Erickson was arrested by Patrolman Leavins, at the City Park shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When taken to the police station, Erickson confessed to Detectives Smith and Kay that he had stolen the watch at the house on Main street, and also admitted that he was the man wanted for having stolen a watch street, and also admitted that he was the man wanted for having stolen a watch and chain from $3 Park street. Both thefts were committed Thursday. Erickson rented a room from Mrs. A. E. Borthwick, $3 Park street, and shortly after taking possession stole a watch from the room of another lodger. He then went to the house of G. H. Williams, 490 Main street, where he repeated the trick. He was pointed out by Williams, who ran across him accidentally at the park. Detectives Smith and Kay had been on the case and were looking for him when he was arrested.

EXTENSIVE STREET WORK.-The PLAN EXTENSIVE STREET WORK.—The Holladay-Irvington Improvement Association will hold a meeting tonight in the clubhouse on Thompson street, and hear reports. Since the last meeting, A. N. Gambell has been employed as assistant secretary, and he has started his work to secure the paving of streets in the district. He will have charge of the details of the work of preparing petitions and of the work of preparing petitions and putting them in circulation. It is estimated that it will take two years to carry out the plan of the association which is to improve the whole district including 20 miles of streets, with a uniform pavement. At the meeting tonight representatives of paving companies are to be present and submit propositions,

O NE of the most unique theatrical entertainments ever seen here was given at the Hellig last night when the New York company of Yiddish players presented as the opening bill of its engagement a carefully enacted performance of the Jewish-Spanish tragedy, "Kol-Nidre." The organization which is

"Kol-Nidre." The organization which is appearing here is composed of members of the company of which Adler was an illustrious member and from which Madame Bertha Kallsch graduated. Although there are only eight members of the cast they are selected with special care to the portrayal of parts which are trying to the best of acting skill.

J. White, who appears as Bartelio the court singer, in love with the chief inquisitor's daughter, is a leading man of much more than ordinary merit who possesses in addition an excellent singing voice which he uses to advantage. Ida Blum, the leading woman who plays Elvira, the daughter, displays such positive ability as an emotional actress that it is not necessary to understand the language to appreciate her efforts. Mr. Stone, who plays the Inquisitor, is perhaps the best actor in the company. He deserves to rank among the better known character actors and brings splendid intelligence. a good presence and e deserves to mank among the better nown character actors and brings splenaid intelligence, a good presence and expression to the interpretati fine expression to the interpretation of the iraschie old cardinal. Mr. Spivack, the comedian, seemed to please his audience by his rendition of the comedy lines. The plot is taken from Spanish-Jewish history of the time of Queen Isabelia and the Jewish inquisitions. The story tells of a most celebrated singer named Hartello, the favorite of the King and Court of Spain, who is in love with Elvira, the daughter of Paulus, head of the inquisition of the Catholic Church in Spain. He was formerly a Jewish rabbl, but was tion of the Cathode Charles was formerly a Jewish rabbi, but was converted to Christianity and attained that high and powerful station.

Paulus hating the great singer Bartello on account of his great influence and his personal magnitude toward all surhis personal magnitude to the rounding him, seeks to destroy him. With the aid of his subordinates he discovers that this Bartello, the object of a Jew in secret and lives in diskulse of a Caristion. (Known in Spanish Jewish history who since the tion. He also discovers the love of his only daughter toward this Bartello and accounts this also for the morose and dissatiated disposition of his daughter toward himself, which only tends to kindle the fire of hatred toward this unfortunate Bartello.

This Paulus then contrives a means by which he discovers the Jewish secret place of worship, which just happens on the eve of the Day of Atonement, popularly known as Koinidre eve.

Bartello then finds himself suddenly discovered in the middle of his services, the Scrolls are found which serve as the most emphatic proof of his crime, and he is led into prison awaiting the terrible judgment of being burned alive, to-gether with his beloved Elvira, who also Tonight's performance will be the Yiddish "La Tosca." To these who understand Yiddish the season will be a rare treat, indeed, and even to those who do not understand the pathos the skill of the players makes the presentation of the dramas quite intelligible.

Justice of Peace Reid Charged With Failure to Remit Fines.

ALLEGED SHORTAGE $300

J. W. Balley Says Records of His Office Show Failure of Official to Turn in Money Collected for Pure Food Violations.

According to the records of the office of J. W. Balley, State Dairy and Food Commissioner, William Reid, retiring Justice of the Peace of this city, holds $300 fines which he has neglected to send to the State Treasurer as the law send to the State Treasurer as the law directs. The fines were imposed by Justice Reid during the last two years for violation of the pure food laws. Dairy Commissioner Balley reports that of a total of $1000 collected in fines by Justice Reid, only $700 has been turned over to the State Treasurer, leaving a balance of $300 unaccounted for. The alleged delinousney has been referred to ance of $300 unaccounted for. The alleged delinquency has been referred to Attorney-General A. M. Crawford, who will investigate the matter and try to effect a settlement between Mr. Reid and the state. Mr. Reid is said to have denied that he owes the state $300, insisting that Mr. Bailey's figures are faulty. The alleged shortage was discovered about three weeks ago by Mr. Bailey after checking up the records at the office of the State Treasurer with those of his own office. Mr. Bailey first went to Mr. Reid and demanded that he remit to the state immediately the alleged balance of $300, Mr. Beid made no satisfactory, reply, it is said. Then Mr. Bailey factory, reply, it is said. Then Mr. Bailey reported the matter to the Attorney-General, who has been requested to take the necessary steps to bring about a settlement.

Crawford to Investigate.

"This matter was referred to me last Priday," said Attorney-General Crawford, at the Imperial Hotel last night, "with the request that I investigate the facts and recover whatever funds may be owing to the state from Mr. Reid. I have not had time to examine the statutes relating to these the statutes relating to these fines and the manner in which they shall be re-mitted to the state authorities, and until I have done so cannot say what action will be taken."

When the sileged shortage was first called to the attention of the Attorney-General's office, I. H. VanWinkle, Assistant Attorney-General, expressed the opinion that an accounting could not be obtained with Mr. Reid until he relinquished his office, Mr. Reid's term expires today, when he will be succeeded by J. W. Bell, but the former has declared that he will not surrender the office, and will contest the election of his successor. For that reason, and if the opinion of the Assistant Attorney-General is confirmed by a further When the alleged shortage was first ney-General is confirmed by a further examination of the statutes, Mr. Reid can forestall a final settlement with the state until the contest he promises to make in order to retain the office has been determined. Mr. Reid is under $7000 bonds, which were furnished when he accepted the office. All of the fines collected for violations of the pure food laws of the state go to what is known as the "pure food fund," that is disbursed through State Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey. These fines aggregate about $700 a year, and three-fourths of the money is collected for violations of the law in Multnomah County. Of these funds, $250 is appropriated annually towards the salary of a special deputy com-missioner, who depends for the remainder of his compensation on the cream devoted to an enforcement of sanitary regulations in the dairies throughout the state, and in a general way to the improvement of the dairy industry, including the education of the farmers to the need of improving the quality of their herds. A part of the fund is expended in the laboratory that is maintained by Commissioner Bailey at his office in this city, and for his traveling expenses.

Record of Fines in Letters.

Practically all of the prosecutions for Practically all of the prosecutions for violations of the pure food law in this district were brought in Justice Reid's court. The plan adopted by Commissioner Bailey, who vouches for the correctness of his figures, was to advise the State Treasurer by letter of every case that was prosecuted successfully and a fine imposed Mr. Paller. and a fine imposed. Mr. Balley charges and a line imposed. Mr. Balley charges that the aggregate of the fines represented by these letters on file in the Treasurer's office is $1969, while the records of the same office show that only $700 has been received from Mr. Reid. The Dairy Commissioner is convinced that his figures are correct, if the fines that were imposed were said. the fines that were imposed were paid. He has been pressing Mr. Reld for a settlement for nearly a month, It was impossible last night to find Mr. Reid and obtain a statement from

Noisy Clock for Savage.

Plitsburg Dispatch.

Recently a London firm of clockmakers discovered that a rival German company was doing a large business in cheap clocks on the west coast of South Africa. After examining one of the clocks, they determined to give the native a better article than the German one, and felt sure of success. The sales were slow, while the Gegman article went of freely. At last the puzzle was went off freely. At last the puzzle was explained. The new clocks were too quiet. Those supplied by the Germans had a particularly aggressive tick, which satisfied the savage's love of toise. The noiseless clock was a better timeplece, but the savages would have aone of it. At the next shipment this was changed. Worth gave place to sound, and the German product became a drug on the market.

Methods of Hitchcock Steam Roller Defended.

TAFT SURE TO WIN ANYHOW

Steam Roller Merely Made Things Go More Smoothly Than They Would Have Done in Its Absence.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash ington, July 5 .- Undue importance has been attached to the 'Hitchcock steam roller that operated successfully at the Chicago convention," said a prominent Western Senator who was conspicuously identified with the Taft management Identified with the Taft management during the convention. "It is a mistake to attribute Taft's nomination to the steam-roller methods pursued by his managers. The result would have been the same had there been no roller, only there would have been greater friction and more factional trouble. The steam roller merely operated to smooth things over and to that extent it was eminently successful.

"Nothing short of a deadlock could have prevented the nomination of Taft, and a deadlock was necessary to nominate any one of the other candidates. Yet a safe, liberal majority of the delegates had been instructed for Taft, and under such circumstances a deadlock was not possible. The contest cases that came from Southern States were rank frauds, and no National committee no matter. and no National committee, no matter how constituted, would have dared un-seat the regularly-slected Taft men in order to make room for anti-Taft dele-gates who had no color of title to a seat in the convention. The National com-mittee did the only thing it could do; the steam roller merely helped the work

Hard to Pick Winner.

"I gave considerable study to the following of the opposing candidates at Chicago," said the Senator, "and am free to confess I could not pick the winner, had a deadlock ensued. There was not one among them who had any ma-terial following outside of his own state. Cannon aroused the most enthusiasm, but that was natural, as the convention was held in his own state. Hughes, in my opinion, was never in the running; even the delegates from New York were anxious for an excuse to bolt their instructions. The Pennsylvania crowd made little progress with the Knox b and Fairbanks was never taken seri-ously. There was a good deal of La Follette noise, one time and another, but I venture to say that La Follette w have made a very poor showing had Taft failed of nomination.

"On a break-up, supposing it had been "On a break-up, supposing it had been demonstrated that Taft could not be nominated, I believe the bulk of his strength would have gone to Cannon and to Knox. The Congressional contingent was largely in favor of Cannon, and there is no denying the personal popularity of the Speaker. At the same time, age was his heaviest handicap. Knox, on the other hand, stood head and shoulders above the other allies in point shoulders above the other allies in point of ability, and his ability was recognized by all the delegates.

Bore Corporation Brand.

Knox would have had the support of Knox would have had the support of delegates who disapproved of nominating a man 12 years of age, and those who wanted a man recognized as a leader of the legal fraternity. Had Knox not borne the reputation of being a "corporation" man, his following would have been much larger.

"But when all is said, it must be admitted that the 'ailles' were disorganized; they were in no shape to fight Taft. There was not one among them on whom they were ready to concentrate. There were petty lealousies; there were innumbrable leaders, and chaos prevalled. This very disorder among his enemies was a source of great strength to Taft. But that made no difference, for, as I stated before, Taft had a majority of the delegates piedged to support this beautiful to the second of the piedged to support the second of the support the second of the second jority of the delegates piedged to sup-port him; he knew the President would not accept a renomination, even had the convention been stampeded, and the convention had merely to register the will of the people as registered in their state conventions. The steam roller aided, but it did not shape the outcome."
