or when they reside.

ACCUSED OF JUMPING CLAIMS

Defendants Swore Land Was Unoccupied and Unimproved.

Kohlhaugen, Shipley and Gilpin were indicted with several others, who have not been apprehended, for making false affidavits either as principals or as witnesses in connection with filing on timber claims in Southern Oregon.

The land alleged to have been filed on improperly was included in a tract which was recently thrown open to settlement by the Government. Under the rules governing the filing on such lands, bona fide settlers who had located on the different tracts and had made improvements, had a preference right of 90 days in which formally to file on the land.

MEET NEXT IN ALBANY

OREGON TEACHERS SELECT LINN COUNTY CITY.

Officers Chosen by Acclamation—W. W. Wiley, of Tillamook, President.

EUGENE, Or., June 26.—(Special.)—The second day of the session of the Oregon State Teachers' Association opened with even a larger attendance than yesterday.

At the business meeting Albany was selected for the next annual meeting, the invitation coming from the Albany Commercial Club, through Superintendent A. M. Sanders, who said:

Albany expects to treat the teachers as well as the people of Eugene have done, for no better treatment can be accorded.

Officers of the association were elected as follows by acclamation: President, W. W. Wiley, of Tillamook; vice-president, Superintendent E. T. Moore, of Salem; second vice-president, Dr. H. D. Sheldon, University of Oregon; treasurer, Margaret J. Cospier, Salem.

President R. F. Robinson in his annual address recalled the progress of the increasing the irreducible school fund as one of the most pressing before the people of the state.

President Robinson said that the "moral question" that all schools had to face was largely dependent upon the habits and quality of the pupil's reading.

Other important addresses were by Dr. Sheldon on the school finances of the state, Dr. Hart on application of American historical geography, and President Campbell's stereotypical address on "Scientific Resources of Oregon."

BANKERS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION Oregon Association, Nearly Hundred Strong, Convenes in Capital City.

VREELAND BILL FLYED Arthur Reynolds, President of Des Moines National, Picks Plans in Emergency Currency Measure Passed by Recent Congress.

The relation of the business community to the local banker is somewhat different from that entertained toward those engaged in other lines of endeavor. The local banker is the guardian of the property of others and he, like the mariner, scans the horizon for the signs of the times and, as has been said, sets his net to spread his full sails as the signs indicate financial storms or smooth sailing.

SALEM, Or., June 26.—(Special.)

Nearly 100 bankers gathered in Salem today for the annual session of the State Bankers' Association. The first committee of the American Bankers' Association to be heard before the Senate committee. "The Ideal Country Banker" was the subject of an interesting and practical address by W. O. Jones, assistant cashier of the National Park Bank of New York.

The age in which we live is one tinged with hero worship and one in which we have been accustomed to ascribe the highest glory to the warrior with pomp and splendor. The list of the world's heroes, however, is not entirely confined to those who achieve distinction in war and conquest.

The city banker has been a favorite theme for many years. The present appears to me an opportune time to bring the country banker into the limelight of publicity.

REYNOLDS FLAYS ALDRICH BILL

The treatment of "The Unsettled Currency Question" by Arthur Reynolds, president of the Des Moines National Bank, Des Moines, Ia., one of the leading members of the currency commission of the American Bankers' Association, and a gentleman enjoying a National reputation as a currency expert, was a most exhaustive explanation of our present currency system and needs for new currency issues.

Mr. Reynolds designated the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill, passed at the last session of Congress, as "an emergency currency bill," an unscientific makeshift, discrediting the ability of our lawmakers and the banking fraternity, a patch upon the coat of Joseph, a legislative bastard.

Mr. Reynolds asserted that on account of the fluctuation in the price of bonds they are an unsafe asset to issue, currency upon; also that the tax provided under the Vreeland part of the bill is unwarranted and prohibitive.

Explains Uncovered Credit Notes. Mr. Reynolds said that our bond-secured currency is regulated only by the price of bonds and not by needs for currency. He contended that while assets may be deposited, it is cumbersome and expensive and, as shown by issues of foreign banks and early issues by state banks, is unnecessary.

Uncovered credit notes, being a plan proposed by the American Bankers' Association Commission, is a currency based upon a gold reserve subject to daily redemptions in gold. It provides a 5 per cent guarantee fund and a low tax which, according to tax paid by National banks for 26 years, is many times more than necessary and a high tax would retard redemption.

Mr. Reynolds' arguments were received very favorably by the bankers present and were heartily applauded. Mr. Reynolds has presented this subject before the Idaho, Washington and Oregon conventions, and is said to have accomplished much for credit currency in the Pacific Northwest. Mr. Reynolds, criticized the methods exercised by Senator Aldrich, in not permitting the accredited Immensely American. That's IMPERIALES CIGARETTES from the world go. True enough, their blend contains Oriental tobacco. But they are made in a way distinctively American—pure and clean throughout—with thin, pure mair paper—crimped, not patted—and with individual mouthpieces to insure a cool, clean smoke. Their fame is rapidly becoming national as well, although they are primarily recognized as a Western favorite. Smoke them all day long if you want to—no after effects.
